Nazi Probe Jury Hears Secretary of Rep. Hoffman

Helen Boyer Appears Twice; Authorized Use of His Frank On Isolationist Data

By Dillard Stokes
Post Staff Writer

Called before the special grand jury on Axis agents twice yesterday was Miss Helen Boyer, secretary of Representative Clare Hoffman (Republican), of Michigan.

Before the Pearl Harbor attack, Hoffman was an active isolationist. "We Burned Our Bridges Once" was the title of material he inserted in the Congressional Record last May.

Thirty thousand copies of this item were ordered last May 21 by George Hill, 45, former secretary of Representative Hamilton Fish, who admitted in the District Court a few weeks ago that he was the Capitol Hill purchasing agent for the jailed German agent, George Sylvester Viereck.

Miss Boyer Gave Authorization

Records of the Government Printing Office were placed in evidence against Viereck by Special Prosecutor William Power Maloney. These records showed that it was

HELEN BOYER
Rep. Hoffman's Secretary

Miss Boyer who gave the authorization for the use of Hoffman's frank.

The summoning of Miss Boyer for questioning indicated that the special grand jury was determined to unearth all the details of the operations of the German propaganda machine in the United States Congress.

Viereck is in jail, sentenced to two to six years, and has appealed. Hill—who first lied to the grand jury and later testified that Representative Fish ordered him to mail franked speeches for the German agent—is in prison for perjury.

Bank Official Heard

At yesterday's grand jury session, the first witness called by Prosecutor Maloney was an official of the bank which handled the account of the isolationist committee set up by Fish and other Congressmen shortly before Fish's trip to Germany in 1939.

U. S. in Cheese Business; Seizes Syracuse Plant

New York, April 2 (AP).—A Federal agency went into the cheese-making business today for the first time when the Milk Marketing Administration for the New York metropolitan area found that "the step was imperative to combat evil influences that are seeking to freeze small cooperatives out of their market."

With the consent of the owners of the Netherlands Dairy Co. plant in Syracuse, N. Y., Administrator N. J. Cladakis leased the cheese plant, which will begin operating under his control tomorrow.

"The program will be extended, if necessary, to assure dairy cooperatives a market for their milk and to make certain that the production of cheese and other dairy products for national defense and the lend-lease program continues," Cladakis asserted in a statement.

Cladakis reported that many cooperatives had been refused markets in New York City unless they agreed to supply the milk at less than cost, while several manufacturing plants in the milkshed had shut their doors on milk from these cooperatives.

Fight With House Reopened In Senate for More Clerks

Mail-besieged Senators yesterday resumed their battle with the House for additional Senate office help by writing a special $196,800 appropriation into the House-approved legislative appropriation bill.

An extra $1800 clerk for each of the 96 Senators was provided in the $27,696,048 measure reported to the Senate by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

On a population basis, the committee then allotted two additional $1500 clerks each to the two New York Senators, or three new clerks in all for each of them.

Twelve Senators from the six next largest States were assigned one additional $1500 clerk each, or two new clerks apiece for the Senators from Pennsylvania, Illinois, California, Ohio, Texas and Michigan.

The funds for extra Senate clerk hire, long a bone of contention between the Senate and the House, were proposed on the grounds that all Senators, particularly those from the large States, are receiving glaciers of war mail that must be opened and answered.

The Senate's bid for more office assistance opened in earnest last fall when the Senate included a rider on the third supplemental defense bill allocating each Senator a $4500 executive assistant.

The House balked at this extra service for Senators and it was tossed out of the bill in conference. Senator Chandler (Democrat), of Kentucky, led a fight to restore it, but the Senate yielded to pleas of leaders that the defense appropriation not be held up for an office help item. Informal agreement was reached at that time to make provision for more Senate secretaries in the legislative appropriation bill reported yesterday.

The proposed appropriation represented a sharp slash in last year's more ambitious allotment and marked a cut under subcommittee recommendations. The subcommittee had asked four new clerks altogether for each New York Senator and three new clerks apiece for Senators from the next largest six States.

The clerk-hire amendment was worked out by a subcommittee

Chile to Keep Ties With Axis, Rios Implies

Only National Will Can Force Break, New Leader Hints

By the Associated Press

Santiago, Chile, April 2.—President Juan Antonio Rios indicated in his inaugural address tonight that the new administration of Chile plans no immediate diplomatic break with the Axis.

He hinted that he would make the break only if "the national will" calls for it.

Had Stalled at Parley

Chile had worked jointly with Argentina to stall off attempts at the Rio de Janeiro conference last January for a solid American break with Germany, Japan and Italy.

The American republics eventually compromised on a joint resolution recommending that all break with the Axis and Chile and Argentina made it unanimous.

However, neither has broken off relations, and Rios' statement tonight on Chilean foreign policy was foreshadowed by the presence of Argentine Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu at the Rios inaugural ceremonies here.

Moreover, Ruiz Guinazu made a speech to the chamber of deputies yesterday after which half a dozen

U. S. Freezes Bicycle Stocks; Rationing Ordered

Faced with a "terrific" run on bicycles, the War Production Board halted the sale, shipment, delivery or transfer of all new adult models, effective at 11:59 o'clock last night.

According to M. D. Moore, section chief of the durable goods branch, "the order was issued because of the terrific rate at which bicycles have been going to people who don't need them, with too few going to people, like defense workers, who have to have them now or soon will need them."

He said the stocks frozen last night and the future production later will be made available on a rationing system, with defense workers getting first call, essential civilian needs second, then "anyone else" if sufficient vehicles are available.

Services' Plan For Profit Curb Wins Support

Senate Committee Majority Favors Flexible Proposal

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

A general injunction against excessive war profits or payment of unreasonable bonuses last night was being revised by the Senate Appropriations Committee for inclusion in the 18-billion-dollar supplemental defense bill.

The proposed profits amendment, result of days of study by top legal authorities of the Army, Navy and War Production Board, was laid before the committee yesterday with the indorsement of Donald Nelson, War Production chief. It would leave the Army and Navy authority to determine what profits were reasonable on individual contracts, and to renegotiate contracts over $500,000 where cost data showed unreasonable gains.

The plan immediately was assailed by advocates of a flat percentage ceiling on profits, as proposed by the House. These contended that the war agencies already have authority to call for cost data and renegotiate contracts, and the proposed profits formula would do little more.

Plan Wins Support

But a majority of the Senate committee appeared to agree with spokesmen for the armed services that the flat 6 per cent of cost limit proposed by the House was "unworkable." A substitute along the less rigid lines of the plan presented yesterday may be framed by the committee today.

Administration leaders and influential spokesmen for the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees meanwhile favored reaching profits by excess profits taxation in the pending revenue bill, over any fixed percentage limit.

The compromise plan worked out by counsel for the Army, Navy and WPB was presented to the committee by Lieut. Gen. Somervell, chief of the Army supply services.

It is understood to provide that new contracts shall be so written that they bind the contractor not to pay unreasonable bonuses or set aside unreasonable reserves.

Whenever the Secretaries of War and Navy and the chairman of the Maritime Commission had reason to believe excessive profits were being realized on existing contracts above a fixed amount,

It's a Federal Offense

Wives Warned on Bootlegging Pants Cuffs for Husbands

The wife who sews cuffs onto her husband's trouser legs may face Federal prosecution, the War Production Board warned yesterday.

WPB said it was advised from several sources that persons are buying suits or trousers at retail and having them delivered to their homes with the trousers unfinished or finished with more than a reasonable turnup, and called attention to the section of the order which reads:

"No person shall finish a pair of trousers made of wool cloth with cuffs or cause such to be finished with cuffs by others for his account."

Use of tin plate in tops for beer, soft drinks, jellies, and practically all other civilian uses was banned yesterday by the War Production Board.

The WPB containers branch, which will administer the order, said that it would save approximately 1600 tons of tin annually, and that additions to be made to the list of products for which tin closures are barred will save 300 tons.

The largest saving to result from the order will be derived from the regulations of crown caps for beer and carbonated beverages. It is expected that these industries will depend largely on black plate for tops.

The board also froze manufacturers' stocks of metal office furniture and equipment and prohibited

Company Striving To Give America Synthetic Rubber, Farish Declares

By Windsor Booth
Post Staff Writer

Standard Oil (N. J.) is cooperating "absolutely and without qualification" with the Federal Government to assure a supply of synthetic rubber to fill both military and civilian needs, W. S. Farish, president, and Frank A. Howard, vice president of the company, told the Truman Defense Investigating Committee, yesterday.

"We didn't delay the rubber program," President Farish said. "If an explanation for lack of rubber must be found, look to Japan. It took Pearl Harbor and the fall of Singapore to bring home to the people the rubber shortage in which we now find ourselves. Whatever the cause, the fact is we need rubber. The job before us is to get it. We have done and shall continue to do our best in cooperation with the Government to keep America on wheels."

Agreed to Divide Markets

Yesterday's hearing, lasting all day and concluding Standard Oil's part of the record, was carried on in a spirit of amity lacking in earlier sessions. Voices were raised only once, when Senator O'Mahoney (Democrat), of Wyoming, accused officials of dividing royalties between their country and the I. G. Farbenindustrie, the German chemical trust.

Howard testified that with Germany already at war Standard agreed with I. G. to divide up world markets for petroleum-chemical products, I. G. having a monopoly on sales where Germany was domi-

Wainwright's Men Pinch Off Jap Spearhead, Trapping Many

By John G. Norris
Post Staff Writer

American-Filipino forces have smashed two new Jap offensives on Bataan Peninsula, the War Department announced last night, trapping many enemy troops after closing a near-disastrous hole in the defenders' main line.

Smart generalship combined with heroic and skillful fighting accounted for the latest successes of the outnumbered defenders. They first "mouse-trapped" the enemy and then beat him in a heavy hand-to-hand battle in which the tide first turned for and then against the Japs.

The fighting is still going on, but the enemy advance has been halted and our main line restored, the Army communique reported.

Artillery Blasts Attackers

Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright skillfully "sucked in" the Japs in the first of the two latest enemy attacks, launched Wednesday night near the center of his line.

He pulled back his patrols and other frontal troops before the Nipponese advanced. With its own troops out of the way, Wainwright's artillery waited until the right moment, then laid down a murderous barrage on the spearhead of the enemy attack.

The American-Filipino infantry counterattacked, drove back the Japs and regained its outposts.

Enemy Only 75 Miles Away

Envoy Calls Native Leaders To War Council With Wavell

By John R. Morris
United Press Far Eastern Manager.

New Delhi, April 2.—The British war cabinet has given Sir Stafford Cripps a "free hand" to deal with India, it was learned tonight as Japanese landings only 75 miles from the Indian frontier emphasized the necessity of mobilizing this territory's teeming millions at once.

Cripps was said to have been empowered to negotiate an agreement for India's war support limited only by "his own discretion."

There were indications he would go a good deal further toward satisfying India's home-rule demands than he has in the last ten days of talks in which he merely passed on proposals drafted in London.

The British emissary was reported to have told All-India Congress (Nationalist) party leaders today when they handed him their rejection of the original British proposal that he was "willing to accommodate the Congress' viewpoint as far as possible."

(The All-India radio said "official circles in New Delhi firmly believe that difficulties among members of the Congress Party can be settled, and, however difficult the situation may appear, a settlement without question will be found.")

This statement, and the fact that Cripps now has received carte blanche for further negotiations, sent a wave of optimism through congress circles and it was said developments of the next few days are awaited "with keen interest."

Cripps also scheduled a "war council" for tomorrow with congress and political leaders, including Sir Archibald Wavell, in an attempt to break the political deadlock holding up full mobilization at a critical period.

The principal objection stated by India's dominant political faction to the original British proposal was that Britain intended to hold rigid control over war strategy as well as man power and material resources. Cripps had a compromise

Prelude to Spring

By the Associated Press

Moscow (Friday), April 3.—The Russians announced officially today that more than 22,000 Germans had been killed in the Leningrad and Kalinin sectors in a violent Red prelude to Adolf Hitler's threatening spring attempt to smash the Soviet Union.

Twelve thousand Nazis were slain in the Leningrad area between March 23 and March 31, a special communique said. A regular communique issued at noon yesterday said that 3000 Germans had been killed in the last two days, indicating the growing ferocity of the battles around the approaches to that important Baltic city.

On the Kalinin, or northwestern front, between Lake Ilmen and Rzhev, the Russians said 10,000 more Nazi dead were counted between March 21 and April 1. It is in this area, at Staraya Russa, that the Russians have been steadily cutting down the encircled Sixteenth Nazi Army despite vast numbers of German reserves thrown against the Red cordon.

After days of official silence, the Russians issued a series of communiques listing an enormous haul

Morale of Merchant Marine Is Affected, N. M. U. Head Asserts

By the Associated Press

New York, April 2.—A statement that Navy Secretary Frank Knox had ordered the discharge of 1000 merchant seamen since Pearl Harbor, was made today at a qualifications board hearing on the appeal of Murray Winocur, dismissed from his radio post on a tanker.

Winocur, a vice president of the American Communications Association, C. I. O. union of radiomen, was dismissed, the board said, under a law which gave the Navy Secretary power to order removal of Navy, shipyard and merchant marine personnel in the interest of national defense. Winocur was discharged March 10 at Houston.

D.C.-Harlem Vice Ring Witness Slain; Two Held

New York, April 2 (AP).—The arrest of two material witnesses in the slaying of a Washington, D. C., Negro last Friday, shortly before he was to testify here in the trial of a Washington vice ring, was announced today by Bronx District Attorney Samuel J. Foley.

Foley identified the slain man as Eugene Epps, 26, of 441 Rhode Island Avenue Northwest, considered an important witness in the prosecution of a large narcotics and prostitution ring operating between Washington and Harlem.

Landing Force Seizes Akyab, Last Usable Burmese Port

By the United Press

Chungking, April 2.—Five thousand Japanese troops, heavily escorted by warships, have landed and seized the Burma port of Akyab, 75 miles from the border of India and 130 miles from the Irrawaddy oil fields, a military spokesman revealed tonight.

The fact that the Japs landed at Akyab, instead of the port of Kyaukpyu, 80 miles farther south, left their purpose in doubt. The mountains west of Akyab make any overland movements from there difficult, whereas Kyaukpyu is connected with the interior by the An Pass, crossing the mountains to the Irrawaddy River.

Town Apparently Not Defended

In landing at Akyab, however, the Japanese had cut the Allied sea supply line between India and Burma and they had thrust the question of India's immediate defense into the political-military negotiations between Sir Stafford Cripps and Indian political leaders at New Delhi.

The landing, made from a 16-ship convoy, occurred last Thursday and there have been no subsequent reports to indicate whether it was directed against India or the oil fields, which lie straight east across the rugged Arakan Mountains. It was pointed out, however, that the important airdrome at Akyab gives Japanese bombers an operating base only 320 miles from Calcutta, one of the chief ports of entry for United States and British war shipments to India, Burma and China.

There were no reports of British resistance at Akyab and the impression was gained here that it might not have been defended. It is a town of 40,000 inhabitants.

Have River Route Inland

Two heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, five destroyers, four transports and two auxiliary ships forced the Akyab landing, the spokesman said. The Kaladan River, which empties into the Akyab Harbor, is navigable for a circuitous 100 miles to Paletwa, just a few miles from the Indian border, but there were no reports indicating that the Japanese were moving up the river yet.

Though rugged mountains separate Akyab from the Prome-Irrawaddy front, 200 miles to the southwest, the Japanese could, by infiltrations, get between the British and the Indian border, forcing them to veer northeast, toward Mandalay, in case they have to make any fur-

British Sailor Cleared in Death Of Defense Worker

Philadelphia, April 2 (AP).—Alfred Thompson, 21-year-old British sailor, was acquitted of a manslaughter charge today in the death of an American defense worker who, Thompson testified, made "very nasty remarks" about the British navy.

Thompson had told a jury he struck Herman Weigand, 48, in self-defense and he "fell to the street, injuring his head." He denied striking the blow because of Weigand's conversation.

"This is a most deplorable accident and nobody feels worse about it than the defendant himself," Defense Counsel John Blakely said.

For a Closed Shop

Found: A Man Who Could Use Mellett's Madhouse

FOR a short 5 minutes yesterday, it seemed a terrific story had walked into The Post newsroom.

A little man with a wilted collar and run-down heels eased up to the city desk.

"I am a small labor leader," he said. "I have come to Washington to get me a small closed shop. I have wandered around Washington for three days and I cannot find the right place. Will you help me?"

The city editor was properly suspicious.

"Listen, Chum, I am a very busy guy," he said. "Moreover, I have been kidded by experts. Sit down quietly somewhere and you will soon feel better."

But the little man was insistent. He repeated in detail that he was a small labor leader looking for a small closed shop.

"Do you mean to say you don't know where to look for Fanny Perkins or Sidney Hillman or Bill Green or Phil Murray or the War Labor Board?" he was asked.

"No," he said.

"Do you mean you don't even know where John L. Lewis' Union League Club is?"

"No," said the little man, walking to the window. He pointed to the rising Mellett Madhouse. "I asked a man what that is and he told me it is an information center for small businessmen with wilted collars and run down heels. There is no place for small labor leaders. Management gets all the best of it in this Administration."

The city editor screamed for photographers.

But before they arrived a big man in a uniform walked in and took the small labor leader by the arm.

"Here you are, pally," he said cordially. "You nearly gave me the slip. Back to the big house with the high fence."

The city editor stood looking out the window at the historic boondoggle.

"My compliments to Dr. Overholser," he called after the retreating pair. "Tell him I will soon be with him."

Former D. C. Woman, Son Believed Lost in Sub Attack

A former Washington society woman and her two-year-old son were believed lost when their ship was torpedoed by an enemy submarine last Sunday off the Atlantic coast.

The victims are Mrs. Leonard Govett, the former Elizabeth Wrenn, who divorced Samuel Hallock duPont, scion of the wealthy Delaware family, in Reno in 1929, and her young son, Leonard Govett.

The Navy Department yesterday informed Mrs. Govett's sister, Mrs. Robert Jasperson, wife of a United States Navy commander, at Annapolis, Md., that the former Capital socialite and her son were presumed lost.

New Jap Landing Reported

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

SEA-BORNE JAPS were reported yesterday to have landed at Akyab (1), chief western Burma port, only 350 miles from Calcutta. Akyab landing would threaten rear of British-Chinese forces in central Burma (broken line), now guarding Prome and holding a line north of Toungoo ther withdrawals. That would throw the British alongside U. S. Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's Chinese armies which are defending Mandalay and north Burma, and the whole Allied line would then have China at its rear.

New Delhi dispatches said that while the Japanese pressed on Prome from the south, a force of 4000 Burmese rebels had reached the west bank of the Irrawaddy River, just across from Prome, and were threatening a flank attack. By pushing on north and crossing the river behind the British lines, the Burmese could throw an encirclement around the Prome sector.

The British still held out strongly for the moment, however, and a communique said that they wiped out a Japanese patrol down the railway from Prome and that "otherwise there was no activity." Japanese planes, dominating the whole area, made continual reconnaissance flights.

A Chinese communique reported that the Toungoo sector, where Gen. Stilwell has been in personal command, had been "comparatively quiet" for 24 hours, since a Chinese division broke out of an encirclement in Toungoo and joined with Stilwell's main armies farther north.

Military spokesmen described the Toungoo battle as merely an "outpost action," having no consequence on the battle of Burma as a whole, and that the Japanese would meet real resistance if and when they tried to push farther north toward Mandalay.

Japanese planes ranged far behind the front, however, attacking a north Burma town, not identified, twice yesterday. In the early afternoon a communique said, 27 bombers and 15 fighters attacked the town in three waves. Damage was negligible although there were some casualties. At 7:15 p. m. more planes attacked but there were still no reports of serious damage.

The loss of Akyab left only one sizable Burmese port in Allied hands, Kyaukpyu. With Japanese warships lying at Akyab, 80 miles north, however, it was extremely doubtful that the Allies could use Kyaukypu to land supplies.

People Unwavering In Supporting Fight For Allied Victory

By Clark Lee

Associated Press Staff Writer

United States Army Headquarters in Australia, April 2.—By far the greatest part of the Philippines, both in territory and in population, still is free of the Japanese invader and still is under the American flag.

The people are unwavering in their loyalty to the United States, although considerably puzzled over the Allies' continued withdrawals and their failure to take the initiative against Japan.

En route to Australia, where I arrived three days ago, I traveled hundreds of miles over Philippine waters and by car over the islands without seeing a single Japanese plane, warship or soldier.

It is well to recall that there are 7000 islands and reefs in the Archipelago, and that so far the enemy has landed on only five.

The Japanese control the principal cities and highways in central and northern Luzon and a few ports in southeastern Luzon. However, the main prize, Manila Bay, still is beyond their reach.

Recently the Japanese occupied five points on northern Mindoro. They maintain a small force on the Island of Masbate, occupy Davao and Zamboanga at the eastern and western extremities of Mindanao, and also hold the Island of Jolo.

Occasional Raids on Shipping

The Japanese do not control the inner Philippine Islands or the inland waters. Occasionally an enemy warship raids shipping and ports in the so-called "inland sea." But the Japanese apparently are afraid to keep a destroyer or a light cruiser on patrol there.

From what I have seen of the American torpedo boats in action, I believe a few squadrons of those hard-hitting speedy vessels in which Gen. Douglas MacArthur began his trip to Australia could keep the islands' inner shipping lanes entirely clear of the enemy.

There are dozens of airfields and scores of ports in the inner Philippines from which American planes and ships could operate. There are American and Filipino fighting forces on almost every island.

The war goes on not only on Bataan but on Mindanao, where the Moros, under United States officers, frequently attack the Japanese.

The Japanese are reported to have put in uniform several thousand young Japanese nationals who lived at Davao before the war. Yet despite their overwhelming numerical superiority, the invaders are said to fear the Moros so much that every night hundreds of the Japanese return to their ships to sleep.

The Moros turned back one Japanese drive south of Davao in January.

What About U. S. Help?

On other islands we found American and Filipino forces which were ready to fight despite their shortage of equipment, if the Japanese should come. Our greatest difficulty in traveling through the Philippines was in answering questions about help from the United States. Everybody, everywhere asked the same questions.

The people frequently expressed their respect for President Roosevelt as a forceful leader. Their feeling for General MacArthur can be described only as reverential.

They'd say:

"We believe, sir, that the MacArthur line is impregnable. We are convinced that the man has not yet been born who can defeat Gen. MacArthur."

They ponounced it Mac-ar-tour, with the accent on the last syllable.

When our ship neared on Philippine port, the townspeople took to the hills fearing a Japanese invasion, but they came back when they saw the Filipino and American flags.

The pattern of life in the native villages did not change much between the days of Magellan and the Spanish-American War, but they were modified greatly during the American occupation.

We have given them our language, our style of apparel (minus the shoes), the advantage of our medical knowledge, a belief in our system of government, and an economy linked to ours through the production of copra, sugar, hemp, etc. Their signs are in English and each barrio has a school where English is taught.

Zamzam Survivor Reported Wounded In German Camp

New York, April 2 (AP).—Unheard from since last summer and believed lost on a sunken German raider, Francis J. Vicovari, a driver for the British-American Ambulance Corps, today was reported safe, but badly wounded, in a German prison camp.

In a letter to William V. C. Ruxton, president of the corps, Vicovari, who was a passenger aboard the shelled and mined Egyptian liner Zam Zam when she was sunk April 17, 1941, wrote that he expected to be able to walk normally in about a year.

The letter said that about 3000 men were in the camp and that medical and food parcels were a godsend.

plan which would allow an Indian minister to direct recruiting, equipment and training of the army, and it was believed he would start with that in tomorrow's talks.

British spokesmen indicated that the Japanese landing at Akyab has heightened the urgency of Cripps' mission.

It was believed a settlement, if one is to be reached, must come soon, and that failure would confront Britain with a military and political crisis gravely imperiling her chance of successfully defending her richest territory against aggression.

Congress President Maulana Azad and Active Leader Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru will attend tomorrow's meeting with Cripps, Wavell and other high officers of Allied general headquarters.

Azad and Nehru handed Cripps the rejection of the original proposal this afternoon and said they would discuss the British representative's reaction with the congress working committee when it resumes its session tomorrow. They emphasized that the congress is still eager to consider any alternate suggestions.

Cripps Still Confident

Cripps himself, however, continued confident of ultimate success in his mission and postponed his departure for several days.

The resolution handed Cripps was said to have complained particularly about the "interim arrangements"—wherein Britain would hold rigid control over Indian man power and material resources for the duration of the war.

These arrangements, an authoritative source said, "fall far short of the national demand or requirements of the situation to enthuse the peoples of India for national mobilization against aggression."

"Therefore," the resolution was reported to have said, "the proposals are regretfully unacceptable."

The resolution reportedly expanded on the Congress Wardha stand that India's freedom is now essential because of world conditions, "not only for India's sake but for the sake of the world."

Under the British plan, on the other hand, "disruptive and reactionary elements" would be encouraged at a critical period in India and the world's history, said the resolution. This statement apparently was aimed at the minority Moslem Party and dissident Hindu factions.

The resolution was said to have stated further that "only a free and independent India can be in position to undertake defense of the country on a national basis and be of help in the furtherance of large causes emerging from the war."

Promise Is Reiterated

"Not even the most far-reaching promises can alter the background of hostility and distrust of the British government, unless real power and authority is immediately transferred to the Indians," the resolution said.

It was understood the congress resolution reiterated the promise made at Wardha that if India is granted real power and responsibility the congress "is prepared to accept the responsibility of the defense of the country."

It also praised Cripps personally for sincerity and sympathy displayed in his talks with party leaders.

closed with the enemy and after "savage" fighting, the War Department said, the Japs broke through our main line.

A crucial situation faced the defenders as the Nipponese units poured through the hole. If the break-through could be held and exploited, the Battle of Bataan might have been won by the Japs then and there.

But Gen. Wainwright ordered a counterattack and after more heavy fighting the penetration was closed.

A "considerable number of Japanese units" were pocketed by the successful maneuver, the War Department said. Wainwright's men are now mopping up these trapped enemy troops in the jungles and mountain ridges of western Bataan.

Japanese losses in yesterday's and Wednesday's battles are believed to have been heavy, while American and Filipino casualties were "surprisingly small," the communique declared.

Foe Loses Four Bombers

Meanwhile, the Jap air force continued to raid Corregidor and ran into more trouble. The defending antiaircraft batteries shot down three large Nipponese bombers and kept others at such high altitudes that they did little damage.

A fourth bomber blew up in midair and fell in pieces into Manila Bay. None of the antiaircraft shells hit the craft, as far as observers on the ground could see.

In an earlier communique, the War Department reported enemy air raids on the beach defenses of Bataan, as well as the bombing of other positions. The day before Jap warships in the China Sea shelled these shore positions, and the two attacks have put the defenders on the alert against a landing attempt from the sea.

Texts of the two communiques follow:

War Department Communique 172

1. Philippine Theater. Aggressive activity on both sides characterized the fighting in Bataan during the past 24 hours. There were a number of sharp skirmishes, but no general action. Enemy artillery and dive bombers shelled and bombed our positions. There were several enemy air raids on our rear installations, beach defenses and troops in forward areas.

Intermittent air attacks on our harbor defenses continued throughout the day and night. Enemy bombers were forced by our antiaircraft fire to fly at extreme altitudes and consequently the bombing was inaccurate and ineffective. Hostile batteries on the south shore of Manila Bay shelled Corregidor. No damage was inflicted by either the bombing or the shelling. Our forts returned the fire of the enemy batteries.

2. There is notihng to report from other areas.

War Department Communique 173

"1. Philippine Theater. Two heavy attacks were made by the enemy last night and this morning on our lines in Bataan.

"The first assault was made near the center of our positions. The enemy advanced beyond the outpost line from which our troops had been previously withdrawn. Our artillery laid down a heavy fire on the advanced elements of the Japanese infantry, after which our forces counterattacked and regained possession of the outposts.

"The second attack was begun at about 10 o'clock this morning. Enemy assault troops, supported by a heavy concentration of artillery fire, advanced against the left center of the line held by General Wainwright's American and Philippine troops. Savage fighting ensued and the enemy succeeded in penetrating our main line. In a fierce counterattack, our forces closed the line, pocketing a considerable number of Japanese units. These hostile troops are now being mopped up.

"Although the fighting is still in progress, our main line of resistance has been restored and the enemy advance halted. Japanese losses are believed to have been heavy, while our own casualties were surprisingly small. During today's fighting hostile planes attacked our front lines and rear areas in Bataan.

Several hostile air raids were made today on Corregidor, resulting in little damage. Our antiaircraft artillery shot down three heavy Japanese bombers. A fourth enemy bomber, which apparently had not been hit, blew up in midair and fell into Manila Bay.

Artillery duels between the guns for our forts and those of Japanese batteries on the south shore of Manila Bay were frequent during the day.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Corregidor Guns Under D. C. Colonel Bag 66 Jap Planes

By Dean Schedler

Associated Press Staff Writer

Corregidor, P. I., March 31 (Delayed.)—Corregidor's accurate antiaircraft guns shot down 12 Japanese planes in the last week, making a total of 66 bagged by the island fortress' guns since the start of the war.

The figures are taken from the scoreboard which lists only confirmed losses inflicted on the enemy.

(A War Department communique today, April 2, listed four more bombers shot down over Manila Bay fortifications but placed the definite number of Japanese losses at 32.)

The Sixteenth Coast Artillery antiaircraft units are overcareful in crediting the batteries with hits and with recording planes actually downed. Planes are marked as down only after this has been confirmed by observation. Many times bursts of antiaircraft fire amid tight formations of enemy planes are seen to shake up the planes, causing some to veer from their course, trailing smoke as far as they can be seen. But unless such a plane is seen actually to come down, it is marked up as a "probable" loss to the enemy.

The motto of the hard-hitting Sixteenth, commanded by the veteran, Col. Theodore M. Chase, of Washington, D. C., is "Coelis Imperamus," which, translated literally, means, "We rule the heavens."

During the past week, and since the start of the war, they have demonstrated they can dish it out to the enemy, as well as take it.

According to Majj. T. K. McNair, of Red Bank, N. J., Corregidor has undergone more than 120 actual air raids since December 29, with the longest raid, of more than six hours' duration, this last week.

Japanese planes, operating from a nearby Luzon Island base, place Corregidor in a state of almost continuous alarm, although each day the fliers have evidenced a growing respect for the antiaircraft guns. Flights as a result have diminished in size from 27-plane formations to sorties by one and two planes at a time.

As the size of the flights diminished the planes also climbed higher, forcing the antiaircraft units to their utmost to pick the bomb-laden specks out of the sky.

Jap Onslaught Forecast Upon Port Moresby

By the Associated Press

Melbourne, April 2.—The Japanese bombed the northern port of Darwin today for the eleventh time, but their loss of air superiority in this theater of war led to predictions that their next move might be a seaborne attack on Port Moresby, key city of New Guinea.

A brief communique from the office of Prime Minister John Curtin said that seven bombers with fighter escorts conducted the Darwin raid, but that no damage or casualties were reported and that the action was the only one reported in the entire area of the far southwest Pacific.

The probability that the Japanese will switch to a sea thrust at Port Moresby, less than 300 miles from the Australian mainland, was raised by the Sydney Sun. It said that with heavy rains halting the Japanese drive overland from the north New Guinea coast and with the American and Australian forces having won at least temporary air superiority, a resort to naval action was "suggested by recent movements of enemy ships, which are constantly being attacked at Lae and Salamaua by the Allied air forces."

The paper warned, however, that the Japanese were obtaining aerial reinforcements "which must be described as considerable," and that "the air supremacy we have gained may not be permanent and at most will dislocate the Japanese plans only temporarily."

The same paper reported eight Japanese divisions totaling 120,000 to 150,000 men and including parachutists were believed to be concentrated in Java and Singapore in readiness for the next Japanese move.

The increasing American aid to Australia was regarded as likely to cause the Japanese to hasten their attack plans.

(A London broadcast quoting Sydney mesages said the American and Australian fliers had destroyed or crippled 96 Japanese planes since March 10 at a cost of only 12 of their own planes, of which five crews were saved.)

Forces in Australia Can Hold It, Hart Tells Senators

By the Associated Press

Chairman Connally (Democrat), Texas, said yesterday that on the basis of information given the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday by Vice Admiral Thomas C. Hart he was encouraged to believe that the United Nations forces were sufficiently strong to hold Australia as a base for future offensive action.

Hart, appearing before the committee in a closed session, was said to have been questioned in detail about the disposition of Allied forces in the southwestern Pacific, where he turned over the command of the United Nations naval units to a Dutch admiral before the fall of Java to the Japanese.

"Apparently," Connally told reporters, "the military and naval situation in the southwest Pacific is much more hopeful than some of us had thought. From such information as is available, in my opinion the United Nations have been able to get considerable supplies and aircraft to Australia.

"Australia has brought back many of her land troops and on the whole I believe that the United Nations will be able to hold there while offensive power is being built up."

Admiral Hart, reviewing operations in the whole Pacific war theater, was said to have refused to estimate how long American and Filipino troops could hold out on Luzon and Corregidor in the Philippines before reinforcements came.

Japs Starve Prisoners, Briton Asserts

London, April 2 (AP).—Dr. Gordon King, who has just escaped from Hongkong and reached Chungking, was quoted by Reuters News Agency tonight as declaring half the 1600 Britons and 300 Americans interned in Hongkong's Stanley Prison were in danger of death by starvation within six months.

Dr. King, a physician and former professor in Hongkong University, said the Japanese had refused requests by an Italian bishop, the Swedish consul and others for better treatment of the prisoners, scores of whom already look like skeletons. Many of the prisoners are children or old persons.

Two More Ships Dash To Open Sea

By the Associated Press

Stockholm, April 2.—Six of the 11 Norwegian merchant ships which dared the German blockade in a mass dash from Sweden were accounted for tonight as either lost or turned back, leaving five with at least a chance to reach haven in Britain.

The 11 vessels had been tied up in Goteborg, Sweden, since the German invasion of Norway, April 9, 1940. Under charter to Britain from the Norwegian government in exile, they all left Goteborg Tuesday night during a heavy snowstorm.

(A Swedish court had upheld the charters on March 17, overruling German attempts to get control of the ships through owners still in Norway.)

According to information based mainly on observations of fishermen, the ships were attacked Wednesday by a German destroyer and four trawlers almost as soon as they got outside Swedish territorial waters, the 6222-ton tanker Buccaneer and the 12,358-ton whaleship Skytteren being sunk by gunfire off Maaseskear at the mouth of the narrow Skagerrak.

The fishermen said another ship was seen burning fiercely, another ran aground, and two, the 5653-ton Lionel and the 5263-ton Dicto, fled back to Goteborg.

Empty lifeboats were seen adrift in the Skagerrak, and some reports said loss of life was probably heavy. Others said the German forces captured some of the crews.

Vichy Reports Six Escaped

"At least two large ships were sighted racing westward for the open sea and Britain, 500 miles away. What happened to the remaining three was not reported.

(A dispatch by the Vichy news agency under a Stockholm date said six ships escaped, protected in the narrow seas by British planes and farther out by British warships.)

Besides the ships named, the others were:

Charente, 1282 tons; Lind, 461; Gudvang, 1469; Storsten, 5243; Rigmor, 6305; B. P. Newton, 10,324, and Realf II, 5069.

of German material captured or destroyed.

Among the items reported destroyed on both fronts were 58 Nazi airplanes, 642 ammunition and supply trucks, 108 trench mortars, 39 tanks, 100 guns and machine guns, 6 ammunition dumps, 1 food warehouse and a great number of blockhouses and reinforced Nazi dugouts.

The Russians listed this haul in captured material: 17 tanks and armored cars, 515 machine guns, 86 trench mortars, 62 guns, 1,347,300 rounds of ammunition, 9000 shells and 158 cases of shells, 165 trucks, 17 motorcycles, 5300 hand grenades and 54 cases of grenades, 11,300 mines and 220 cases of mines, 15 radio transmitters, 130 horses, 3000 flares, 300 pairs of skis, 8 oil tanks and other equipment.

As usual, the Russians refrained from identifying the specific localities where their armies were fighting, but insisted they retained the initiative begun last December, when the Germans were rolled back from the gates of Moscow.

The midnight communique said merely that the Red army has "occupied several populated places in offensive operations."

In the far north, the Red fleet announced the destruction of another German submarine operating in the Barents Sea, on the United Nations' supply route to Murmansk.

Nazi Fortified Town Recaptured by Soviet

By the Associated Press

London, April 2.—Big-scale fighting now in progress on the Leningrad front is growing in intensity "with every hour that passes," the Leningrad radio reported tonight.

"The village of 'N,' which had been fortified by the Germans and which served as a center for several villages occupied by the enemy, has been captured by our forces," the Leningrad announcer said.

"Our men advanced from the northwest, where the Germans least expected an attack, as they considered they were protected by marshes. Our troops, however, crossed the marshes and appeared in the rear of the enemy forces."

In a northwestern sector, he said, 50 German tanks supported by planes led the Nazi infantry into an attack, but the Red army repulsed it.

At another point, it was acknowledged, "the Germans managed to drive a wedge into our defense positions but were unable to widen the gap."

In the last 24 hours, with fresh reinforcements, the Germans have been launching one tank-supported counterattack after another, but in vain, the Leningrad radio asserted.

Thus the fighting around Leningrad gave quick import to the comment of Swedish observers who earlier today said the approach of good weather would make the position of Russia's second largest city more dangerous and that the Germans might be able to take it this summer—if they were willing to pay a bloody price.

The Germans said Leningrad had been subjected to "heavy artillery fire," and the new focus on that front was regarded in London as possibly aimed at quieting the mounting anxieties of Finland.

Southeast England Blow Exceeds Great Bombing of 1940-41

By the Associated Press

London (Friday), April 3.—The Royal Air Force's heavy bombers struck for the second straight night last night at the Nazi-directed Matford Automotive Works outside Paris, while British ground crews struggled against a terrific German air attack along the southeastern English coast.

An informed British source indicated today that the second strike at the Matford works, prewar Ford factory, was lighter than Wednesday night's attack, but said the British "got in some good licks" on the plant working to supply Nazi armies on the Eastern Front.

English Area's Worst Raid

The German counterattack on Britain's coastal defense belt was the worst yet experienced by some townsmen there who had weathered the heavy 1940 blows. A number of persons were killed and wounded. Others were buried in their wrecked homes.

The Germans, favored by bright moonlight, also were reported over southern Wales.

The R. A. F. attacks of Wednesday night also were directed at the Reich's railroad network which is shuttling munitions toward the Russian front.

It was the R. A. F.'s biggest loss in a single night since the November 7 raid on Berlin in which 37 British planes were destroyed, and it was above the average of 10 to 12 which the R. A. F. feels it can afford to lose in one night at the present scale of operations.

Fifteen bombers were missing from Wednesday night's raids.

Canadian airmen, led by Johnny Fauquier, Ottawa, told of blasting debris high into the sky at Poissy, 8 miles west of Paris, of setting bright fires and of feeling the blast of bombs which made direct hits on the Matford factory from extremely low altitudes.

The pilot of one of the Canadian-flown bombers said a bomb blast "nearly lifted us out of the sky."

Reports from Vichy said that fairly heavy damage was caused at Poissy. The French reported that one British plane was shot down in flames at nearby Marly, with three members of the crew killed and one taken prisoner.

Paris antiaircraft defenses were active during the alert, from 4 to 5:30 a. m.

It also was learned today, a Vichy dispatch said, that at least 40 persons were killed, including 14 children, and 72 wounded in the region of Boulogne-Sur-Mer Wednesday afternoon during the R.A.F. bombardment.

(Ford headquarters in Detroit said the Ford Motor Co. had had no contact with the Matford plant since the fall of France. The concern was formed about ten years ago, Ford interests combining with the Mathis Co., French Alsatian firm.)

Factory Bombed Before

Now reported turning out 20 trucks a day for the Nazis, the Matford plant was bombed in daylight March 8, five days after the big R. A. F. raid on the Renault works, first in the Paris area.

In adition to the raids on German rail centers, the Le Havre docks and other occupied centers in France and Belgium were raided overnight and leaflets, intended for the Nazi army, were dropped over Brussels.

One of the bomber pilots who attacked northwest Germany said the attack was pressed home despite snow and sleet which stretched the return trip to four hours.

He reported hits on a freight train near the Rhine and that "the rear gunner counted 20 separate fires among freight cars."

Malta Knocks Down At Least 14 Nazi Planes

Valletta, Malta, April 2 (AP).—The Germans in a persistent dawn-to-dawn attack begun yesterday morning lost a total of 27 planes destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged, the heaviest losses ever suffered in a 24-hour period over Malta, the British announced in their communique tonight.

The Germans certainly lost 14 planes, the communique said, and the additional 13 were "probably destroyed and damaged."

In defending Malta the British sent up the heaviest anti-aircraft barrage yet heard by the hardy Maltese who daily through nearly 2000 raids already have witnessed some of the bitterest air fighting and heaviest bombing of the war.

2 Soldiers Killed As Plane Crashes Into Mess Hall

Everett, Wash., April 2 (AP).—A pursuit plane crashed into the mess hall at Paine Field today killing two soldier mess attendants and injuring the pilot seriously.

The dead were Private James R. Hanley, Little Rock, Ark., and Private Henry H. Robertson, Elk City, Okla. Second Lieut. Oscar L. Morse of Cook, Nebr., was the pilot.

The plane, which had just taken off, burst into flames and the fire spread to the hall. The Paine Field fire department extinguished the blaze.

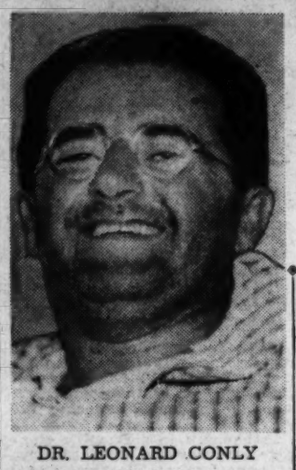
Red Rock, Ariz., April 2 (AP).—A flying instructor and a young British cadet were burned to death in a training plane crash at Red Rock Airport yesterday.

Officers at Falcon Field, where British pilots are trained, said the dead were Barney John Gordon, Panhandle, Tex. F. Glew, member of the primary class at the field, age and residence not immediately available.

Father's First Look at Baby Born on Lifeboat

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MOTHER SAYS "IT WASN'T SO BAD"—Joseph Mohorovicic, attached to the Yugoslavian consulate in New York, arrived yesterday at a Norfolk, Va., hospital to visit his wife and see for the first time the son she bore in a crowded lifeboat nearly filled with water. Looking at the 4-day-old infant with the parents is their 2-year-old daughter, Visna, who was en route to this country with her mother when a German submarine torpedoed their ship. The ships doctor, Leonard H. Conly, of Brooklyn,, N. Y., delivered the baby. Mrs. Desanka Mohorovicic, 28, who climbed virtually unassisted up the side of a rescue vessel, said in the few words of English at her command, "It wasn't so bad"



DR. LEONARD CONLY

Father Greets Lifeboat Baby At Norfolk

By the Associated Press

Norfolk, Va., April 2.—Joseph Mohorovicic, attache of the Yugoslav consulate in New York, arrived here today for a joyous reunion with his courageous wife, Desanka, who gave birth to a son in a wave-tossed lifeboat Sunday night.

He found the mother and baby, who weighed 8 pounds at birth, apparently none the worse for the harrowing experience which followed the torpedoing of an American passenger-cargo vessel on the Atlantic.

Mohorovicic said that when he read a newspaper story Wednesday stating that a baby had been born in a lifeboat he felt certain that it was his wife despite the fact that names were omitted from the account. "You can imagine how I felt," he said.

He was notified last night that his 28-year-old wife, the baby and Visna, a 2-year-old daughter, were among 87 survivors of the vessel and he took the first train from New York to Norfolk. Three crewmen were killed and 29 others missing from the ship.

Mohorovicic said that his ship was torpedoed February 17 while en route to this country from Capetown. He was injured and spent several days in a hospital.

"Very happy," Mohorovicic said he and his family planned, to begin "a new life together" in the United States where everybody and everything is "superlatively splendid."

Waves from 5 to 20 feet high tossed the lifeboat about in the darkness when Mrs. Mohorovicic went into labor, according to Dr. L. H. Conly, of Brooklyn, ship's doctor, who attended her despite pain from two ribs which he fractured in falling into the boat.

The child was born about two and a half hours later, the doctor said, adding that he did not have to bathe the new born babe. "The sea did that for me," the doctor explained. "He was wringing wet when it was all over. We all were."

The mother had only a portion of a sail for cover and she kept the almost naked baby inside her lifebelt to keep him warm.

A party of 24 had been crowded into the lifeboat for hours when the baby, who has been named Jesse Roper Mohorodivic, was born. They were at sea in the boat 24 more hours before being picked up by a rescue ship.

Nazis Admit Typhus Peril

After weeks of indignantly denying Allied reports of typhus in the German Army and in Axis territory, the Nazi radio has finally admitted the prevalence of the dreaded disease, the Office of Facts and Figures reported last night.

The OFF quoted the Berlin radio and the Nazi-controlled Dutch radio describing what is being done to combat typhus, "which is very widespread" in Poland, and "widespread in the east."

Woman, Son Sub Victims

1935, was returning from her home to visit her sister and mother, Mrs. Harry Wrenn, when a submarine fired two torpedoes into the ship. Acquaintances of Mrs. Govett, who were among the survivors landed at Norfolk, Va., told her family they saw her in a lifeboat which was capsized by a huge column of water when the sub fired the second torpedo. Five lifeboats were launched after the first torpedo struck, according to Quartermaster Americo Rodriguez, the Associated Press reported.

Mrs. Govett had flown to Trinidad from Africa, where her husband is attached to the British navy. At the island base she boarded the passenger vessel.

When Mrs. Govett's husband was transferred to Africa after the outbreak of the war, she remained in Washington for several months. Her father was the late Harry Lee Wrenn, who was at one time prominent here as an apartment house builder.

When Mrs. Govett was granted a divorce from duPont, she was given custody of their 7-year-old daughter, Eve. Leonard was born in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, two years ago.

Norwegian Tanker Is Sunk

Gloucester, N. J., April 2 (AP).—Battered and set afire by torpedoes from an enemy submarine, a medium-sized Norwegian motor tanker sank under a hail of shells off the Atlantic Coast early on the morning of March 27, the Fourth Naval District announced today.

Eight of the crew of 37, including most of the ship's officers, are missing and believed dead. The 29 survivors were picked up by a Portuguese freighter, after spending about seven and one-half hours in two lifeboats, and were brought here March 31.

The 58-year-old chief engineer of the tanker said the attack came without warning about 2:30 a. m. The ship was struck by two and perhaps three torpedoes, he said, and was bombarded by about 50 shells before she finally went down.

The first torpedo struck just forward of the bridge, on the port side, setting the bridge afire. It was followed almost immediately by a second, which struck just behind the amidships section, the chief engineer said.

The crew abandoned ship within a few minutes after the attack. The submarine then rose to the surface and shelled the burning hulk until it sank, five hours later.

The men drifted in the lifeboats until mid-morning, when they were sighted and picked up by the freighter.

35 Sinking Victims Safe

An East Coast Canadian Port, April 2 (AP).—Thirty-five crewmen from a torpedoed merchant ship have arrived here, most of them suffering from injuries and exposure. No details of the sinking were available.

March Score in the Air

London, April 2 (AP).—Germany lost 159 planes during March over the British Isles, the Mediterranean and the European continent exclusive of the Russian front, according to figures released today by British officials. Britain's losses came to 144.

London Expects Jap Attack on Russia

By the United Press

London, April 2.—"Trustworthy" information has convinced Britain that Japan will plunge Russia into a two-front war soon by launching a powerful attack on Siberia at the same time Germany starts her spring offensive, diplomatic sources reported tonight.

At the same time responsible informants said the Allies still were in no shape to confront Adolf Hitler with a second European front in the foreseeable future. Britain's main effort to ease the pressure on Russia—now regarded as doubly menacing—was expected to be a series of tremendous bombing raids on the Reich.

"We are going to bomb Germany fiercely all this summer as a diversion," a British commentator said. "These raids, along with the commando raids, are the nearest thing to a second front we can get any time soon."

The United Nations forces waging the war in the Pacific must "do everything in their power against Japan to try to draw off the forces which she intends to use against Russia" when Hitler gives his armies the imminent go-ahead, the diplomatic sources declared.

At the same time they predicted that the long-heralded German spring offensive would be "the most appalling in history."

The informants believed Moscow was fully informed on the reports reaching London regarding the Japanese plan for an attack on Siberia.

Diplomats said "Russia has a good army in Siberia" but suggested that it might not measure up to the standard of forces on the Western Front for lack of battle experience.

Proponents of the theory that Japan was about to attack Russia believed the Japanese would use their powerful Kwantung army, believed to be intact despite the aggression to the south.

They were convinced that Russia would not gamble on an attempt to weaken any opening Japanese blow by striking first with bombing attacks on Japan. The Allies have no intention of asking Russia for air bases at Vladivostok for attacks on Japan, they said, because of the danger of provoking a Japanese assault while a chance of forestalling it remains. One commentator warned that the Allies were likely to suffer continuing setbacks for some time. Of the Battle of the Atlantic, which Prime Minister Winston Churchill recently revealed had taken a bad turn, the spokesman said:

"Germany by Christmas probably will be using twice as many submarines as now are operating at sea."

War Sidelights

Laval in Vichy First Time Since Ouster

Vichy, Unoccupied France, April 2 (AP).—Former Premier Pierre Laval came to Vichy today for the first time since he was ousted from power in the Vichy regime and conferred with Marshal Petain on the question of French-German relations.

After the meeting Laval, a strong proponent of collaboration with Germany, issued a communique to the press referring to a recent series of such meetings elsewhere with Marshal Petain on the French-German issue. One of these was held on March 27.

Since that meeting there were many rumors here, but today's communique—issued by Laval himself and authorized by the Vichy information secretariat—was the first official French word of the conferences.

Pool of Man Power Is Urged by Hillman

Centralized Control Would Not Be Step to Abolition of CCC or NYA

By Robert De Vore
Post Staff Writer

A plan for mobilization of the country's potential supply of war workers, involving creation of a National Man Fower Board and centralized control of all Government labor-training agencies, was made public yesterday by Sidney Hillman, labor director of the War Production Board.

Hillman submitted the plan to the Senate Education and Labor Committee when he appeared in opposition to a bill to terminate the National Youth Administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps.

He made it clear that the plan does not involve abolition of NYA and other Federal agencies concerned with recruiting, training and placing war workers. Hillman joined Brig. Gen. Frank McSherry, supervisor of worker-training programs for the War Production Board, in defending NYA before the committee.

Roosevelt Backs CCC

Meanwhile, the CCC, in connection with a celebration of the ninth anniversary of its organization, made public a letter from President Roosevelt who asserted that the agency has a "real place" during the emergency and "will be called upon more and more to perform tasks which will strengthen our country and aid in the successful operation of the war."

Publication of the letter marked the second time the President's influence has been brought to bear in behalf of the CCC, during the nearly two weeks the labor committee has been conducting hearings on the bill, sponsored by Senator McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee.

The President's insistence on preservation of both the NYA and the CCC—in the face of a recommendation by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau that they be abolished—first was announced in a White House letter which Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt read to the committee last week.

Wins Cabinet Support

It was learned last night that another member of Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet (not Mr. Morgenthau) is about to extol CCC activities in a report to the committee.

Other Labor Proposals

In addition to proposals for creation of a man power board and centralization of defense training control, the labor mobilization plan submitted by Hillman contained these recommendations:

1. Power for the Government to transfer workers from one factory to another to keep pace with the shifting needs of war production. This authority should include provision for protection of seniority and other rights of labor. Transferred workers should be provided transportation.

2. The War Production Board should be given authority to organize mobile labor corps of such size and with such skills as may be necesasry for prosecution of the war.

3. War contractors should be directed to employ all skilled workers at jobs making use of their best skills. Compliance would be obtained by plant inspectors and plant management would be required to follow their recommendations covering utilization and training of workers.

4. By executive order, the President should designate the United States Employment Service, acting under the supervision and direction of WPB, as the single agency to control recruiting and placement of workers in critical occupations essential to war production.

5. WPB should set up mechanism necessary to establish priorities of production by items of equipment and priorities of plants manufacturing the equipment in order that proper labor priorities may be determined.

6. By the direction of WPB, all contracting agencies should take steps to insure full utilization of the local labor supply, with particular attention to women and minority groups.

7. Migrant workers should have first call on all war housing, with the bulk of war housing to be rented without any requirement for purchase. Authority should be obtained for requisitioning existing housing facilities for war workers.

8. Worker hours should be staggered to take full advantage of transportation facilities.

9. Wage stabilization agreements should be put into effect wherever possible.

Some committeemen suggested that Hillman should be made commander in chief of the mobilization program, first submitted to the committee as a secret document, but made public, in part, when Senator McKellar asked a question about it.

Other parts of the document, relating to war plant locations, remained secret, as well as the name of the plan's author, presumed to be Hillman. President Roosevelt, it is believed, has been presented with a plan of this sort.

Miss Boyer was the third witness, coming out after about 25 minutes. However, she returned to the grand jury room at 2:30 p. m. carrying a manila envelope. She left for the day about 3 p. m.

Prosecutor Maloney also kept the names of two other witnesses secret. He said they were refugees from Germany whose evidence was considered valuable. The men would be endangered, Maloney said, if their names were revealed.

Others who were questioned included:

William Griffin, editor of the weekly newspaper, New York Enquirer who has appeared twice before, after having been sought for some weeks, in which he went to Cuba.

Thomas Jefferson Ford, editor of the New York newspaper, Irish World, and his daughter, Miss Maureen Ford.

James McDermott, editor of the New York newspaper, Faelic American.

Summoned but not questioned yesterday was Guenter Hansen-Sturn, of the Romanoff Caviar Co., a New York firm. After waiting all day, during which he paced the corridors almost constantly, Hansen-Sturn was ordered to return nezt Thursday.

The session was interrupted in the afternoon, when Maloney had to attend a hearing in the District Court. Richard A. Harman, now attorney for George Hill, urged Justice R. Dickinson Letts to expunge from the record a document filed by Hill's former lawyer, John J. O'Connor, who was a vice chairman of Fish's isolationist committee. When he testified, Hill said that after he decided to take back his perjuries and tell the truth, O'Connor persuaded him to stick to the story which caused him to be indicted.

Harman told the court that the O'Connor document slandered Hill, Maloney and others. The statement ought to be stricken unless O'Connor swore to it, said Harman.

Justice Letts refused to act, saying that the moral principles of the community "impose upon a member of the bar the simple and homely virtues of truth, sincerity and fidelity.

"The court thinks that the paper signed by Mr. O'Connor in this case should be permitted to stand upon that basis," the justice concluded, "and that if it is to be subjected to tests as to its truth such tests should be the usual tests where the conduct of a member of the bar is brought in question."

Army, Navy Offer Profits Curb Plan

they could call for cost data and require renegotiation.

Would Apply to All

Where the 6 per cent limit proposed by the House was confined to the 18-billion-dollar war bill, the substitute proposal provides general legislation extending to all war contracts.

Unable to appear before the committee, Nelson wrote a letter indorsing the substitute plan and the committee after completing hearings this morning will vote on inclusion of a similar amendment in the defense appropriation bill.

Members of the committee declined to discuss the compromise in detail, but Senator O'Mahoney (Democrat), of Wyoming, said he is "inclined to think it would prove effective."

Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, on the other hand, thought an effort should be made to work out a percentage limitation.

"I think the country feels that if we can cut everything else, we should put a definite ceiling on war profits."

Senator Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, argued that the flat 6 per cent limit proposed by the House "would take away all incentive for small business concerns to participate in war contracts."

"On big contracts, 1 or 2 per cent is enough profit, but on small contracts 6 per cent is not enough for little businessmen to risk a loss. There would be no guarantee of any profit," Thomas said.

Taft Would Create Board

Earlier, Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, told reporters he had little doubt the Senate Appropriations Committee would strike out the six per cent profits limit voted last Saturday by the House.

Taft favored an amendment which would set up a board of Army, Navy and War production experts, charged with fixing the margin of profit that could be made on individual military items.

The war profits issue, hitherto linked with labor legislation pending in both Houses, was singled out for separate treatment by the House action last Saturday and will go to the floor of the Senate tomorrow for independent action.

Labor legislation meanwhile was on the shelf until the Senate and House return from Easter holidays. The House Naval Committee will resume action on the Smith-Vinson bill, curbing profits as well as special labor privileges, on April 15. The Senate has agreed to vote on a motion to call up the Connally plant seizure bill on April 20.

Baby Is Burned In Blazing Crib

A 3-week-old baby was critically burned yesterday when her crib caught fire from an oil-burning stove at her home, 4629 Meade Street Northeast.

The child, Alva Henderson, Negro, was found by her parents, Lacy and Christina Henderson, who were in another room. Policemen took the baby to Casualty Hospital, where her condition was said to be critical.

The crib, it was said, was too near the stove and the bed clothing ignited.

Sub and Destroyer Launched, Ship Is Commissioned

San Pedro, Calif., April 2 (AP).—The Destroyer Kendrick, first craft of its kind to be built at a Los Angles harbor shipyard since the first World War, slid down the ways today. The vessel, named after the Late Master Charles S. Kendrick, whose title compares with the Navy's present-day commander, was christened by his granddaughter, Mrs. J. Hanson Delvac, of Elmhurst, Long Island.

Barb Launched

New London, Conn., April 2 (AP). The submarine Barb was launched at the Electric Boat Co. yard in Groton, with a brief ceremony today.

Mrs. Charles A. Dunn, wife of Rear Admiral C. A. Dunn, U. S. N., was the sponsor. Admiral Dunn has just completed a tour of duty as supervisor of shipbuilding at the Electric Boat Co.

Another submarine, the Blackfish, stood on the ways nearby, ready for her scheduled launching on April 18.

Destroyer Commissioned

New York, April 2 (AP).—Amid the din of workmen's hammers on two new battleships, the Navy today commissioned the 1650-ton Destroyer Farenholt at the Navy Yard, Brooklyn.

The ship was named after the Late Rear Admiral Oscar W. Farenholt and a telegram was received at the ceremonies from Rear Admiral Herman F. Farenholt, Medical Corps, U. S. N., son of hte late Rear Admiral.

Special Court Set To Hear Appeals From Price Rules

Arrangements for the filing of appeals from decisions of the Price Administrator with a specially created emergency court of appeals have now been completed here, it was announced yesterday at the United States Court of Appeals.

The emergency court is to be presided over by Associate Justice Fred M. Vinson, of the Court of Appeals here. Sharing the bench with him will be Justice Albert B. Maris, of the Third Appellate Circuit, and Justice Calvert Magruder, of the First Circuit.

nant and Standard getting the remainder.

"Your difficulty," O'Mahoney said, "is that you are bound by two loyalties—one of loyalty to the German dye trust and its world cartel and the other to the United States and its world policy. I am certain that the latter loyalty will prevail."

Howard denied emphatically that he or any other Standard official divided his loyalty to the United States.

Farish caught the committee's attention when he proposed a way to supply civilians, as well as the military establishment, with a tire supply during the war. He said that with less than one day's production of steel to build the factories and with a capital investment of approximately $15 for every car in the United States, it would be possible to assure a supply of synthetic rubber tires for everybody.

"Fortunately," Farish said, "the United States has unlimited quantities of the raw materials from which this synthetic rubber is produced—oil and natural gas. No other country in the world can create a synthetic rubber industry as speedily or as effectively as the United States.

"Instead of junking 30 million autos, they should be allowed to wear out in useful war time service—a saving for their owners, at a modest average of $200 for each car, of six billion dollars. None of us knows how long the war will last, but it is important that civilian automobiles should outlast the war."

Committee Counsel Hugh Fulton dwelt at considerable length on Standard's policy of licensing its patents on synthetic rubber and other products to smaller companies, charging them royalties of from three to seven per cent. Fulton introduced evidence from Standard's own files to the effect that the company licensed its patents only after the licensee agreed to give Standard the benefits of any improved processes he might discover. At the same time, Standard declined to give the licensee the benefit of Standard's own improvements.

Fulton brought out that as late as 1940, Standard sought to prevent individual oil companies from using its synthetic rubber patents to make automobile tires. Instead, Standard gave licenses for making only "specialty rubber"—gasoline hose and waterproofing material. Howard said this policy was adopted in the belief that large-scale development could be achieved only by cooperative action with the major rubber companies.

Only "Stop-Gap" Licenses

"We didn't see how synthetic rubber could ever compete with natural rubber," he said, "unless all the interested parties pitched in and tried to make a go of it as a cooperative matter."

As a result of that belief when Standard acquired control of I. G. Farben patents in 1939 it issued only "stop gap" licenses to rubber companies for specialty products, and not for tires. A cooperative program for the big four rubber companies never was completed, he agreed, because such a combination would have been suspect under the antitrust laws.

Howard told the committee that Standard, under the consent decree entered into with the Department of Justice last week has cut all its German ties, both for the present and after the war ends. No longer, he said, can the German company, through the connivance of the Hitler government, control information and patents of vital importance to American war production.

His company, he said, has given to the Federal Government all the information Standard possesses on the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

To Take No Royalties

"We have turned over all of our patents, all of our processes and all of our 'know how' to the Government for the duration, and we have agreed to take no royalties so long as the war continues," Howard said.

Chairman Truman (Democrat), of Missouri, ordered the hearing to resume this morning at 10:30. He said two "surprise" witnesses, whom he declined to name, will appear and testify on the sale of high-octane gasoline in South America. Secretary of Commerce, Jesse Jones will testify on the synthetic rubber situation next Tuesday, Truman said.

More Clerks Again Asked For Senators

headed by Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, who two weeks ago released a survey of the amount of mail received by each Senator for 51 days in January and February.

Senator Brooks (Republican), of Illinois, led the list of those receiving the most mail in the period surveyed by Tydings. He will get two additional clerks under the plan approved by the committee. Senator Lucas (Democrat), of Illinois, who ranked seventh on the list, also will get two. Senator Mead (Democrat), of New York, who was second on the mail list, will get three, as will his New York colleague, Senator Wagner, who was ninth on the Tydings list.

Senators Connally and O'Daniel, of Texas, who were third and fourth on the mail list, would each get two additional clerks. Four other Senators, who were among the first ten in point of mail receipts, do not hail from the seven most populous States, so they would be confined to the one extra clerk allotted every Senator. They are Senators Walsh, of Massachusetts; Pepper, of Florida; Tydings, of Maryland, and Byrd, of Virginia (all Democrats).

production of virtually all types after May 31.

Effective immediately, the board directed, output of insulated metal filing cabinets, safes and metal visible record equipment must be halted, except to fill top-rated priority orders.

Also effective at once, the order requires manufacturers to cut their monthly use of steel for metal shelving 50 per cent compared with monthly consumption during the year ended last June 30.

Preliminary to a complete stoppage of production of other types of filing cabinets, lockers, desks, chairs, bank vault equipment, and waste baskets, large manufacturers of such items must reduce their steel consumption 60 per cent this month and next.

Gen. Boschen, Former Army Funds Chief, Dies

San Francisco, April 2 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Fred Wegener Boschen, 65, chief of finances of the United States Army until he was retired last year, died here yesterday.

Gen. Boschen, who enlisted as a private during the Spanish-American War, was awaiting another call to duty at the time of his death. He served as chief of finances from 1936 until he reached retirement age. He also was commander of the United States Soldiers' Home at Washington, D. C.

During his career Gen. Boschen had received the Silver Star, the Purple Heart and the French Croix de Guerre with gilt star.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., April 7, in the chapel at Arlington Cemetery. He will be buried beside his wife, Mrs. Vida G. Boschen.

Charges Fly Fast In Dies Tangle

Voorhis Says Economic Warfare Board Analyst Wrote for Nazi 'White Paper'

By the Associated Press

A member of the Dies Committee told the House yesterday that C. Hartley Grattan, economic analyst for the Board of Economic Warfare headed by Vice President Wallace, wrote the foreword to a 1940 German "white paper" which attempted "to lay the blame for the invasion of Poland on certain American officials.

"This foreword," added the committeeman, Representative Voorhis (Democrat), of California, "consists all the way through of a vigorous denunciation of this country's foreign policy of support to England and France."

Voorhis emphasized that the foreword was written at a time when Russia and Germany had a non-aggression pact. He noted that Grattan was one of the men mentioned by Representative Dies (Democrat), of Texas, in a letter last Sunday to Vice President Wallace, which charged that 30 officials of employes of the Economic Welfare Board had been linked with Communist-front organization.

Later Grattan said in a statement that "Mr. Voorhis' interpretation of my foreword is very misleading and unworthy of him. My foreword can only be judged fairly if read as a whole. I strongly criticize the Nazi use of the document. I have always been opposed to fascism, both abroad and at home. Any implication to the contrary is a gross injustice."

Charges Flow Fast

Voorhis made his remarks about the time that the White House was striking out at Dies, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. William D. Hassett, a Presidential secretary, told reporters that Axis radio stations had been repeating the Dies charges against the 35 Warfare Board officials. Hassett said that a German station, another in Vichy and Station DEBUNK, which purports to be in this country, but actually is in Europe, had broadcast Dies' accusations.

Hassett asserted that the White House was not drawing any conclusions, adding that he thought the "conclusions are quite obvious."

At Jasper, Tex., Dies replied that the best way to stop Axis powers from quoting such charges is to rid the public payroll of men who have been affiliated with what he terms Communist-controlled organizations.

Yesterday, however, he said he had received information about Grattan which "makes a most serious picture."

"On yesterday," he said, "it was brought to my attention that Mr. C. Hartley Grattan in May of 1940, which was between the time of the signing of the pact between Russia and Germany and the time that Germany attacked Russia, wrote the foreword to the so-called 'German White Paper,' which was an attempt to lay the blame for the invasion of Poland on certain American officials, and that this foreword consists all the way through of a vigorous denunciation of this country's foreign policy of support to England and France.

Distributed By Zapp

"The German White Paper was distributed in America through Manfred Zapp, the head of Transocean News Service, which was shown conclusively to be a Nazi propaganda agency.

"I understand that the Vice President has stated that thorough investigation will be made of all these charges in order that justice may be done to individuals and the Government service protected as well. I believe that in connection with such an investigation this fact about the German White Paper, taken together with the other matters about Mr. Grattan presented in Mr. Dies' letter makes a most serious picture indeed so far as he is concerned."

Commenting on Hassett's statements, Dies said yesterday:

"The 35 people mentioned in my letter are working for a post-war planning agency. Their activities have nothing to do with winning the war. They are taking advantage of the war effort to lay plans to remake our country. . . .

"These people are citizens of the United States. No other country could possibly be offended at any action we take against our own citizens. Our purpose in this war is to preserve our form of government and our Christian way of life.

"Are we going to permit Government officials to take advantage of the war to defeat our aims and purposes?"

'Get Tough' With Enemy Aliens, Biddle Asked

By the Associated Press

Representative Norrell (Democrat), Arkansas, yesterday called upon Attorney General Biddle to "get tough" with enemy aliens in war industries and to forget politics for the duration of the war.

In a speech on the House floor, the Arkansan termed "unfortunate" a statement attributed to Biddle that it was "necessary to keep up the political fight" for liberalism.

"I think the Attorney General could find something more worthwhile than trying to continue a political fight," Norrell said.

"I don't mean that he should be spending more of his time in ordering paroles or releases to enemy aliens in our country because I am told he had already released or paroled 60 per cent of the enemy aliens that have been placed under arrest by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"I do not mean that he should spend more time in opposing laws to curb the activity of our enemy aliens, because I think he has already spent too much time in that field.

"I do not mean that he should spend more of his time encouraging the employment of enemy aliens in our defense industries, because he has been liberal with his time in trying to see that they receive employment wherever and whenever possible.

"I believe that there is one problem, however, that presently needs his attention, and that field is with reference to accidents occurring in our defense industries."

He said he thought Biddle was "trying to do an honest job as he sees it," but that he hoped he would "assume a more vigorous attitude towards alien enemies residing among us and see that they are not permitted to acquire positions in which they may be able to have a successful act of sabotage in the guise that it was an act of carelessness."

Woman Is Again Strangely Stricken On Holy Thursday

Buenos Aires, April 2 (U.P.).—For the fifth consecutive year Victoria Siancha, 44-year-old mother of five children, was reported stricken unconscious today—Holy Thursday.

What appeared to be blood emissions showed on her face, hands and ankles.

Her condition will last until Saturday noon, it is expected. On the four previous occasions she said she remembered nothing and felt no ill effects upon her reawakening.

Physicians who examined her last year found the case inexplicable and attributed it to mystic fervor. The woman is a devout Catholic.

Bethesdan Will Typify Army On Its Day

Guest of honor at the Army Day banquet here Monday will be Sergt. Carl E. Plitt, jr., formerly of Bethesda, Md., who was selected by the Military Order of the World War as a "representative American citizen soldier."

Sergt. Plitt, 24, assigned to the 228th Field Artillery at Fort George G. Meade, Md., will sit on the rostrum among admirals and generals at the Hotel Mayflower. Legislators, other Army and Navy officers, and the Secretaries of War and Navy will be present.

This year Army Day, which is being celebrated throughout the country by the Military Order of the World War, will commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of America's entry into World War I.

In Washington, the Mayflower Hotel Banquet will be the main event. The military parade which has keynoted Army Day in others years will not be held this year because of the desire of authorities to avoid undue concentrations of people in the Nation's Capital.

Army to Hold Open House

In other cities, elaborate parades and airplane flight demonstrations are planned. "Open house" will be held at various posts and stations of the Army, giving friends and relatives of soldiers a chance to visit, subject, of course, to military considerations. In some areas, Army Day will be celebrated tomorrow or Sunday to avoid interfering with war production.

Sergt. Plitt was born in Baltimore, Md., but has lived most of his life in Montgomery County. He was inducted into service last April 12. He is married, and his wife is now living in Chevy Chase, Md. He attended grade school in Baltimore, high school in Bethesda and Chevy Chase, and studied electricity at a Washington night technical school.

In civilian life, Sergt. Plitt was a manager of an Ann Arundel County (Md.) branch office of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

The selection of a "typical" citizen soldier followed President Roosevelt's recent proclamation dedicating Army Day this year to "our citizen army."

"Our Army is a mighty arm of the tree of liberty," the President stated. "It is a living part of the American tradition, a tradition that goes back to Israel Putnam who left his plow in a New England furrow to take up a gun and fight at Bunker Hill. In this tradition, American men of many ages have left the specific round of their usual occupations to fight in causes that are worth their lives—from Lexington to the Argonne."

Todd Duncan to Sing

At the Mayflower celebration, Todd Duncan, Negro barytone and former teacher of voice at Howard University, will sing hit numbers from the George Gershwin musical, "Porgy and Bess" and "Liberty Under God," a new ballad based on President Roosevelt's speech the day after Pearl Harbor. He will be accompanied by the entire cast of the musical.

Special radio broadcasts will be made from various stations.

The Army Medical Center will have open house from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. The public will be admitted for visits and demonstrations at Walter Reed General Hospital, the Medical Department professional service schools, and the landscape and greenhouse departments.

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the Marine Corps, yesterday sent greetings to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, on the occasion of Army Day. The messages stressed the cooperation and unity of purpose among the Nation's armed forces.

State to Purchase $250,000 Bonds

Richmond, Va., April 2 (AP).—The Commonwealth made arrangements today to use unobligated money in the State sinking fund to help Uncle Sam meet the financial burden of the war.

Through Budget Director J. H. Bradford, Gov. Darden asked the sinking fund commissioners to invest the unobligated sum of $250,000 in six-month United States certificates, bearing ½ per cent interest, expected to be offered Monday as part of a $1,500,000,000 issue.

Axis Has Lost Air Superiority, Says New Czech Attache Here

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Staff Writer

Germany has lost the air superiority that played so great a part in her early victories, Lieut. Col. Alexander Hess, a hero in the Battle of Britain, said here yesterday as he took over his duties as air attache of the Czechoslovak Legation.

He said that the United Nations now had at least equality with the Axis powers in the air, and henceforth should pile up a decisive superiority.

Colonel Hess laughed heartily as he told how his own name appeared in the London headlines a short time after that of his namesake, Rudolph Hess. On May 13, 1941, the newspapers told how the No. 3 Nazi had landed in Scotland. Then, on May 29, they proclaimed that "King Confers D.F.C. on Hess."

Londoners were puzzled until they read further and discovered that the breast on which His Majesty pinned the Distinguished Flying Cross was that of Col. Alexander Hess, leader of a Czech squadron in the R.A.F. The Czechs brought down 38 Nazi planes in the Battle of Britain, and Hess got three of them.

"Bailed Out" at 400 Feet

The citation for his D. F. C. said: Acting Squadron Leader Hess displayed outstanding keenness and courage and has set a fine example to his squadron.

"Since the squadron became operational, he has destroyed two enemy aircraft and severely damaged a third. In one engagement his aircraft was set on fire, but in order to clear a populated area he did not abandon it until it had descended to an altitude of 400 feet, although this barely allowed his parachute time to open."

Col. Hess landed on the outskirts of London on the most exciting day of the German blitz—September 15. That was the day when the Germans lost 185 planes and the British only 25. Thereafter the Germans switched to night bombing.

When Col. Hess, swathed in his "Mae West," landed with his parachute, home guards rushed at him with bayonets. He told them that he was with the R. A. F., but his accent aroused suspicion. He then pointed to his Spitfire, but that was in flames and couldn't be recognized. It looked bad for him for a while, but in the end the home guards carried him off and tried to get him drunk.

Britain Is Much Stronger

Discussing the war situation of today, Col. Hess said:

"When Germany failed in the Battle of Britain, she lost her last chance to invade England—successfully, I mean. She will never to be able to carry off a successful invasion now. The Germans are no stronger now; the British are much stronger. The Luftwaffe will never be able to knock out the R. A. F. now.

"However, the Germans might, in desperation, try to invade England or Ireland. That's why the R. A. F. has to maintain strong forces at home."

Col. Hess, who left his homeland in February, 1940, served with the French a while and then escaped to England when France fell, said that the Russian air force ought to be in a much better position this spring and summer than it was last June. The Germans, he recalled, struck at Russian air fields on June 22, just as they had struck at Polish and other enemy fields in earlier surprise attacks.

Surprise Element Gone

"This time," he said, "the Germans will be without that element of surprise, which is a big factor. I think that the Russians have learned a lot and will face the Germans this year with a much stronger air force. The Germans might mass superiority at some particular point in the beginning, but I don't believe that they will be able to maintain that superiority for long."

Did Colonel Hess believe that Germany could be bombed into surrender from the air?

"No," he replied. "Germany can be hurt from the air, and is being hurt—heavily. But I don't think she can be beaten from the air. She is too far away, and there are too many targets.

"The plane is an important weapon, an essential weapon, but we can't depend on it entirely to bring the decision. We have to beat Germany on the battlefield, and to do that we have to use all kinds of arms.

Must Dictate Peace in Berlin

"The only way to achieve a real peace is to dictate it in Berlin. We might as well be realistic about it. German morale is good, and it is necessary to say that, in general, the people still are behind Hitler. They know what to expect if they lose this war, and they will fight to the end.

"A revolution may come, but I don't think we ought to count on it. If it does come, fine; but I think our first aim should be to defeat Germany and her allies by beating them in battle—on the ground, on the seas, and in the air."

Colonel Hess is leaving today for Chicago to meet his brother. He was wondering yesterday whether they would recognize each other after a separation of 35 years. Later on, Colonel Hess hopes to see something of the two-million-man Air Force which the United States Army is now building.

McLaglen's Wife Dies

La Canada, Calif., April 2 (AP).—Mrs. Enid McLaglen, 43, wife of film actor Victor McLaglen, died today after a long illness.

Army, Navy Intelligence Units Merged

Merger of the planning and intelligence offices of the War and Navy Departments was announced last night, as a further step toward unified direction of the war.

The new units will operate under the United States Chiefs of Staff—the new Army-Navy high command recently set up at the headquarters of the United Nations Combined Chiefs of Staff here.

Announcement of the merger was made by the War Department at the same time as it was disclosed that the old War Plans Division of the Army General Staff will become the Staff Operations Division under the reorganization of the War Department and will play an important role in running the war.

To Be Nerve Center

The department announcement said that the new Operations Divisions will be "the controlling nerve center of the Army for all United States theaters of operations and overseas garrisons."

The division, headed by Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, will also coordinate strategical and operational planning with the United States Navy and with the military headquarters of all United Nations.

"In this connection," the War Department statement added, "a further change is involved in the present arrangement whereby the strategical planning groups of the Army and Navy have been merged and moved out of their respective departments and set up under the United States Chiefs of Staff in the headquarters of the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

In Close Touch

"There they are in intimate touch with a similar planning group of the British officers—air, ground and naval—and the representatives of the United Nations.

"In the same manner a military-Navy intelligence group has been established."

1000 Men Fired, Curran Charges

O. National Maritime Union, said at today's hearing in the Third Naval District headquarters that 300 seamen, 100 radio operators and 600 shipyard workers had been questioned by Naval Intelligence and then abruptly fired.

"We protested many times during the past few weeks to Secretary Knox," Curran said.

"We warned him that morale was being injured by this procedure. Seamen are becoming frightened. Men are being pulled off their ships mysteriously.

"If they are dangerous to national defense, then why are they dumped on the beach? They should be tried, interned, shot or reinstated."

Curran and Joseph Seely, A. C. A. president, declared that Naval Intelligence used unsubstantiated Dies Committee allegations against officers of the N. M. U. and A. C. A.

Capt. Marshall B. Arnold, senior member of the qualifications board, refused to permit elaboration of the charges against Winocur and announced no decision on his appeal.

Curran said that the two unions wanted trials for all the men dismissed.

He then demanded immediate reconstruction of the cases of all men allegedly fired by Knox and said the unions would contest the constitutionality of the law which gave the Navy Secretary dismissal powers.

PREPARE FOR TANK CHRISTENING—Janet Mantell, recently crowned Miss California, helps Samuel E. Gates fill a bottle with water from the Pacific Ocean which will be used for christening a tank that the city of Schenectady, N. Y., is buying this week for presentation to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The water, used instead of the customary champagne because the tank must cross the Pacific, was flown east from Los Angeles

Col. Harries Dies of Wound In Philippines

A native Washingtonian and former West Point football star, has been buried with highest military honors among the bomb craters of Corregidor, it was learned here yesterday.

Lieut. Col. Herbert L. Harries, 55, died last week after a leg amputation in the Corregidor Hospital in the Philippines, to which he had been taken for treatment first received while playing football at West Point and later while with the A. E. F. in France.

Col. Harries was a son of the late Maj. Gen. Herbert L. Harries, wartime commander of Brest and for 17 years commanding officer of the District National Guard. At one time Gen. Harries served on the staff of The Washington Post.

Col. Harries, born at the old Harries home, 401 P Street Northwest, attended Washington public schools and spent two years at West Point. He suffered a knee injury while playing football there and was retired. At the outbreak of the World War, he was called back into service and was sent to France. During a gas attack, he fell into a shell hole and hurt his knee again. He was retired in 1934 as a lieutenant colonel and, accompanied by his wife, went to the Philippines to live.

When this country became involved in the present war, Gen. Douglas MacArthur called him to serve on his staff.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Harries, former newspaper woman, who is now under Japanese internment in Manila; an uncle, Fred L. Harries, and an aunt, Miss Florence Harries both of this city.

Arthur G. Gower, 80, Dies in Greenville

Arthur G. Gower, 80, governor of the South Carolina Mayflower Society and father of Arthur G. Gower, jr., of Washington, died yesterday at his home in Greenville, S. C., where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

His wife, another son, and two daughters also survive.

Senate Unit Asks 'Complete Trial' Of Sea Otter II

A Senate Naval Affairs subcommittee urged yesterday that a "full, complete and sympathetic" trial be given to the Sea Otter II, experimental cargo ship powered with automobile engines.

The committee said a series of hearings had convinced members that certain governmental agents in the Navy and Maritime Commission "had preconceived convictions against any value in this type of construction" and that "they have evinced and continue to evince a hostility to the proposal and its sponsors."

Of radical design, with propeller located amidships, the ship was hailed last summer after tests of a scale model as a possible answer to submarine warfare. President Roosevelt spoke enthusiastically of its possibilities.

A full-size ship of about 240 feet was then built and turned over to the Navy. It was taken on a trial run to Charleston, S. C., and has been tied up at the navy yard there since.

Mother of Zion Pastor Dies at 80

Mrs. Mary E. Spottswood, 80, mother of the Rev. Stephen Spottswood, pastor of John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church, died Wednesday at her home, 1324 Q Street Northwest.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday at the John Wesley Church, Fourteenth and Corcoran Streets Northwest. Burial will be in Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Spottswood was born in St. Johns, New Brunswick, and came to the United States in 1891. She had been living here six years. She had been active in church circles in various cities in the East for many years.

London, April 2 (AP)—Rear Admiral Philippe-Marie Auboyneau has been named commander of Free French naval forces in succession to Admiral Emile Muselier, the Free French Press Service announced today.

Bill for Postal System Wage Rises Is Vetoed

By the Associated Press

A bill which would have established a system of longevity pay for 222,500 field employes of the postal service was vetoed yesterday by President Roosevelt.

The President informed the House in a message that "this is not an opportune time for this type of legislation," and he found it necessary in the public interest to withhold his signature.

The measure contemplated pay rises starting next July 1 for employes who had completed ten years of continuous service. The President said this would have meant about three-fourths of all employes covered by the bill.

Citing pay increases and reductions in working hours for various classes of postal employes granted by other legislation, the Chief Executive said the vetoed measure would result in some instances of discriminatory compensation benefits.

"The bill," the Chief Executive added, "is not a temporary measure for increased compensation on account of any rise in the cost of living, but provides instead for a permanent increase in compensation, the first year cost being approximately 14 million dollars and the ultimate annual cost being about 39 million dollars."

Dutch Seeking Warships in U. S.

Dutch officials are anxious to obtain a number of warships—cruisers and destroyers—from the United States with which to supplement their remaining fleet in operations with the United Nations in the southern Pacific, it was reliably learned here yesterday.

It is understood the Dutch would be willing to have ships thus acquired operated under American command but would insist on Dutch crews.

Illinois Chief Quits C.I.O.; Friend of Lewis

Springfield, Ill., April 2 (AP).—Ray Edmundson, Illinois district president of the United Mine Workers of America, resigned today as State regional director of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Edmundson made public a letter to Philip Murray, national C. I. O. president, in which he declared the policies of officers and executive board members of the C. I. O. "in my judgment do not contribute to the necessary unity within the labor movement, or the Nation, for the greatest possible benefit in the prosecution of the war . . ."

Also Quits State Post

The C. I. O. leader also announced he was quitting his post as president of the Illinois State Industrial Union Council, a State federation of C. I. O. unions.

Edmundson said that "technically the Illinois district No. 12 of the United Mine Workers is still affiliated with the C. I. O. and the State Industrial Union Council" but declined further comment on recent reports that the U. M. W. A. international union might sever its affiliation with the C. I. O. as a result of disagreements on policy between Murray and John L. Lewis, U. M. W. A. international president.

Edmundson has served as State U. M. W. A. provisional president since 1935 by appointment of Lewis and the union's international executive board. He has been C. I. O. director for Illinois since the organization's inception.

A close friend of Lewis, Edmundson said he resigned from his C. I. O. post "wholly on my own initiative." Edmundson returned last week from a meeting of C. I. O. officials in Washington but denied that he had consulted Lewis before resigning. He said he was the first U. M. W. A. leader to resign from a regional C. I. O. post.

Edmundson would not say with which C. I. O. policies he disagreed but in his letter to Murray he commended Lewis' proposal of last January that conferences be resumed between the C. I. O. and A. F. L. in the hope of reuniting the two labor movements. The Lewis proposal met with opposition at that time from Murray.

He Praises Lewis

Edmundson also said in the letter: "Hereafter I shall devote every ounce of energy at my command in upholding and furthering all principles, policies and mandates of the United Mine Workers of America under the leadership of President Lewis, whom I consider one of the greatest leaders of all time, in the hope that eventually a united labor movement in America will combine its forces under an aggressive militant leadership . . ."

Indorsing Lewis' proposal to renew A. F. of L.-C. I. O. unity negotiations, the letter continued:

"If left alone, in my judgement, 85 per cent of the workers of both the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations are for organic unity upon an honorable basis . . ."

Freight Firm Strike Stops, Starts Again

By the Associated Press

Pittsburgh, April 2.—Strikers moved some shipments of war materials at the Acme Fast Freight, Inc., terminal here today and then quit work again in their ten-day-old jurisdictional dispute which A. F. of L. President William Green had disavowed as illegal.

Meyer Rosenthal, vice president of A. F. of L. Teamsters Local 249, countermanded his previously issued "cease strike" order, a union steward explained. The steward gave no explanation for the change of orders, which came by telephone from Indianapolis where the union's local officers had been called by International President Daniel J. Tobin.

The local had ordered the strike in a dispute with another A. F. of L. union over recognition as bargaining agent for Acme workers. Green intervened after the trucking concern's counsel had protested the strike violated Green's no-strike pledge to President Roosevelt and Representative Smith (Democrat), of Virginia, in Washington called for revocation of the charter of Local 249, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Textile Strike Widens

Fall River, Mass., April 2 (AP).—Key workers in 17 of Fall River's 18 cotton textile mills joined the second walkout in two weeks today, pointing to the eventual shutting down of all plants unless mediation is successful in the very near future.

While loom fixers, slashtenders and knot tiers walked out representatives of rival unions prepared to meet in the State house at Boston with Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State board of conciliation and arbitration, and Theodore W. Kheel, principal mediation officer of the War Labor Board. The session was expected to begin at 2 p. m.

It was difficult to estimate the number of workers now idle because of a jurisdictional dispute between the American Federation of Textile Operators (Independent) and the United Textile Workers (C. I. O.), but the number increased hourly as the saturation point in the preliminary textile processes was reached.

Intermediate Plane Bridges Gap for Pilot

Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio (U.P.).—To bridge the huge gap between flying a single engine Army trainer and a multi-engine A. A. F. service craft, the Air Corps has designed a new type of trainer called the twin-engine transition plane.

Two related types have been in service since 1941—the multi-engine pilot-trainer, and the navigator-bombardier trainer.

The new ship is a low wing monoplane with a 40-foot wing span. It has a gross weight of 5125 pounds, and is powered with two radial engines in the 270 horsepower class, fitted with two-blade constant speed propellers.

Standard equipment includes a full complement of training instruments, and conventional retractable landing gear. Instructor and student pilot sit side by side. These planes have the same general performances and operation characteristics of the big war planes.

With these new transition trainers, the prospect is considerably brighter for training pilots and crews for multi-engine planes in sufficient numbers for the air force expansion program.

Father a Jap, D. C. Girl Faces Camp as Alien

Her ancestry has become a threatening finger pointing at Natalie Edmonde, a dark-eyed girl who lives with her mother in a rooming house at 1917 G Street Northwest. Her Japanese father, whom she scarcely knew, has become real to her and a source of peril.

Natalie, an American-born Episcopalian, who speaks of the Japanese as "heathens," and who works for the War Department and is reportedly well liked, sees in Senate Bill 2293 a probability of her landing in a Japanese concentration camp in this land which she says she loves.

Her mother, Mrs. Alberta Edmonds, an American who can trace ancestry to some of the first people who stuck plows in United States soil, in 1918 married Riichiro Kawashima, a Japanese artist, in New York City. Natalie was born a year later. Kawashima quit them both two years later in France and neither has seen nor heard of him since.

Mrs. Edmonde refers to Japs as "rats."

Appealed to Committee

She told The Post yesterday that she appeared before a Senate Immigration Committee considering legislation to place dangerous enemy aliens in concentration camps, asking that her daughter be permitted to live as a loyal American citizen. She asked the committee to investigate both her and Natalie. Previously she had made a request of the Dies Committee, and the FBI, she said, "once and for all to remove this thing that keeps coming up from the past."

What frightens them is the line in S-2293 saying in essence that the Secretary of War is authorized to take into custody and restrain any person who, notwithstanding the fact that he may have been born in the United States, is considered by the laws of any such foreign nation or government to be a citizen or subject of or to owe allegiance to any such foreign nation or government and is of a race or nationality ineligible to naturalization as a citizen of the United States.

Favors Curbs on Aliens

"I am in complete accord with any law that will suppress enemy aliens in this country" Mrs. Edmonde said. "But I do believe it would be an unfair discrimination against myself and my daughter to include us in that category."

She wondered how Natalie would fare in a concentration camp.

"She would despise everyone around her and they would despise her," she said.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 3 or more times a night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel old and run down before your time. Functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney and Bladder trouble often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the Kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, backache, or swollen ankles, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has given such joyous, happy relief in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex costs only 35c at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

Obsolete Budget

We hope that Congress will recognize the desirability of voting without delay the additional funds which the President has requested for the District. Because of the enormous increase in the city's population these funds are necessary to keep various services rendered by the city from deteriorating in the next three months. Obviously, then, there will have to be quick action if additional personnel is to be hired and put to work in the months for which this additional $527,110 would be appropriated.

The Health Department had asked for a much larger sum than the Commissioners and the Budget Bureau have recommended. And no one familiar with the city's deficiency in public health nurses, in sanitary inspection service, and in control of venereal diseases will question the department's need for the larger amount. It is quite possible, however, that by the time these supplementary funds clear through the cumbersome legislative channels, they will be ample to extend health, welfare, education and recreational services for the remainder of the fiscal year.

That does not apply, however, to the budget for 1943 which is now before Congress. The obsolescence of that budget may be illustrated by its allowance for public health. If Congress approves the supplementary estimates, the Health Department will have a substantially larger fund for the current year than is requested for next year. Since the Budget Bureau itself has estimated an increase of 250,000 in population in 1942, this obviously doesn't make sense.

The District budget for the fiscal year 1943 is thus in need of drastic revision before Congress begins hearings on it. The necessary changes can best be made by local officials. Why don't the Commissioners ask to have the budget sent back to them for revision in the light of war conditions in the Capital? In its present form it is as out of date as the prewar defense program.

Ships And Men

Shipping—that bottleneck of bottlenecks—plays such an enormous role in global warfare that every indication of laxity or failure in that field must be attacked with the utmost vigor. The simple truth is that our ships must continue to plow the seas in ever increasing numbers, in spite of Axis submarines and airplanes, if we are to win the war. That unassailable fact gives special gravity to Rear Admiral Manley H. Simons' statement that "at least half" of the merchant ships sunk off the Atlantic Coast have been lost because they have failed to obey Navy orders. Here is a severe indictment of our merchant marine.

Admiral Simons complains that the merchant crews do not keep vigil by day or watch by night. So he concludes that the operation of tankers and freighters should be shifted to control of the Navy. If his report of laxity on the part of the existing crews is accurate, certainly some effective means of enforcing the Navy's protective orders must be found. It does not follow, however, that the Navy should take upon itself the responsibility for operation of merchant ships as well as fighting ships. Problems of this sort are not necessarily solved by dumping them into the lap of the Navy.

Obviously the Navy cannot spare enough of its own personnel to operate merchant vessels. Would Admiral Simons have seamen in the merchant fleet inducted into the Navy? Or would he merely put naval officers in command of freighters and tankers? Many of the officers on these vessels are already members of the Naval Reserve, anyway. Moreover, these ships carry gun crews supplied by the Navy. Unquestionably it is the duty of the Navy to protect the merchant fleet, but the Navy already has a big enough job on its hands without attempting also to operate that fleet.

Control of war shipping is now concentrated in the competent hands of Admiral Land. In addition to being chairman of the Maritime Commission and a member of the United States-British Combined Shipping Adjustment Board, Admiral Land is head of the new War Shipping Administration. It is his responsibility to see that Navy orders designed to protect cargo ships are obeyed. If there is a serious problem of Navy orders being disregarded, the Navy will certainly bring the matter to Admiral Land's attention before suggesting that it take over the merchant fleet. Proper division of labor—that is, the assignment of each task to those most competent to perform it—is no less important in utilizing our full national strength than is a wise concentration of authority.

The whole Nation is fighting this war. The Army and Navy have colossal tasks of their own without taking over work which they are not particularly trained to perform. When the Navy has provided merchantmen with gun crews and instructions for their safety, the full obligation for enforcement of those orders falls upon the War Shipping Administration.

Standard On Trial

Current hearings before the Truman Defense Committee have taken on the aspect of a trial of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Leading officials of that company are appearing as witnesses for the defense and members of the Senate Investigating Committee are acting as prosecutors. That is a pity. What is needed is complete frankness on both sides. Only in that way can both Congress and the public acquire an understanding of the fundamental issues involved in the controversy over Standard's connections with the German dye trust and its handling of patents governing synthetic rubber production.

So far the Standard has not offered a convincing refutation of Assistant Attorney General Arnold's charges. These were that the Standard had retarded the development of a synthetic rubber industry through its control of basic patents. It should be noted, however, that Mr. Arnold stated very positively that he did not think the company's arrangements with the German dye trust were made with any desire to aid or assist Germany in any way. He also took particular pains to say that other companies engaged in manufacturing critical war materials had likewise been parties to cartel agreements restricting the domestic production of critical war materials. The head of the Government's antitrust division is, in fact, not conducting a campaign against Standard Oil in particular. He is fighting international industrial cartels in general, and the restrictive licensing practices followed by many companies owning important patents.

Control of patent rights under its agreement with the German dye trust has given the Standard the power to hasten or retard the development of new industrial processes of vital importance to this country and to Germany. Ought such great powers to be vested in private hands? That is really the question which the Truman Committee is now debating—not whether Standard Oil officials have violated the antitrust laws or failed to supply representatives of the Army or Navy with full information about secret productive processes.

From a reading of President Farish's formal testimony one is led to conclude that a good deal of the criticism directed against the Standard has been due to ignorance or misinformation. But the fact remains that the company until recently had extremely close contacts with one of Germany's most powerful industrial organizations. Even though such connections may have been entirely legitimate before our entry into the war, their political expediency is open to question in these days when the industries of totalitarian countries have lost all but the semblance of a private character. Modern warfare, moreover, has become as much a conflict between industrial systems as between armed forces. Hence, we can no longer risk permitting private industries which are potentially our main sources of defense against foreign aggression to work in close partnership with foreign industries, even in time of peace.

The use made within the country of patents, whether obtained through foreign connections or otherwise, presents another and different problem. Restraint upon competition growing out of the possession of patents may be entirely legal. But, as Senator O'Mahoney's so-called Monopoly Committee inquiry disclosed, they frequently result in building up monopolistic control and retarding industrial progress. Long before war threatened Mr. Arnold indicated that he favored amendments to the antitrust laws that would prevent the use of patents to restrain trade. The outbreak of war has given him an opportunity to press his demands for abrogation of the extensive licensing privileges enjoyed by our industries under present laws. In case of Standard Oil the Government has won the opening round without a legal battle, through the voluntary release, royalty free, of the synthetic rubber patents controlled by the company.

Aimed At Hoodlums

Among the trials of life in boomtown Washington is hoodlumism in the residential districts. For this reason householders will welcome Inspector Callahan's direction to police to prosecute "deliberate or willful throwing, or leaving of broken glass, bottles, nails, or other sharp objects" in the streets. Curtailment in the production of civilian goods makes care of property a necessary virtue, since in many cases things destroyed cannot be replaced. Tires, for instance, are a particular object of the hoodlums' attention, and they are now more precious than rubies. Armed with this new instruction, the police may be able to stop a growing practice.

Stir In The South

In the Russian north the earth is still frozen. To be sure, the season of thaw is not far off. But some weeks must still go by before the ground will be dry enough and hard enough to permit large-scale movements of troops in that section of the Russian front. No such handicap exists at this moment, however, in the south. In Crimea and the Ukraine the climate is milder. Winter is now a thing of the past. No wonder then, that in current estimates of what is likely to happen on the Eastern Front considerable emphasis is being placed on the strong possibility of an imminent German drive toward the Caucasus. The weather factor now is favorable to an offensive and Hitler has two objectives which can only be achieved by means of a successful drive to Baku, Batum and beyond. One is his need of oil. The other is his desire to break through to the Persian Gulf in order to effect a junction with the Japanese.

When the German offensive of last fall came to an end, its high water mark in the south was at a point just to the east of Rostov. Rostov was ultimately abandoned. But the Russians never succeeded in retaking Taganrog or in clearing the Nazis out of the Crimea except at a few isolated points. They had more luck in the region east of the great bend of the Dnieper—at Dnieperpetrovsk, from which they are separated by only a relatively narrow gap. But so far, despite Marshal Timoshenko's valiant efforts, they have failed to bridge that gap or drive the Nazis out of Stalino and Kharkov. Hitler's main bases from which he can launch an offensive in the south remain in German hands. Moreover, there are signs and portents that suggest that the Fuehrer is not only planning a drive on the Caucasus but a drive of gigantic dimensions

From neutral quarters in Europe one learns that a vast German force has been assembled in the south. The force is made up not only of land and air units, but also of invasion barges concentrated in Rumanian and Bulgarian Black Sea ports. A drive on Rostov and the Caucasus, it would thus appear, may be accompanied by an attempt to outflank the Russians by landing operations on the Black Sea littoral. In the meantime, the indications are that both Rumania and Bulgaria have been brought in line. Both countries, it would seem, have agreed to serve as puppets of the Third Reich, turning over their man power to be cannon fodder for Hitler's insatiable war machine.

For the time being, however, it is not the Germans but the Russians who are on the offensive in the south. Marshal Timoshenko appears to be striving with might and main to blunt the point of the German spearhead in the Crimea and the Caucasus before it can be hurled against his forces. His troops have recently captured several towns in the vicinity of Dnieperpetrovsk. But now, as during the winter months, the Russian counter-attack makes only slow progress. There is no indication that the bloodletting which the Germans have suffered, considerable though it has been, has been sufficient to weaken their strength materially. A gigantic struggle impends.

Daladier's Reminder

It was not till the other day, at Riom, that any Frenchman dared openly take the position that France's defeat in 1940 was an interlude, not a finality. That individual was Edouard Daladier, former premier. Together with Leon Blum and some others, he is on trial for responsibility for France's defeat. In taking this position Daladier is proving that he is a man of courage. When Gen. Keller sought to point out that France's tank force had been outnumbered two to one by Germany's, Daladier interrupted to shout: "Never mind who got licked. It will not always be the same ones who get licked."

Thus the Riom trial has again upset Hitler's calculations. Again the defendants have turned the tables on their accusers and manifested a spirit of courage and pertinacity which must give heart to the French people. No wonder that Hitler found it necessary recently to declare that the Riom trial has revealed a "mentality that appears to us incomprehensible." That, plus the circumstance that the Riom proceedings have put Marshal Petain and his colleagues in an unfavorable light is, no doubt, why the Vichy government has announced its intention to suspend the trial. The mentality which Hitler cannot understand is the mentality of free men with free minds.

CONTRADICTIONS

Today I marvel what a narrow line,
Yet what a vast immensity of space,
Marks off the earthly things from the divine.
At any moment, and in any place,
The road may take an unexpected turn,
And I may touch with my unworthiest hand
The very form and face for which I yearn.
I have not wit enough to understand
How every path down which he walks can be Cut off from me as by the hand of death,
And yet how he can be as close to me
As hands and feet, as vital as my breath,
As absolutely mine as my own soul,
Small part of me, yet greater than the whole.

Overage Guardsmen

With reference to the coming registration of men between 45 and 64 years old, and the fact that the army considers these oldsters as "unfit for combat service," why should National Guardsmen of the same ages be compelled to serve with combat troops?

After all, these men are only civilian soldiers. Many of them served during the last war, and have been sitting in an office for the past 25 years, and are no more fit to serve with combat forces than the forthcoming registrants, despite the fact that they have attended maneuvers a couple of times.

Of course they should serve, and they want to, but I think it is unfair to expect them to stand the rigors of Army life. After a man reaches 45 years he just can't take it, regardless of how much training he receives.

These men should be used for training younger men and should replace regular Army men in offices, whose duties should be in the field where they belong.

The regulars have been trained all these years for Army life, and the Guardsmen have not.

There are millions of young men to be trained—let the 45 to 64 National Guardsmen train them and let the Regulars take them overseas.

Japanese Goods

Since we are making a desperate effort for an "All-Out" to win the war perpetrated by our arch enemy —Japan—it might interest you to know that in shopping for small Easter gadgets I wandered into a novelty store and to my amazement saw displayed, not only in the windows, but brazenly on the counters as well, numerous cards containing cute little colored chickens (make-believe). In the vacant spaces where the chicks had been removed (obviously sold) there was printed in bold letters "Made in Japan." To my astonishment, when I remarked to the clerk "I see that you are selling Japanese-made goods," she haughtily answered, "Oh yes."

Is the worth of the few pennies that these Japanese-made articles can bring in of more value than the blood that we Americans are shedding to rid the world of those rats?

Heckled Employe

I'm getting fed up with these several Congressmen who seem to have nothing more on their minds than the doings of the Government workers, particularly the C. A. F. clerks in the low brackets.

May I say that if putting in extra hours without due compensation, doing routine monotonous work without an opportunity for 15 minutes' relaxation outside of the office, is easy—then I wish one of the Representatives would exchange positions with me.

At least, we deserve a little appreciation for taking the criticism we do, managing to exist in this expensive city, and trying to forgive the Government for forgetting to pay us for overtime. Do we mind? Of course we do when we are heckled by Congressmen who neglect more necessary duties. How about their concentrating all of their faculties toward getting this war won—and forgetting their political aspirations for a few years?

Wasting Resources

Are we going to win the war with the vast number of paint-lipped, rouge-cheeked, high-heeled young women here in Washington and with the young men of military age who by the grace of pull are holding down Government jobs for the duration?

That is the way we did it last time, and we are doing it that way again. But this is a tougher war. It may not work out so well again.

The favored young men will keep their jobs after the war or get better ones. They will never live in Hoovervilles or be shot at by another MacArthur. The young women —many of whom are innocent and ignorant high school girls — are keeping older men and women, more experienced and capable, from being reinstated in Government work.

In the cause of honesty, I suggest that the Government officials tack up signs saying, "No one need apply for employment or reinstatement here if he is above the age of 30, whatever his qualifications." The unemployed are people. They can more pleasantly and intelligently use their time than in filling out questionnaires for bureaucrats who do not intend to look into them except to find out how old the applicant is.

Is one of our war aims to save the country for young women, military shirkers, and bureaucrats?

Unemployment is more of a problem for older people than it was before Pearl Harbor. Many who had formerly worked for the Government at least had WPA jobs. And now, due to economy-minded Congressmen who want economy at anybody's expense except their own, they have no employment whatsoever. What are the unemployed supposed to do—go jump in the river? America needs all its man and woman power. The efficient use of human resources is one of the things that gives the Axis the edge over us.

Questions

I get scared when I read of some groups wanting to tell other groups how many hours they must work. That's like it used to be in the Old South. Shouldn't I be scared? If the White Collars can tell the Soiled Collars they must work 48 hours a week, mightn't the Soiled Collars tell the White Collars they'd have to work 64? And couldn't some groups tell us we'd have to sit at our typewriters for 72? My father used to say you can lead a horse to the trough but you can't make him drink. Mightn't we all be horses; though of another color?

Columnists (those not good enough to write for The Post) have been suggesting that it's all wrong for us at home to enjoy more compensation than the Bataan Boys have. Does this mean we all should scrap our bathrooms, and take to living in fox holes, so the boys won't be mad at us when they come back?

Is the real reason for things bogging down in Washington because the Senators seem to get all their knowledge from the newspapers, and the newspapers appear to get most of theirs from the Senators?

BEWILDERED.

Funds For Dies

Thank you for your editorial in The Post concerning the Dies Committee and Congressman Dies. I wish such intelligent comment concerning the antics of this committee would appear more often in the Washington press. It has seemed to me that some outside higher up must be supporting this committee, or else the members of Congress have never taken the trouble to find out what it is all about.

This committee has had from the beginning but two self-appointed purposes: to get Mr. Dies' name in the headlines and to smear the Roosevelt Administration. Its avowed witch hunt has been the poorest sort of camouflage.

Must Congress appropriate 300,000 dollars of the people's money for a continuation of the harmful antics in which Mr. Dies indulges himself? Must all this money go for such preposterous performances when the smallest appropriations for health measures in the District are refused and when service men, coming here for the night, have to sleep on floors and benches? Of course, it doesn't follow that money refused the Dies Committee would be used intelligently elsewhere, but it could hardly be employed for more foolish uses than to encourage Mr. Dies.

Your editorial came out into the open at last and said what informed persons have been saying for six months: Dies is the darling of the Christian Front, the platform companion of Fritz Kuhn, and the beloved of the Nazis. No Congress that has an economy bloc should dare to hand large sums of money to one of its members who has the background of such associations. It is a poor way to use money in these times and a poor way to help us win a war.

40-Hour Week

The recent offer of the leaders of the C. I. O. and of the A. F. of L., after a conference with the President, to forgo overtime for Sundays and holidays, has all the earmarks of a "deal" whereby the Administration has agreed to kill all attempts at repeal of the 40-hour-week law in consideration for this concession by labor. Can anyone doubt, in view of these circumstances, that the opposition of the Administration to repeal of the 40-hour law is politics pure and simple?

This deal is, of course, at the expense of the taxpayers who will have to pay the added cost of the war effort. No wonder Congress is getting letters urging repeal of this business-as-usual law.

German labor is working from 60 to 70 hours a week while the British are working from 55 to 60 hours a week. Yet we are told that American workers will not be content unless they are paid overtime for all time over 40 hours a week. Has American labor gone soft or merely pecuniary?

Gas Rations

Reference is made in a newspaper article stating that "the District will receive at least 5 gallons of gasoline weekly under tentative rationing plans. Some suggestions have gone as high as 10."

There are thousands of people (defense workers included) who live in the outlying districts. Will they be allowed the same amount of gas as those who live in the District? Some cars get 10 miles per gallon, 12, 15, 20 and so on. What is the plan for them?

The Post Impressionist

Hired Soldiers

The presence of the German Hessians in the colonies had much to do with prolonged struggles for American independence, as these soldiers were good fighters and hired out for the purpose of war and profit.

Had the Duke of Hesse-Cassel been less shrewd in driving a bargain, we might never have been thrilled by that heroic figure of George Washington crossing the ice-jammed Delaware.

During the great war, when thrones tottered and dynasties tumbled, and hermetically sealed treasure-houses were turned topsy-turvy, many an interesting record popped from its moldy hiding. One of the very sorry tales which trickled through the Prussian archives was how thousands of these young Hessian soldiers were recruited and transported to fight the American patriots.

Early in the war, King George III was hard-pressed for man power. With the Britisher's unwillingness to undertake a hazardous sea voyage and to engage in a conflict for which he had little liking, the King cast a wary eye across the channel and his S O S was quickly picked up by the petty princes of Germany. Foremost of these, was the Duke of Hesse-Cassel who was cursed with a "carnivorous" complex. After his country had been drained of all its available man power, a nefarious art of recruiting was brought about through every means of trickery and cruelty.

According to Carlyle, all countries, but Germany especially, were infested with this new species of two-legged, predatory animal—known as the Prussian recruiters—lynx-eyed, hunting the bodies of men in a merciless, carnivorous manner. By this method, the Germans supplied the English crown with 29,600 men at so much "per head," and these petty princes were largely maintained by the blood of their subjects.

Duke Karl Wilhelm Ferdinand, of Braunschweig, sold 4300 subjects at $38 per head, with an additional indemnity of $22 for each one killed in action, three wounded to be equivalent to one dead. But Landgrave 2d, of Hesse, went him one better by selling 12,000 Hessians at $75 per head with an annual rental fee of $500,000. He wrote his commanding officer, Baron Hohendorfer, commending him highly for "seeing to it of the 1950 Langrave peons engaged in the battle of Trenton that only 300 escaped alive." Hohendorfer was cautioned to send an "itemized statement" to London as the British minister had only wanted to pay him for 1455 killed. On the other hand, he expressed himself as "highly displeased" with Maj. Mendorf who had succeeded in saving his battalion of Hessians.

The sale of soldiers goes back to the time of Landgrave Charles I, who set the example, and his successors followed it. The well-trained Hessian soldiers were found in many contending armies of Europe, and history states, with the proceeds of their blood Charles I built churches, constructed marble palaces and lived in luxury. When they were finally confronted by the great difficulty of meeting the demand they began to fill their ranks in any way their devilish schemes could devise. A contemporary writer of the period states that one day in Julich a well-dressed man entered the shop of a young carpenter and ordered a chest. It was to be a very stout chest, six feet and a few inches in length. A few days later when he called he questioned its length, stating it was not as long as the shopkeeper himself. Innocently enough the young man got in the chest; then Mr. Recruiting Officer (Baron Von Hompesch) shut down the lid, whistled to his lackies and was off. In this instance the victim smothered to death.

Bitter controversy arose when word of these crimes leaked out of Germany and reached Parliament. George III was highly opposed to the German system, but he was in need of man power and the petty princes crayed what English guineas would buy. Prince Hesse-Cassel was the most anxious to make a "sale," and he was closely followed by Prince Waldeck. To this day their letters remain in the English archives, mute testament of their own abasement.

The most important of these petty princes was the Duke of Brunswick, and his opportunity came when the King sent Col. Fawcett to Germany to bargain for man power. He immediately got 4000 infantry and 300 light dragoon. However, upon examination, the British colonel found how he had been tricked by the duke. The front and rear were composed of strong men but the center was worthless. Just how it was settled it is not clear, but his trickery to his own subjects was the climax.

Surrounded by the luxury of a Caesar, he sent these young soldiers off on a late spring voyage in uniforms unfit for service, with no cloaks or overcoats. Their first supply of shoes and stockings did not reach them until they arrived at Portsmouth. Their commander, Baron Riedesel, evidently was a man of action, as he borrowed £5000 and purchased supplies for his starving and freezing soldiers. The Duke of Hesse-Cassel, like his brother, the Duke of Brunswick, had no compunction in trafficking in the blood of his subjects. The second division was more difficult to raise. Hessians able to bear arms disappeared from the fields and it was only through stealing men that they could raise their quota. Soldiers felt a common repugnance to rough sea voyages, moldy food, insufficient clothing and overcrowded quarters.

The Waldeckers were the next to follow, and they arrived in time for the assault on Fort Washington, which was captured with 2000 prisoners. Gen. Knyphausen, the Hessian commander, lost 1000 men. The forces maintained in America from 1776 to 1783 averaged about 20,000 mercenary soldiers.

One young German recruit recorded in his diary: "We were told the biscuits were French and had been taken from the French during the Seven Years' War. Since that time they had been stored in the magazines at Portsmouth and now they were to be used to feed the Germans to kill the French under Rochambeau and LaFayette in America—if God wotted. But, apparently, God did not seem to fancy this idea much."

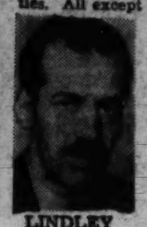
Our Latin Policy

By Ernest Lindley

Discriminating Treatment Is Necessary

AMERICAN POLICY toward Latin America has been modified to take account of the cold realities. All except two of the Latin-American republics have severed diplomatic relations with the Axis and nine have declared war. Two maintain relations with the Axis.



LINDLEY

Obviously it would be unfair both to them and to us to put the 18 nations which have aligned themselves with us on a parity with the two who remain neutral. This is especially true when the strengthening of their defenses is under consideration. The nations which have declared war or broken off relations with the Axis have placed themselves in greater peril. As experience amply proves, neutrality is no barrier to invasion by the Axis powers when any of the latter deem it to their advantage to attack.

But the Axis has much to gain for the present by preserving a foothold in the Western Hemisphere. The neutrality of Argentina and Chile is, for the present, an advantage worth paying for. Well-informed sources believe that Argentina and Chile have been assured that their ships will not be molested by submarines as long as they maintain their present attitude. (Or, to put it another way, Chile, at least, if not Argentina, was informed by the Japanese that if it did not remain neutral, the Japanese would not only sink their ships but bombard their cities and perhaps land an expeditionary force.)

SO AN ARGENTINE military mission has gone home from Washington empty handed.

From the Montevideo conference of 1933 through the conference at Rio after Pearl Harbor, the United States made every effort to preserve a united front in the Western Hemisphere. The nation hardest to please was usually Argentina. Time after time concessions were made to get unanimous agreement. When the European war broke out, one of the first problems to engage the attention of the United States was the maintenance of Latin-American economic life. This was announced at Panama in 1939 and reaffirmed at Havana after the fall of France. We made loans and ships available. Argentina and Chile were among the beneficiaries.

But when it came to working out plans for the common defense of the Western Hemisphere, Argentina proved non-cooperative. In the spring of 1941 the Argentina attitude appeared to change, and a military and naval mission was sent to Washington. But the showdown at Rio made it plain that aid to Argentina was a one-way proposition. For Argentina was unwilling to contribute anything to the defense of the Western Hemisphere. Argentina has the best navy in South America. It could be very helpful to convoy United Nations ships from Argentina ports to the lower boundary of Brazil. So they were informed by the American Government that they could not expect the tanks, armored cars and other weapons they wished to purchase here.

LIKEWISE, Argentine requests for civilian goods will be subordinated to the needs of the nations who have taken their stands at our side. This does not mean that all trade with Argentina will be cut off. American officials realize that the people of Argentina are overwhelmingly pro-United Nations. But we are short of ships as well as of certain supplies. We can spare for the Latin-American runs only the essential minimum. Naturally, our active allies and friends must have the first call. They would have reason to be resentful if they did not get it.

Chile is being accorded an intermediate treatment. Chile, with its 2600-mile coast line, is especially vulnerable and has only a weak defense establishment. This perhaps has been the chief deterrent to the severance of Chilean relations with the Axis. The Chilean government is regarded as pro-United Nations in sympathy, and the Chilean Foreign Minister is expected to visit Washington in the near future.

It will be difficult to satisfy the demands and rightful needs of our loyal friends in South America. Our military equipment is needed first where it is most likely to engage the enemy: on the Russian front, in the Middle East, etc. It is needed also in Australia. The defense of Australia is even more the defense of South America than of North America. It may be needed in the Azores and South Atlantic islands, and even in French North Africa. We can defend South America better on the other side of the Atlantic than along the coasts of the Western Hemisphere. The military strategists below the Equator realize all this. But we have not yet established a barrier on the far side of the Atlantic south of Great Britain. They are naturally concerned about home defense.

Defense at a distance puts a heavy drain on shipping. And shipping, of course, is our worst shortage. But we must send ships to South America for raw materials, and they can take essential civilian supplies as well as weapons. However, both our own citizens and our friends down there undoubtedly will be reassured to learn that we are discriminating between the nations which have stood up to be counted with us and those which have not.

Fair Enough

Mocking Decision

WE CAN GAIN nothing by ignoring the leering cynicism of the majority decision of the Supreme Court in the so-called teamsters' case, one of those foredoomed Thurman Arnold prosecutions, wherein it was held again that no criminal act of a union or its members, acting as such, is beyond the privileges of such predatory bands provided that they set up even the flimsiest pretense that they are pursuing a legitimate aim of a bona fide union.

The fact must be faced that this court is now strongly committed in sympathy with criminality by unioneers and grants them the right to assault, rob and otherwise abuse law-abiding citizens. This attitude was expressed in the carpenters' case in an opinion by Felix Frankfurter and has now been affirmed, but with bolder emphasis in a majority opinion by Jimmy Byrnes, who always seemed a rather decent citizen when he was in the Senate. The carpenters' opinion was just what might have been expected of Frankfurter, but Byrnes had given no previous indication that he might ever hand down from the Supreme Court any such brutal dictum as he put his name to in vindicating thuggery and highway robbery as permissible methods of compelling honest citizens to submit.

THE DECISIONS of themselves are bad enough, but they are so much the worse when it is realized that the policy which they express, the recognition of vice as a weapon of ostensible virtue, will now be accepted by judges in the lower courts who go by the theory that, whatever their own abhorrence, they must follow the Supreme Court.

It is tragic that in such a time as this, indeed in any time, the American people should receive from their highest court the shocking news that any group has the right to slug and rob, threaten and possibly kill unoffending citizens in the furtherance of its own special aims, however noble those aims might be. But the fact must be faced that this is the policy of the Government and the Supreme Court. It is written and rewritten in two important decisions which challenge Congress now to repudiate these dangerous men with legislation disavowing the evil intent which the court has read into the supplementary anti-trust and anti-racketeering laws. Probably most Americans would prefer to believe that these decisions do not mean what they plainly say and thus to retain an artificial confidence in the Supreme Court. That would be a fool's confidence, however. The decisions and opinions are plain and the court is unmistakably and defiantly on the side of the thug and imputes this intent to Congress.

It becomes plainer day by day that Thurman Arnold was put up to his job of prosecuting union racketeers as a fake gesture by the Administration. He selects strong and outrageous cases, prepares them carefully and tries them well, but is licked before he starts, because even though he wins all the way up to the Supreme Court, he doesn't stand a Chinaman's chance there. Thus the Administration, pal and patron of the brutal goon, thief and extortioner, may say for the political record that it fairly tried these cases and is not responsible for the failure of Congress to correct evils which no Congress could have intended to write into any law, but which the Supreme Court finds there nevertheless. By election time it will be seen whether the present Congress intends to submit to this insulting and degrading declaration of the Court.

IN THIS TEAMSTERS' case it was shown, and Chief Justice Stone in his dissenting opinion observed, that members of the teamster's union waylaid trucks approaching New York from New Jersey and Connecticut and, by beating or by threats, compelled the operators to pay them a toll of $9.42 for a large truck or $8.41 for a small one, for permission to enter the city. It was shown and Justice Stone held that such payments were made "only to secure immunity from violence" and, to the fading honor of the court, he added his disbelief that any member of Congress had the temerity to say that payments so made could be regarded as wages by an employer or that the compulsion of such payments "is a legitimate object of a labor union."

Byrnes and his concurring colleagues, on the other hand, had the cynical gall to say that in such circumstances the extortioner becomes a bona fide employe of a bona fide employer and even granted immunity under the racketeering act to "an outsider," meaning one not employed by the victim, "who attempts, unsuccessfully, by violent means, to achieve the status of an employe."

This is, in this time of war, the most dangerous of all the mocking decisions which the new court has flung in the face of Congress and the patriotic, law-abiding people of the country. It is indecent, immoral and an affront to Congress and the people.

India Concerns Us

By Mark Sullivan

Military Importance Of Her Status

AMERICAN popular interest in the British negotiation with Indian leaders is mainly political and humanitarian. We discuss whether India ought to be free; whether she should get her independence at once, or after the war; whether Britain's treatment of India in the long ago past, justifies Indian resentment against Britain today. Floods of that sort of thing flow out over the radio and in newspapers.

SULLIVAN

The public discusses this as if it were something distant and abstract. We had much better do what our military men anxiously do. We had better think about the military consequences of the outcome in India—and its bearing on the ability of the United States to save ourselves from defeat in war.

If the Indian leaders accept the British offer, then Britain goes ahead and manages the defense of India. If India does not accept, then Britain will do what she can anyhow. Britain, for her own sake, must oppose the advance of Japan into India, or to India's border. If India cooperates fully, Britain will be better able to resist Japan, but resist Britain must, for her own sake.

HOW WELL can Britain resist, with or without cooperation by India? Presumably Britain can defend India much better than she was able to defend Singapore. In India, she has had more time to prepare. India is nearer to Britain's home base than Singapore was. In other respects, Britain can defend India much better than she could Singapore.

Yet the fact is, Britain so far has been unable to stop Japan's advance in the direction of India. Japan at this moment is in a situation in which there is at least a possibility of her taking the great Indian port, Calcutta. This, among other advantages, would give Japan access to much needed steel—the first steel that her conquests have brought her. Japan will try hard to take Calcutta.

If Japan is able to take Calcutta, she might be content for the time. She might by-pass the land area for the present, and move on by sea.

THE ULTIMATE objective of Japan in this direction is well understood. It is part of a double objective held by Japan and Germany together. It is that Japan driving west, and Germany driving east, should meet and "shake hands" somewhere in the neighborhood of the Persian Gulf. That Japan has this purpose is plain. She is on her way. That Hitler has this purpose is a common surmise of military men. The surmise is that Hitler, as soon as weather permits, will hold off Russia for the time, while driving by any of three possible routes toward juncture with Japan near the Persian Gulf.

If the juncture takes place, the Axis will control a continuous belt of land from the Atlantic coast of Europe to the Pacific coast of Asia. Such a belt would divide the United Nations into two groups—Russia and China on one side, Britain and the United States on the other. Between the two groups would be almost no communication, except precarious sea routes around the ends of the belt—across the Pacific to Vladivostok in Siberia, or across the Atlantic to Archangel in Russia. Both routes already extremely difficult, would become entirely impracticable if Japan and Germany complete their belt of land. We could no longer send supplies to either Russia or China.

Already, the progress of Japan has almost cut off our access to China. First, Japan cut the Burma Road. Then it was said we could send supplies to China by way of Calcutta. Today, Japan threatens Calcutta. If she takes Calcutta, practically no good route will remain for sending China lease-lend material in great quantities. If the Axis should complete a solid belt of land dividing the United Nations into two groups, the war as a whole would take on shape now impossible to foresee. The belt, while bringing obvious liabilities to the United Nations, might bring unexpected liabilities to the Axis. Besides, Russia may prevent Hitler from achieving his end of the belt.

BUT ONE THING is certain. Our people are not yet fully aware of the effect wrought on their own fate by events as remote in distance, and apparently as remote in consequence to us, as conversations between an Englishman and certain Indian leaders, at a city called New Delhi, on the other side of the globe.

And our people are not even yet aware of the effort this war calls on them to make. The number of cargo ships we must build and man is probably more than double any estimate hitherto made. The number of planes and skilled pilots we need in order to be absolutely certain of victory, is beyond anything we now imagine.

Danger In Burma

By Barnet Nover

Will The Old Story Be Repeated?

THE PAST WEEK has seen a perceptible easing of the Japanese threat to Australia. The improvement may only be temporary. The fact remains that, for the time being, at least, the enemy has made no headway in that sector but, on the contrary, has suffered real losses. And the longer the Japanese are held at bay in the Southwest Pacific the more time the Allies have to strengthen the Australian bastion.

NOVER

Not long ago the odds in favor of the Japanese capture of Port Moresby, on the southern coast of New Guinea, appeared much better than even. They had the advantage of nearby air and sea bases. Their past successes in the Dutch East Indies, the Malay Peninsula, and the Philippines had given them control of invaluable stepping stones enabling them rapidly to establish a considerable fighter force in New Guinea and New Britain, which they had previously captured. Considerable Japanese naval power had also been concentrated in that area presumably with a view to forcing the Torres Strait once Allied air power at Port Moresby had been destroyed.

FOR ONCE, since the Pacific war began, the Japanese now find themselves checkmated. Port Moresby remains in Australian hands. Allied air power employed with great skill and to an extent that was not possible in the fighting elsewhere in the Pacific has done considerable damage to Japanese war craft and merchant vessels at New Guinea, to many Japanese planes on the ground.

Indeed, the United Nations forces found it possible to boast the other day that they were in control of the air over New Guinea. And luck, too, has been on the side of the Allies. Fierce tropical rains washing down the mountains of that vast island are reported to have forced the Japanese back to the northern coast.

We cannot assume that the present favorable situation will continue in the Australian theater of war. But there appears to be a reasonable basis for at least qualified optimism at this time regarding Australia's chances to survive a Japanese onslaught.

IF THE SITUATION in Australia is brighter than it was, the situation in Burma is definitely darker.

The Allies have been making a valiant stand against the enemy. Those seasoned Chinese forces under Gen. Stilwell who cut their way through the Japanese ring that had been thrown around Toungoo have proved that, given anything like an even chance, the United Nations troops can hold back the enemy. Indeed, Japanese progress in Burma has relatively been very much slower than it was in the fighting in the Malaya Peninsula or elsewhere in the Pacific, with the exception, always, of Bataan and now of New Guinea and Australia.

In part, this slowing up of the Japanese pace can be attributed to the circumstance that the further they have penetrated into Burma the further they have moved away from their bases. That, however, is not the whole story. The contributions made by the American Volunteer Group and the R. A. F. in fighting back Japanese air attacks cannot be ignored.

The Allied air force in Burma has been qualitatively far more than a match for the enemy. But the other day there came the ominous news that the Allies were so weak in reconnaissance that they were unable to keep track of the Japanese. This would indicate that the small Allied air force has largely been used up and that reinforcements have not yet arrived to enable them to right the balance now swinging heavily against them.

THE STORY of what is happening in Burma is, at the present state, a repetition of the same old distressing tale. Lacking air power, outnumbered on the ground and inferior at sea the Allies in Burma are fighting a defensive war in which they have found it necessary to give up one position after another.

It was a sea operation that enabled the Japanese to land troops at Akyab, on the Burma coast, only 100 miles from the Indian border. That landing could not have occurred had Allied air power in Burma been adequate. It is anything but adequate at the moment.

THE PROXIMITY of Japanese troops to India, the possibility that the enemy may draw even nearer to that vast sub-continent gives an air of unreality to the feverish debate now raging in India over the British offer of self-rule.

The Indians appear to be arguing over the shape of a cupola to top a house whose foundations are being undermined. The problem which faces India today is whether she is to have any independence at all. She will certainly have none if the Japanese become masters of Asia. But rather than concentrating on fighting the Japanese who would destroy every vestige of freedom they have they are choosing this moment to snipe at Britain because the freedom the British offer them is not wrapped up in the kind of package they favor. Nor is there any agreement among Hindus, Sikhs, Moslems and the other Indian elements as to just what package they do favor.

The fighting in Burma is of direct concern to the peoples of India. It is of equally direct and even more immediate concern to the people of China. If Burma is lost China will be completely cut off from the outside world except by the roundabout route via Russia. There could be no greater disaster to the Allies. That is why an Allied foothold in Burma must be held at all costs.

Second Command

By Ernest Santos

Dilemma For Gen. Wainwright

FROM THE TIME the mantle of Philippine command fell upon his youthful shoulders, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright has been laboring under a heavy and inescapable handicap. He is expected not only to pinch-hit for MacArthur but also to perform military miracles out of thin air. Most likely people will be only too prone to measure his ability by comparing it with that of MacArthur, and while they may applaud half-heartedly his successes, they will not forget nor forgive his failures.

Very few people realize, if at all, that even without considering the legends woven around him that reach the heights of Paul Bunyan's, MacArthur as a general is in a class by himself and that to match his brilliant performances on the field is in itself an onerous task enough to dismay any man less hardy than Wainwright. In addition, Wainwright is counted upon to find ready answers to the many vexatious problems left behind by MacArthur. For instance, he has to devise ways and means to obtain the much-needed reinforcements in men and in material from the United States. And yet undaunted like the good soldier that he is, Wainwright assumed the job in good spirit and resolved to do the best he could under the trying circumstances.

BUT FINE tactician though he may be, having seen active service at St. Mihiel and at Meuse-Argonne during the first World War, Wainwright, at the very start of his new command, has to cope with a foe who is not averse to the use of unorthodox methods of warfare as shown and proven in the Malaya campaigns. He needs not only to keep his wits sharp and eyes on the constant alert but he has also to keep his fingers on the trigger day in and day out without any respite from the impending suspense. The lull that pervades throughout Philippine battle fronts, particularly that of Bataan Peninsula, like a calm before a storm, may prove to be a prelude to an all-out Japanese effort to push the combined American-Filipino forces into the sea before the onset of monsoon season that annually comes in mid-June.

Moreover, Wainwright is handicapped by one essential fact: he lacks the canny knowledge which MacArthur has of Filipino psychology. But it is highly probable that through the stress of war which unites people irrespective of color and creed when fighting a common cause, he will be able to command the loyalty of his Filipino troops and Filipino civilians in both the occupied and unoccupied zones with the same measure of devotion as displayed toward MacArthur. In a way, Wainwright's job will be immeasurably helped by the fact that Filipinos, as a general rule, do not care a whit who leads them in this war. What they do care is that American victory must be achieved and assured at all costs, for in that victory lies the realization of Philippine national aspirations. So that to them the question of command is of very negligible consideration. The Filipinos in the Islands and in this country have enough faith in the fairness of the American people and in the leadership of President Roosevelt to know and to realize only too well that what is being done and what will be done is for the best.

But what is the reaction of Filipinos toward Wainwright's appointment as supreme commander of the American and Filipino forces in the Philippines? How is it liked by Filipinos?

IMMEDIATELY following the announcement that Gen. MacArthur had been transferred to Australia to command all the United Nations' forces in that area and Gen. Wainwright had been named to succeed him in the Philippines, Resident Commissioner J. M. Elizalde declared: "I know I reflect the feelings of every Filipino in the United States when I say I have every confidence in the ability and determination of Gen. Wainwright . . . His record of the last few months makes it certain that he will direct the defense of the Philippines, with the devoted cooperation of his many Filipino and American staff officers, with a spirit and resourcefulness second only to that shown by Gen. MacArthur."

One of the Philippines' most prominent surgeons who has been a confidant to many Filipinos of all social scales is Dr. Guillermo Rustia, now in Washington. Accompanied by his charming wife, he came to the United States in the latter part of 1941 for the sole purpose of touring the country. He said: "Being second in command of the USAFFE, Gen. Wainwright enjoyed a popularity among the Filipino masses equal to that of Gen. MacArthur. He may be less dashing, and all that, and use less colorful expletives, but he is, nevertheless, a good and seasoned soldier who knows his military. I am quite sure that the Filipinos will follow his leadership with unbounded enthusiasm no less to that shown to Gen. MacArthur."

Candido T. Elbo, president of the Washington Filipino Executive Council, said: "The Japanese in Manila found it hard to pronounce Gen. Wainwright's name correctly. But they will find it just as hard, or perhaps even harder, to fight him on the dead-strewn fields of Bataan."

Another refugee Philippine government official now in Washington, Ismael Mathay, of the Philippine National Bank, said: "Gen. Wainwright is a man of high integrity and beloved by Filipino masses. Although his military reputation is less known to the islanders, he was well liked for his military demeanor. His brilliant maneuver while withdrawing from the mountains of northern Luzon, carried out under a hail of fire from the enemy, will alone entitle him to the undying respect of the whole Filipino people."

Japanese Now Control Trade In Rice, Orient's Great Staple

Japan's control in Burma, Thailand and French Indo-China has revealed that other oriental countries depended for much of their food on these countries, the only exporters of rice.

About 85 per cent of the world's rice grows in Asia, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. China produces the greatest amount, but not enough for its own needs.

Rice, chief staple food for more than half of mankind, rivals wheat as the world's daily bread. Also from rice is made sake, a beer, the drink of millions of orientals who never tasted wheat or corn.

Rangoon, Burma's capital, was the world's leading rice port. It built the largest rice elevators in the world, annually shipping some 3,000,000 tons.

French Indo-China in 1939 exported 1,892,000 tons of rice. The country normally produced some 6,000,000 tons. Cholon, just outside Saigon, was devoted largely to milling rice. The country's popular dish is rice and curry. The natives flavor it with an evil-smelling fish sauce.

Thailand (Siam) normally produces about 4,500,000 tons of rice each year, but of this less than a million tons is available as export surplus. At Bangkok some 80 rice mills face the river front. The rich territory recently ceded by French Indo-China to Thailand includes part of Asia's finest rice paddies.

Most of the Thais devote their lives to the cultivation of rice. The grain forms their main diet. Pressed into balls with the fingers, it is dipped in a common bowl of fiery curries and eaten usually with fish. The natives also make crisp rice cakes, and prepare rice in various sweetmeats, as popping it and covering it with palm sugar.

Chinese rice production is estimated at more than 15,000,000 tons. Sometimes four crops a year grow in the same areas. Nevertheless, China had to import billions of pounds of rice, favorite food of the people.

The Philippines likewise relied on outside sources. Half of Java's cultivated land was in rice, but the island had to import. Every irrigable acre in Bali was devoted to rice, many of them producing three crops.

Japan obtains most of its imported rice from Formosa and Korea, where the yield per acre is high. In Japan rice is the leading food. Consumption normally is about 90,000 tons a day.

The Gallup Poll

Registration of Unions, No More Strikes, Cut in Overtime Pay Favored by Public

Princeton, N. J., April 2.—Representative Vinson's bill to require all labor unions to register with the Federal Government reflects the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the American people.

War has brought a stiffening in the country's attitude toward unions. Whereas 75 per cent of the Nation's voters with opinions on the subjected wanted Federal registration of unions three years ago, today 93 per cent do.

Before Pearl Harbor, 73 per cent wanted a law to forbid strikes in war industries, today the number has increased to 86 per cent.

Those results—all from surveys of rank and file opinions held by the American public—do not necessarily mean that war has made the American public more anti-union. A truer explanation is that these results reflect the public's intense desire to tighten control over all forces connected with war production in such a way as to insure the maximum effort and the minimum of obstruction from organized groups.

The latest test of public sentiment on registration of labor unions was prompted by the fact that Congress is now considering the Vinson bill on the subject. Opinion was tested on the following issue:

"Do you think all labor unions should be required to register with the Federal Government and report the amount of money they take in and spend each year?"

Yes	93%
No	7

Approximately one voter in every seven (14 per cent) was undecided or without an opinion.

This vote compares with 75 per cent in favor and 25 per cent opposed in a survey on a similar question in March, 1939.

Forty-Hour Week

Another indication of the public's stiffening attitude toward labor comes from a recent survey on the 40-hour week. It showed the public dissatisfied with the present arrangement by which time and one-half pay for overtime in war industries begins at 40 hours. Only about one-fourth (27 per cent) approve that system.

If the public had its way, the time and one-half pay would not begin until after 48 hours of work.

Regardless of whether the public's attitude is justified or unjustified, the majority of voters apparently feel that organized labor should be called upon to make greater sacrifices than it is now making.

Specifically, it expects labor to cut down on demands for overtime pay, to give up the right to strike for the duration of the war, and to submit to greater regulation of union practices.

Inevitably the question arises: What does the public expect of business?

Do the voters want to regulate unions but let business go scot-free? Tomorrow's article by the Gallup Poll, second of a series of three, will show what the people expect of business in the war crisis.

Britons Favor India's Freedom After War

By British Institute of Public Opinion

London, April 2.—Sir Stafford Cripps' plan for self-government of India to be granted after the war is in line with the main current of British public opinion on the issue.

A poll by the British Institute of Public Opinion shows that the largest number of voters believe the actual granting of dominion status to India should wait until after the war. The poll asked:

"Should India's demand for self-government be granted during the war, or should it wait until after the war?"

150th Anniversary of U. S. Mint

ORIGINAL BUILDINGS OF THE UNITED STATES MINT IN PHILADELPHIA

Back on April 2, 1792, 13 men gathered in a "substantial brick building" in Philadelphia, stared at a pile of household silver, the gift of Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson and others, and settled down to the business of making "silver half dismes"—thus, beginning the world's greatest coinage system.

Yesterday in Washington Treasury officials recalled the project's modest beginnings in celebrating the sesquicentennial of the United States Mint, in a ceremony at the Washington Building, Fifteenth and New York Avenue Northwest.

Nero—a vicious dog who was the official guard for America's first money-making plant, would have had his problems yesterday in watching over the Treasury of the United States.

For the modest plant at 39 North Seventh Street in Philadelphia, that labored to turn out a few thousand coins in 1792, has mushroomed into a gigantic industry that last year put into circulation over 16 billion coins of all denominations.

Nero is replaced today by more than 200 men, making up one of the best trained police forces in the country. The "substantial brick building" has been replaced by eight mints, submints, and Federal depositories. The original function of the Mint, that of making money, has been amplified many times.

ANNIVERSARY CAKE is cut by Nellie Tayloe Ross (left), director of the Bureau of the Mint. Leland Howard, assistant director, got a share as they celebrated the founding 150 years ago of the United States Mint

In describing the growth of the United Staes Mint yesterday, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director, said that since its beginning the Mint had turned out more than 150 billion coins worth more than 6 billion dollars. Every year of its operation the Mint has steadily increased its output and the increase is still going on.

"Few people realize all the duties the Mint has today," Mrs. Ross said yesterday. In addition to making coins, the Mint acts as custodian of all gold and silver bullion imported into the United States; every medal of honor awarded by the armed forces is struck in one of the mints and, besides all its domestic duties, the Mint has undertaken the job of supplying many foreign countries with coins.

There has been a great increase in the demand for coins since the beginning of the war and today every branch of the Mint is working 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The original force of 13 has grown to more than 2400 coiners, engravers, assayers and metallurgists.

In addition to the increase attributable to the war, every coin-using device that has come into being in the last few years has forced production up. Juke boxes, telephones, pin ball and slot machines all have contributed their bit to making the demand for coins more pressing.

At the birthday celebration yesterday, Mrs. Ross pointed out that many of the 2400 employes had been in the Mint all of their adult lives.

"The reason for that is simple, though," Mrs. Ross said. "You see, we are supposed to be the only people in this business."

Rodeo Barbecue Done in Style

Well, pardner, some of the hands may still be sleeping under the sighing cottonwoods 'longside the corral back of Riverside Stadium.

When a feller's full of good free chuck he'd rather sleep than ride a steer and that's what Foghorn Clancy was talking about yesterday while eating generous portions of one and softening it with cigar smoke and beer.

The hands looked at him kindly because Foghorn and Hoot Gibson were giving them a real chuck wagon free feed down there in the sagebrush, ahead of the opening at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow of Col. Jim Eskew's rodeo.

And while a 6-foot press agent could be detected, crouching Indian-like behind the nearest cottonwood with a string of freshly-scalped clippings on his belt, commercialism dropped from sight when Foghorn told how much a man can think of a ferocious Brahma bull.

Unable to impale Foghorn with its horns, the bull, Sudden Death, tried to start something with Undertaker's Choice, another bull, and Doodler, an even larger one, which no one has ridden longer than 10 seconds in seven years.

Well, it looks like some show Col. Jim's brought out there. Sixty bucking horses will vie in mayhem with the 43 Brahma bulls. The Post's Blood Bank Fund will get 10 per cent of the proceeds Sunday night.

Retiring Custodians Say Farewell to Lincoln Shrines

By Gerald G. Gross
Post Staff Writer

Two men whose lives and careers have run in parallel lines to a marked degree paid their farewells together yesterday to Abraham Lincoln.

The one was Thomas H. Clapham, custodian of Lincoln Memorial since January 1, 1920, a year before it was opened to the public; the other, Capt. John T. Clemens, custodian of the Lincoln Museum since its establishment just ten years ago.

Both are Midwesterners, they are only three years apart in age, both fought in the Spanish-American War, both decided to take advantage of the new Ramspeck Act and retire before reaching the statutory age.

And both plan to do a lot of fishing now that they are out of harness.

Their retirement becomes effective June 30 but Captain Clemens started on his accrued annual leave yesterday and Clapham will do the same today.

The latter has been host to more than 15 million persons who have visited Lincoln Memorial.

"And very few they were who did not come with reverence and respect," he said.

Clapham soldiered in the Philippines during the insurrection, following the Spanish War, and then stayed on as a Federal construction worker. In 1906 he returned to the United States to help build the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, went to work for the Smithsonian Institution in 1910 and ten years later was selected to take charge of the new Lincoln Memorial.

He is a native Chicagoan, will be 65 next Thursday and makes his home with Mrs. Clapham in Cabin John, Md.

Captain Clemens was a public buildings employe when he applied for the job as first custodian of the Lincoln Museum, which a decade ago was being set up in historic Ford's Theater on Tenth Street, scene of Lincoln's assassination.

"What do you know about museums?" Captain Clemens was asked when he applied for the job.

"Well, I was in one once," came the reply. His candor helped win him the post.

Like Clapham, his civil employment with the Federal Government began in the Philippines in 1905, after service in the Spanish War and Philippine Insurrection. He is a World War veteran as well. Captain Clemens was born in Pittsburgh on May 11, 1880, and lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Helbig, 5723 Fourth Street Northwest.

Action Begun On Lodging Service Men

The new Washington Recreational and Hospitality Committee of the District Defense Council, formed last Friday met yesterday with Conrad Van Hyning, director of the District Welfare Department, for the first time to consider the immediate recreational and welfare requirements of the District.

First among the problems reviewed by the committee yesterday was the lack of lodging for service men visiting Washington, disclosed by The Post more than a week ago.

Indicating a desire to supply the badly needed beds the committee will begin today a census of the visiting soldiers and the extent to which existing facilities are overtaxed.

In the event that the committee's findings support the claims of Hugo Wolter, director of Recreation Services, Inc., the District group will request the Federal Security Agency assign funds for the immediate construction of barracks held necessary by Wolter.

Federal Security Agency officials yesterday indicated that if the request were made by a responsible Washington group such as the new committee there would be no delay in the allocation of funds.

In order to prevent any holdup in supplying sleeping quarters for the soldiers, Van Hyning asked that the committee focus its entire attention on that problem.

"Other recreational demands are pressing in Washington," he said, "but the most vital at the moment is supplying beds for the service men."

The money necessary for construction of the barracks has been provided for under the Lanham Act and there would be no need of additional Congressional action, Federal Security Agency officials said.

President Agrees To Retire Weddell, Envoy to Spain

President Roosevelt, the White House disclased yesterday, has agreed to the retirement of Alexander W. Weddell as Ambassador to Spain.

Weddell, now in this country on leave, notified the Chief Executive and March 28 that he was preparing to undergo an operation and his physician said a lengthy period of convalescence and observation would be necessary afterward. He said his return to Spain could not take place, under the most favorable circumstances, for some months.

Consequently the envoy asked permission to retire effective upon expiration of his leave.

In a letter of reply dated Wednesday, the President said he felt it necessary to accept the application.

He said Weddell had served his Government "with great distinction for many years as a foreign service officer, and, more recently, as Ambassador to Argentina and as Ambassador to Spain." Expressing a hope for complete restoration of the Ambassador's health, the Chief Executive said he would call upon him for service again when he was well.

Betty Crocker suggests:

● BRIDES SHOULD KNOW about the correct silver service for soup.

A tablespoon is used for soup in regular soup plates . . . A dessert spoon for soup in a bowl, or in a cream soup cup with handles . . . A teaspoon or a round bowled soup spoon adjusts to a bouillon cup.

● EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW about the new easy way to make appetizing home-cooked soup. It's with our new product. We call it "Betty Crocker Vegetable Noodle Soup Ingredients". It's the dry ingredients (99% ready to cook) for a savory, home-cooked soup. You just empty the package into boiling water, add butter, and let it simmer! Almost no work for you.

Each package contains all the dry ingredients for six large bowls of tempting soup. There are seven different vegetables in flake form, lots of rich egg noodles, and zestful herbs and spices.

● GARDEN GOODNESS in the vegetables! There's a difference between this soup and a "warmed over" soup. This is because you cook the vegetables yourself for the first time. They're not pre-cooked.

For our product, choice vegetables are "dehydrated" (brought to low moisture content) while fresh. This process retains the delectable garden flavors.

● PAINLESS ECONOMY! Each package makes six large bowls of delicious soup—twice as much as you get from the average size can. My staff and I think you'll find our new product a delightful way to save time and money.

Women Are Called Backbone Of British Munitions Plants

Women are the backbone of ammunition, rifle, and gun production in Canada, Bertha Nienburg, assistant director of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, declared following an inspection tour to gun and rifle plants of that country.

"Today one-fourth of the factory workers on antiaircraft guns are women. They account for two-thirds of the workers on rifle manufacture, and make up 40 per cent of the employes in machine-gun plants," Miss Nienburg said.

The Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force and Army Corps are making important contributions to the war effort, according to Miss Nienburg, who said the first contingent of the air force has gone to the Uplands Air Station—and that mechanics, fabric workers, equipment assistants, telephone operators, office workers, and cooks were included in it.

Contrasting women's employment in machine shops in this country and Canada, Miss Nienburg said, "Work done by women in machine shops in the United States thus far is on the simpler operations, but Canadian women read blueprints, secure necessary tools and fixtures, set up their own machines and guide their operation. . . .

"They do much of the milling, grinding and drilling. Some women work on turret and engine lathes. They also act as tool-crib attendants, tool grinders, and draftsmen."

Red Cross Volunteers Lose Smart Pockets

As a cloth conservation move, uniforms worn by women volunteers of the American Red Cross will give up their smart bellows side pockets—with flaps—Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director of volunteer special services, announced yesterday.

The uniform with the pockets is now worn by approximately 20,000 women, Mrs. Davis said. In line with this order, the director recently ruled that only volunteers giving a major portion of their time to Red Cross work, and chiefly those in administrative or committee chairmen posts should purchase uniforms.

Five different uniforms are approved by the Red Cross, those for the canteen worker, the volunteer nurse's aide, Gray Ladies, members of the motor corps, and women engaged in outdoor volunteer service. Wash uniforms previously worn in sewing rooms have been discarded in favor of ordinary wash dresses.

Take Off Your Glasses During an Air Raid

Remember to take off your glasses during an air raid, the District of Columbia Society for the Prevention of Blindness advised yesterday in a list of precautions outlining procedure for care of the eyes in case of an attack by enemy planes.

Other suggestions listed included: Keep eyes closed as much as possible. If your eye is burned, flush freely with water and as soon as possible drop olive oil or castor oil in freely. If a severe blow is received over the eyes, do not blow your nose.

If you suddenly lose a portion or all of your vision in either or both eyes, remain calm. "This type of blindness is often only a phenomenon of hysteria, and is not permanent."

If an eyelid injury is followed by considerable bleeding, cover with a clean handkerchief and apply pressure till bleeding stops. If dirt enters eye, flush freely with water.

John Russell Young Works on 60th Birthday

John Russell Young, civilian defense coordinator for the Metropolitan Area and president of the Board of Commissioners, spent his sixtieth birthday yesterday working as usual.

He said he felt great for a man who had lived three-score years but wouldn' give any growing-old-gracefully advice until he reached 80.

Only 6 Weeks Left For Japs, Elizalde Says

Unless the Japanese win the battle of Bataan before the typhoon season starts in about six weeks they will have "lost the opportunity, perhaps forever," Philippine Commissioner J. M. Elizalde said over Station WOL last night.

During this season rainfall in the Philippines amounts to as much as five or ten inches a day, Elizalde said, making land attacks impossible, but not preventing the United States forces from continuing attacks by subs and surface raiders on the enemy.

600 D. C. Employes Being Photographed

Army authorities yesterday began protographing for indentification purposes some 600 District employes and others working in the Municipal Center.

The "mugging" was ordered by the provost marshal's office, it was said, as a further precaution in protecting the Army Quartermaster Corps, which occupies about 60 per cent of the New District Building.

All persons coming regularly to the building were required to be pictured. It was said that in the future those without protographs will not be permitted to enter except by pass issued at the guards' office.

Those photographed yesterday included civilian Police Department employes, workers in the City Refuse and Health Departments, the Traffic Department and reporters working at Police Headquarters.

Business Group Urges Air-Raid Shelters

Construction of underground air raid shelters all over the District was urged last night in a resolution adopted by the Central Business Association.

Meeting in the New Colonial Hotel, the association also protested abolition of the accident prevention unit of the police traffic bureau and appointed a committee to call on the Commisioners to protest "failure to include a representative of small businessmen" on the seven-man parking board.

Members of the committee which will call on the Commissioners are William J. Mileham, president of the Federation of Business Men's Associations; Estes Brand, president of the Central Association, and Arthur Clarendon Smith, Nathan Goodman, Louis Obergh and Francis C. Heigle.

Short Circuit Causes 10-Minute Raid Alarm

An air-raid siren atop Lafayette School, Broad Branch Road and Northampton Street Northwest, caused a flurry of excitement last night, when it popped off for about ten minutes.

Residents of the neighborhood swamped police, air-raid headquarters and newspaper switchboards, asking whether there was an "alert."

It wsa the second time yesterday the siren had sounded, caused by a short circuit.

Col. Nicholas Dies At Hospital Here

Lieut. Col. Ira C. Nicholas, 49, Army infantry officer, died Wednesday at Walter Reed Hospital, it was announced yesterday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lillian Nicholas, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A native of Suffern, N. Y., Nicholas had been in the Army since 1910. He served with the University of Georgia, R. O. T. C., and at Camden, N. J., as a National Guard instructor.

Policemen Halt Woman's Attempt At Bridge Leap

A well-dressed woman about 50 was prevented from jumping from the Calvert Street Bridge about 4:30 p. m. yesterday by Scout Car Policemen T. A. Brown and A. R. Ashley of the Eighth Precinct.

The patrolmen were dispatched to the bridge in answer to a telephone report and found the woman pacing nervously back and forth at the rail in the center of the span. She attempted to climb the railing just as the policemen arrived.

She became hysterical when the officers approached her and refused to identify herself. She said she wanted to end her life "because of a secret which I can't tell."

Maine's G. O. P. Backs War Effort

Portland, Me., April 2 (AP).—The Republican Party of Maine, meeting in the first State political convention since Pearl Harbor, today pledged its whole-hearted support to President Roosevelt "in a vigorous and efficient prosecution of the war."

Support for the Nation's war effort came in a 325-word platform which called for elimination of non-essential Government activities, restriction of undue war profits, and rigid restraints on inflation.

Dutch Diplomat Dies

London, April 2 (AP).—The death of Jonkheer Dr. Herman Adriaan van Karnebeek, 67, former Netherlands foreign minister, was announced today. The funeral took place Wednesday at The Hague, Aneta, Netherlands news agency, reported.

Maundy Thursday Masonic Rites Attended by 500

Visitors from thirty States attended Maundy Thursday rites last night at the Sottish Rite Temple, 2800 Sixteenth Street Northwest, held by the Evangelist Chapter of Knights of the Rose Croix, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry.

About 500 in the temple auditorium observed the ritual conducted by Ralph Gauker, most wise master, and a full cast.

Special Easter services will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the temple.

Many of the visitors from distant jurisdictions were in Washington in connection with war work. A number of representatives of foreign Masonic jurisdictions also were present.

PLATTER CHATTER

Traditional Easter Foods Should Be Served In Gala Attire From the Breakfast Egg to the Ethereal Spring Dessert to Climax the Dinner

EASTER TIME—that means it is time to pay tribute to the rabbit and the egg and the porker, too, for his hams. Ham is the traditional meat for Easter. One of my earliest recollections concerning Easter, other than hunting the bunny's nest with its colored eggs, is of driving into the country to a farm with my family to select the hickory-smoked ham that we always had, rain or shine, for our Easter dinner.

The ham would be suspended from the rafters of the smokehouse by a string, and mother and dad would, with great deliberation, select the one they considered best. And from the same farm we would bring home "strictly fresh" eggs, which mother used in diversified forms. Dad always went the elastic limit in eating soft-cooked eggs for Easter breakfast, and usually we ran a race to see who could eat the most. Angel food cake with fresh strawberries was another Easter delight in our household.

Hams have changed drastically in their ways of preservation since those childhood days. The "modern" hams don't take all the time for preparation of those "ancient" ones.

Ham Selection Important

Nevertheless buying the Easter ham is as important as selecting an appropriate Easter bonnet. Always buy a reliable brand that you know will be tender, full-flavored and delicious. Whether you serve a whole or a half, the baking process has been made infinitely easier by the production of modern tender hams. Follow the directions for proper cooking which comes with the ham. Remember that the new tender ones need no parboiling or water cooking. Just place fat side up in a moderately slow oven, about 350 degrees, on a rack in a roasting pan with no water or cover. There will be a natural basting of rich fat during the baking period. A 12-pound ham will bake in about 3 hours, but the directions that come with it will tell you the exact length of time to bake it for real juicy tenderness.

Glazing and garnishing also add a truly royal effect to the Easter ham. When the ham is thoroughly cooked, cut off the skin and score the fat in uniform pieces, either triangular, diamond or square. Cut only about ¼ inch deep so that the fat will not spread open and spoil the design. Sift brown sugar (if available) over the fat, then drizzle honey or maple sirup over the top. It may be studded with cloves, or orange marmalade may be used as a glaze. Return the ham to a hot oven for 15 minutes or until the desired brownness is reached.

If you want to garnish to complete the picture book effect, there are many and varied garnishes. But do make edible ones and be reasonable in your creations. Here are some suggestions for garnishes. Nosegays of turnip narcissus standing in nests of green spinach stems are easy and inexpensive to make. Slice the turnips about ⅛ inch thick and cut rounds into petaled patterns. Place a small round of carrot in the center of each turnip flower and fasten with toothpick. Stand the flowers upright in bunches of short spinach stems. The spinach leaves may be cooked and served as the vegetable so the heavier stalks or stems will be available for a pretty green base. The flowers can be prepared early and kept in water until the ham is ready to serve. Then arrange the miniature bouquets of narcissus around the majestic baked ham and you'll have a very festive platter to set before either guests or the family.

Festive Potatoes

If potatoes—the Irish variety—are to be on the menu, perhaps you would like to put them into Easter form, too. Potato nests filled with hot buttered peas is one way to vary the vegetable service. They are really mashed potatoes, with additions. Make them this way:

Potato Nests—To 3 cups hot mashed potatoes add 3 tablespoons butter and 2 well beaten eggs, salt and pepper. Beat and then add 1-2 cup hot milk (about) to the potatoes gradually. Add 2 tablespoons chopped chives and beat until light and fluffy. Form nests on baking sheet with spoon or pastry bag. Bake at 350 degrees until lightly browned. Fill with hot buttered peas.

Leg of lamb is often the choice for Easter dinner. This meat requires no special trick of preparation. Simply place it cut side up, rounded side down, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not ask your butcher to remove the fell, that thin paper-like covering over lamb, as this does not influence the flavor in any way, and it does influence somewhat the cooking time. Season the roast with salt and pepper, place in a slow oven, 300 degrees, and cook at this temperature until the lamb is done.

To determine when the leg is done you can use either a meat thermometer or lacking that, allow about 30 minutes per pound for roasting a leg of lamb. If thermometer is to be used, insert in the roast before placing it in the oven, putting it into the meat so that the bulb reaches the center of the fleshiest part, making sure that the bulb does not rest on the bone. When the internal temperature registers 175 degrees the lamb will be medium done; at 180 degrees it will be well done.

Effective Garnishes

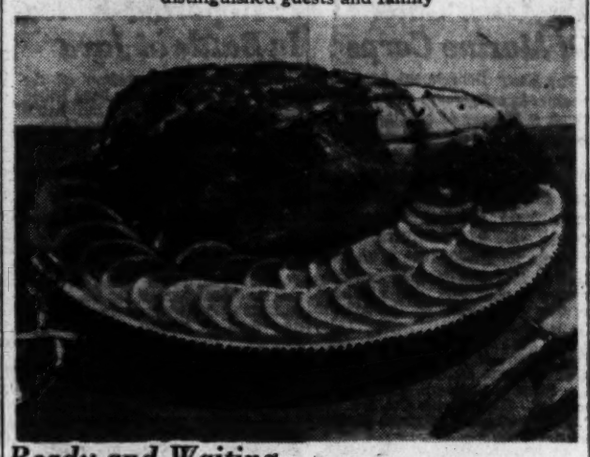
One of the simplest yet most attractive ways of garnishing a leg of lamb is the use of slices of beets and a few sprigs of mint. Small whole carrots, uniform in size, may be glazed in the pan with the leg of lamb and arranged along one side of the roast. Green beans, with carrots, whole or cut in slices, placed on the beans is another attractive garnish. Parsley potato balls are an appealing accompaniment to the roast and can be arranged attractively. Of fruit accompaniments there is an endless variety. Pineapple is always good with lamb. Pineapple rings with a prune in the center of each ring may be arranged around the roast. Or a cube of mint jelly may be placed in the center of the pineapple ring. The fruits as well as the vegetables should be heated before being used as a garnish. In many cases, they can be placed in the pan with the roast just before the end of the cooking time. They can be browned for more attractive appearance and the juice from the meat will enhance the flavor.

A deluxe angle food cake is hard to improve upon for a spring dessert. If the sugar bucket will yield 1½ cups sugar, the following recipe of Kathryn Bele Niles, director of foods and nutrition, Poultry and Egg Board, will be a dependable one to use to make the angel food cake.

De Luxe Angel Food Cake—Sift ¼ cup sugar with 1 cup pastry flour for three times. Beat 12 egg whites (approximately 1½ cups) to a coarse foam, then sprinkle ¾ teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar over surface and continue beating until stiff but glossy. Continue beating, adding 1 cup sugar in 2 tablespoon portions. Add 1 teaspoon flavoring. Sift in flour and sugar to fold into meringue in four parts. Pour into ungreased tube pan 10 by 4½ inches. Bake 350 degrees for 1 hour. Invert pan and let cake cool before removing it, usually about 1 hour.

The Height of Fashion

Fluffy egg nests, as pictured above, are a colorful version of eggs in the grand manner for Easter breakfast. Bake them in attractive servers, such as individual Francescan pottery ones, and then proudly serve them to the most distinguished guests and family



Ready and Waiting

The Easter parade of food is not complete without a succulent baked ham. Orange slices make a proud escort for the ham, achieving an effect delightful in color and delicious in flavor. Or, if you feel artistically inclined, copy the narcissus, daffodil or crocus with pineapple and angelica

Glaze Easter Ham For Flavor, Looks

If you want to glaze the Easter ham the following recipe is one that uses honey, orange juice and spices to a grand achievement. This recipe makes sufficient glazing for a 10 to 12-pound ham. And a hame of this size will serve approximately 20 persons.

Glazed Easter Ham—Remove skin and score fat surface with sharp knife. Cover entire surface with 2 cups finely ground cracker crumbs. Boil together for 5 minutes in a saucepan, 1 cup corn syrup, ½ cup orange juice, 4 whole cloves and 1 stick cinnamon. Brush lightly over the cracker crumbs with this syrup. Place ham fat side up in an open roasting pan and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees for 30 minutes, basting frequently with the syrup mixture.

Egg Nests Make Ideal Breakfast Dish

Fluffy Egg Nests are ideal for Easter morning breakfast. This makes a pretty service as well as a delicious one. Use attractive individual serving dishes and spread the toast round with cheese, chopped fried bacon or frizzled ham, before the egg is put on it.

Fluffy Egg Nests—Beat 1 separated egg white until dry with ⅛ teaspoon salt. Spread on buttered toast. Drop yolk into depression in center with a small lump of butter on top. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, until the white is slightly browned—about 3 to 4 minutes. Make one serving.

Pleasant Change

Try serving apricot nectar as the breakfast beverage tomorrow. The liquefied fruit goes well over cereals, too, for a pleasant change. It's a good way for the busy workers in your family to obtain both the whole-wheat values of cereals and the nutritive values of fruit in one easily eaten dish. Other whole-fruit nectars—peach-nectarine, pear, plum and peach—are equally valuable for the variety they bring to everyday breakfasts and for the aid they may be in the preparation of puddings, pudding sauces, gelatin salads and desserts.

Poor Planning Delays Planes, Truman Says

By James Free

Copyright by Chicago Sun

Big airplane assembly plants on the West Coast cannot operate at full capacity because of "a poor job of over-all planning by the armed services and the old OPM," the Senate's War Production Investigating Committee declared yesterday.

"Usual red tape and delays in making contracts" were said to be partly to blame, also.

The report, based on field surveys of a special subcommittee from March 9 to March 25, pointed out, however, that Pacific Coast aircraft plants are turning out several times the number of planes produced a year ago and that output is rising month by month.

Plane Planning Unit Asked

Current aircraft section executives of the War Production Board came under the committee's fire, with the assertion that its subcommittee has been advised that "the WPB still does not have a single topnotch aircraft production man in its organization."

The committee, headed by Senator Truman (Democrat), of Missouri, recommended creation of a WPB section for "over-all planning" of aircraft output, and that a trained aircraft production executive be drafted from industry to head the section. Concentration of the WPB's efforts should be directed at breaking specific bottlenecks "instead of wasting its energies on a generalized plea for 'all-out production.'"

Calling attention to what it described as "one of the most flagrant attempts at war profiteering to come to its notice," the subcommittee said that the defense plant corporation's agreement with a Las Vegas (Nevada) magnesium plant would allow the plant a royalty return of $280,000 on a total investment of not over $50,000.

"Premium on Mismanagement"

Not only does the agreement permit the plant, operated by Basic Magnesium, Inc., to earn $1-a-ton royalties for selling itself ore, the subcommittee continued, but it "also is to receive a fee for operation of the plant, which at maximum production will equal $560,000-a-year over a possible period of 30 years, although it is not even sufficiently financially responsible to warrant the leasing of the property to it."

Moreover, cancellation of the agreement for any reason—even poor performance on the part of Basic Magnesium, Inc., would cost the defense plant corporation one million dollars and double the royalties on each ton of ore, according to the subcommittee, which commented:

"The terms seem to put a premium on mismanagement and incompetency."

Biggest mistake of Army, Navy and OPM officials in mapping the West Coast airplane program, it was said, was failure to expand facilities of subcontractors to supply parts and subassemblies needed for the enlarged assembly plants. This caused shortages in critical items and has made it impossible for assembly lines to work at top speed, the committee declared.

Only one out of several score production executives consulted by the subcommittee suggested that lifting the basic 40-hour work week would increase output, and this lone executive's plant was the only company visited where employer-employe relations were not harmonious, the report said.

"Employes in nearly all plants were working a 48-hour week," the report continued, "and comments of several executives indicated that the overtime pay for the 8 hours over 40 was figured as part of weekly earnings and that if it were eliminated it might be necessary to increase hourly rates to provide approximately the same weekly earnings."

Chile Will Keep Axis Ties, Rios Implies

Broadcasting to the nation from the Alameda Palace, the new Chilean president said:

"The government will cultivate cordial relations which are maintained with all other countries, and the ministry of foreign affairs of Chile will act in the international field with the serene dignity which corresponds to its traditions.

"Our country, in accordance with its standards of loyalty and the sentiments of the citizenry, will carry out faithfully the duties of continental solidarity. . . .

"The executive will adopt important steps when they must be taken under the unmistakable expression of the national will."

Rios, elected by the "Democratic Front," a political combination with a platform for democracy and American solidarity, said that "I will keep up the same spirit in government which brought me to it."

Calls For Unity

"I again call for a union of the diverse groups and various forces to support what the ordinary basis of a republican democracy and social justice requires," Rios said.

The new president expressed hope that the union of pro-democratic groups would "be continued for a dynamic purpose and not to satisfy selfish aims."

"The concept of a national government," he said, "will not be used to cover doctrinary arguments nor to advance political ends, but to stimulate action in our human capital."

Rios promised an impartial administration.

"I repeat," he said, "that the state with its powers will protect legal rights and fulfill its task without favoritism."

At the Rio Conference of American Foreign Ministers, while Chile was operating under an acting President after the death of "Popular Front" President Pedro Aguirre Cerda, the Chilean delegation reserved the right to refer the resolution to Congress for ratification.

Juan Rossetti, the Chilean foreign minister who teamed up with Argentina's Ruiz Guinazu at Rio against all the other republics, was replaced in the cabinet by Rios' new Foreign Minister Ernesto Barros Jarpa, a reputed advocate of Pan-American cooperation.

Roosevelt Virtually Asks Rios to Break

Copyright by Chicago Sun

President Roosevelt yesterday virtually invited Juan Antonio Rios, newly inaugurated President of Chile, to join with the majority of the New World republics and sever relations with the Axis.

Of the 21 American republics, only Argentina and Chile failed to follow last January's Rio de Janeiro conference and break off relations with Japan, Germany and Italy. Rios was elected after the conference, however, and his administration generally was expected to move closer to the anti-Axis policy of the United Nations.

Mr. Roosevelt phrased his invitation for severance of relations in indirect words, but his meaning was clear. Congratulating the new Chilean president on his inauguration which occurred today, Mr. Roosevelt said he was "confident . . . that under your administration Chile will continue in the vanguard of those nations upon the decisions and actions of which at this critical time in world history the future of free men and of men who would regain their freedom so definitely depends."

"It gives me great pleasure to convey to your excellency my heartiest congratulations and good wishes upon your inauguration as chief executive of the Republic of Chile," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The whole course of the relations between our two countries has been one of common devotion to those democratic ideals and processes which the people of Chile and the United States so fervently cherish."

War Plant Cost $1 Per Cu. Ft., Prober Claims

Two of Washington's monumental marble edifices, built to last for generations, yesterday were cited to a House investigating committee as illustrations of how the taxpayer's money is being spent for construction of a temporary Louisiana shell-loading plant.

The Supreme Court and new House Office buildings, a special Military Affairs Committee was told, cost only a little more per cubic foot, in the first case, and considerably less, in the second, than an $80,308.68 building—one unit of the sprawling 27-million-dollar Louisiana Ordnance Plant at Minden, near Shreveport.

The ordnance building, said Gordon K. Miller, committee investigator, cost $1 a cubic foot. After describing the Supreme Court building, with its glittering marble exterior, its paintings and its sculptured friezes, Miller gave the cost of the edifice as $1.10 a cubic foot—"and that, mind you, includes profits to the contractor."

Astronomical Costs

Then he described the structure in which the committee hearing was being conducted—the new House Office Building. That, he said, cost 75 cents a cubic foot, including air-conditioning.

Thus Miller dramatized for members of the committee, headed by Representative Thomason (Democrat), of Texas, the opening chapter of a new story on astronomical costs in arming the Nation for its Axis war.

Miller and H. Ralph Burton, committee counsel, testified that the Minden plant is being built by the Silas Mason Co., of New York City, under a cost-plus-fixed fee contract for the War Department. Original construction cost estimates, said Burton, totaled $15,776,944. Since the contract was let last July, he revealed, the estimates have twice undergone "upward revisions," so that the total now is $27,870,000.

Burton told the committee that Sials Mason is to be paid fees totaling $861,765 for designing, building and operating the plant. Estimates covering 12 months' operation total $25,100,000, he said.

Swollen Estimates

Miller gave the committee more than a score of instances of swollen estimates for plant structures erected for temporary use, but in which costly and durable materials are being utilized. These materials, he said, include large quantities of heavy steel for reinforcing concrete, asbestos siding and, in a single section on the vast plant, 5500 pounds of war-vital copper.

Miller told the committee the buildings at Minden were put up with the expectation that the plant would be operated for five years. Burton cited a provision in the company's contract providing that no structure "shall be permanent unless specifically authorized in advance by the Secretary of War."

Miller's testimony was illustrated with photographs taken during a month-long investigation of the seven-foot-square gate house, designed to provide shelter for two gate guards.

The erevised estimate for the building, he said, was $3409. Representative Sparkman (Democrat, of Alabama, looked at the picture and said he couldn't see where the structure should have cost more than $200. Miller stated that he found "from 15 to 20" such buildings in the plant area.

Fancy Designs

Miller displayed a photo of the reinforcing steel used in the concrete base for gate houses. This steel, he said, not only had to be fabricated, but tied together by skilled, $1.25-an-hour labor—"to reinforce what was to be a temporary base to support not more than the live weight of two men."

Fancy designs and overly elaborate windows, he said, contributed to a cost for these houses that, he said, was "completely out of reason." Miller asserted that he asked a foreman why such heavy reinforcing material was being used, and received this reply:

"God knows. Hog mesh would be just as good."

Army Streamlines Anthem So Males Can Hit 'Land of the Free'

"The Star-Spangled Banner" has been "streamlined."

This was disclosed yesterday by Major Howard Bronson, Army morale officer, at a session of the National Conference of Music Educators in Milwaukee. Bronson presented the educators with a version of the national anthem which he helped arrange and persuaded them to sing it with him.

The Bronson version is written in the key of A flat instead of B flat, as in the customary versions. The troublesome high notes are lowered a trifle, making the famous song easier for deep-voiced males to sing.

Maj. Bronson told the group that his version would unite the country in uniform singing of the national anthem.

The most troublesome note, High F (on "free" in "The Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave") becomes E flat in the streamlined arrangement. Although still pretty tough on the bassos, most males can sing High E flat with considerably less strain than is required for High F.

Lieut. Charles Brendler, leader of the Navy Band, said that musicians in the Army, Navy and Marine Bands knew of the Bronson version, but preferred to play the original, even when singing groups accompanied them.

"We play the B flat version and leave it to the ladies to catch the high notes," Lieut. Brendler said. "The men often just mumble along."

The Navy Band has a "streamlined" version of the Francis Scott Key composition which leaves the original melody and key unchanged, he said. This version has plenty of "fanfares and bugles," he said.

Maj. Harold W. Kent, liaison officer of the Army Bureau of Public Relations of Washington, told the group that music is one of the vital elements of a fighting army. It is up to music educators to "do their part" in the advancement of the war effort, he said.

Kent declared that there was an ever-growing utilization of music as a means of entertainment and recreation for the armed forces as well as its official application through the medium of Army bands.

Lilla Belle Pitts, of Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, was elected president of the conference.

Keyser Named To Assist Chief Of Marine Corps

The Navy Department yesterday announced assignment of Brig. Gen. Ralph S. Keyser as assistant to the commandant of the Marine Corps.

General Keyser, a native of Thoroughfare, Va., succeeds Brig. Gen. Charles D. Barrett, whose new duties have not been announced. Keyser, who had a brilliant record overseas in World War I, was retired in 1937 and recalled to active service a year ago. He has been serving as director of the Marine Corps Reserve.

The appointment of Brig. Gen. Harry Schmidt as secretary to the Marine Corps commandant, Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, was also announced. He succeeds Col. William C. James, who will be given another assignment.

Arizona's Heroic Band All Graduated Here

The 21 members of the band of the battleship Arizona, who died at battle stations when the vessel was sunk at Pearl Harbor December 7, were all graduated from the Navy Music School here May 23, 1941, the Navy announced yesterday.

Dispatches from Honolulu Wednesday disclosed that the entire Arizona band was wiped out while carrying on their battle role of passing ammunition in the Pearl Harbor attack. Confirming this, the Navy said that the band had been formed at the Music School here last year.

Lieut. Gustafson Is Reported Killed In Battle of Java

Lieut. Arthur Gustafson of the United States Navy has been killed in action, probably in the battle of Java, his wife, Mrs. Eva Gustafson, of Takoma Park, Md., was notified yesterday.

Mrs. Gustafson, now living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Smythe, at 7 Grant Avenue in Takoma Park, said she had "always felt he would come back."

She and Lieut. Gustafson were married July 18, 1939, at the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, and shortly thereafter left for his station in China. Later they went to his new post at Manila and she was evacuated from there in the autumn of 1940.

Lieut. Gustafson, a member of the Annapolis Naval Academy class of 1936, is survived also by a brother, Lieut. (junior grade) William Gustafson of the United States Navy, stationed in South Carolina, and by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gustafson, Watertown, S. D.

Civil Service Credit Union Funds Stolen

Approximately $1148 in credit union funds was stolen from a locker at the United States Civil Service Commission, Seventh and F Streets Northwest, police were told last night.

D. S. Davidson, union treasurer, who reported the theft, said the union is a savings and loan association for commission employes. Detectives investigating the theft said that $311 in checks was found in a mailbox at the commission.

Skeet Shoot King To Train Gunners For U. S. Navy

DEYOE

He was called to service because of his gunnery skill and will report to Pensacola for training. Afterward he will be stationed in another section of Florida.

Deyoe, who lives at 5019 Fifth Street Northwest, is captain of the all-American skeet team and formerly captained a team from the National Capital Skeet Club. He has won literally a car load of trophys shooting the clay birds.

He was attached to the Fourth Police Precinct and served for 14 years on the vice squad. His duties in the Navy will be to train gunners.

Political Activity Open to Soldiers, Except Regulars

National Guardsmen, reserve officers and selectees in the Army may, under certain circumstances, enter political races and hold public office, the War Department decreed yesterday.

Principally affected by the ruling are men who took leave from public office to enter the service and are interested in seeking election or re-election while on active duty. The rigid, "no-politics" ban still holds for members of the Regular Army.

Basis for the ruling was an opinion by the Attorney General last July holding that National Guardsmen are not subject to provisions of the Hatch Act, forbidding political activities by Federal employes, because of the compulsory nature of their service. Yesterday's ruling extended this exemption to members of other reserve units and selectees because of the similar nature of their service.

Missing Boy, 3, Found; He Just Went to Movie

Three-year-old Georgie David gave police and his parents a lot to worry about last night when he strayed from his home and was gone three hours.

Georgie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell David, 723 B Street Southeast, strayed from home last week, was found, and apparently liked the experience.

Last night at 10:30 o'clock, his mother spotted Georgie coming from a movie theater near his home. He was twirling a toy pistol he had purchased earlier at a dime store, but no one seems to know how he got in the movie. He didn't buy a ticket.

Georgie knows, doubtless, but he's not saying.

HEY, SCOTTY! HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT THE WONDERFUL NEW DOG FOOD—KELLOGG'S GRO-PUP?

Try this entirely new food for dogs . . . and see if your dog isn't livelier, happier, in better condition than ever!

GRO-PUP was created by Kellogg's in Battle Creek only after independent studies had been made at leading universities to discover what a dog's actual food needs are!

When fed as directed with table scrap meat, broth or milk, this remarkable food gives dogs of all ages a splendid diet . . . no need to buy additional food or expensive tonics.

It is marvelous for puppies, too—gives them bone-and-muscle-building food elements they need during the vital period when they're growing, up to 20 times faster than children!

Such a food, you might think would be costly. But KELLOGG'S GRO-PUP is decidedly economical. One box contains as much food as 5 one-pound cans of ordinary dog food. A single box is all you need buy to feed a 15-pound dog for a whole week.

This entirely new food for dogs, made in ribbon form, is at your grocer's now. Why not try it? And when you see your dog fill out and grow stronger, with glossy coat and sparkling eyes—you'll be everlastingly glad you did!

Father Receives D.S.C. for Hero Killed in Hawaii

The Distinguished Service Cross, awarded posthumously to Corpl. William T. Anderson, of Quantico, Va., for heroism in the Japanese bombing of Hickam Field, Hawaii, on December 7, was presented to his father at Fort Belvoir, Va., the War Department announced yesterday.

Brig. Gen. E. H. Marks, commanding general at Fort Belvoir, presented the decoration to Herbert C. Anderson, of Quantico, the corporal's father, at a ceremony Wednesday, which included a review of the First Engineering Training Battalion in honor of young Anderson.

Anderson, a corporal in the Air Corps, was cited for "extraordinary heroism" during the Japanese attack.

"While on duty as a radio operator," the citation said, "Corpl. Anderson voluntarily obtained a submachine gun and with utter disregard for his own safety, took position in the open field without cover and continued to fire at enemy planes, which were bombing and strafing a field, until he was mortally wounded."

Funeral Set Tomorrow For Dr. Meledy

Dr. Meledy is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Hayes Meledy, 1727 Massachusetts Avenue Northwest, and his father, John Meledy, of Providence, R. I.

Capt. Morgan Will Quit Police Force June 1

Retirement of Capt. Joseph Morgan, commander of the Fifth Police Precinct, will become effective about June 1, it was announced at Police Headquarters yesterday.

MORGAN

Veteran of 41 years' service, Morgan will be 64 on May 13 and will fall under the new 64-year-old compulsory retirement order. With accumulated leave, his time in the Police Department will continue until June 1.

Morgan was appointed to the force in July 1901 and was made a detective sergeant in February, 1919. Nine years later he was appointed an acting lieutenant and placed in charge of the Detective Bureau at night.

Made a full lieutenant in 1929, he was given command of the homicide squad and in 1931 was promoted to the rank of captain.

Lieutenants eligible for Morgan's post include Emil Desch, Nelson O. Holmes and John R. Jeffries.

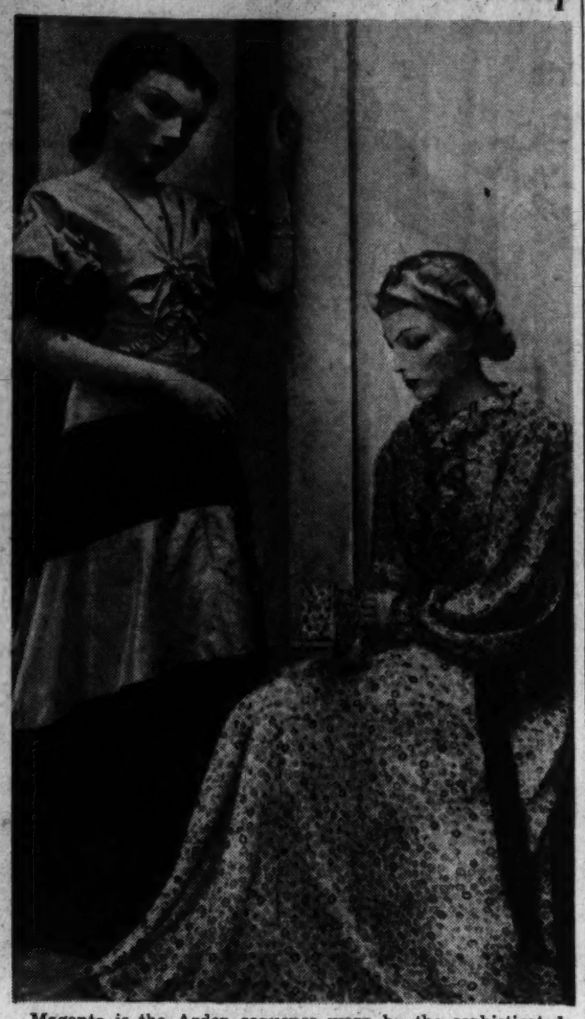
Exotic and Demure in Make-up



Magenta is the Arden sequence worn by the sophisticated Galatea (left) in rose and green taffeta housecoat. This black-haired mannequin was exotic wearing the subtle but exciting new red, mauve sequence at a recent showing at a local store. The demure mannequin (right) wears the latest Arden creation, Mille Fleurs harmony make-up, which is recommended to give skin, lips and fingertips a glowing natural sheen to wear with flower shades

By Carolyn Abbott

"An unattractive woman is a liability in these days when personal femininity plays such a part in the defense program." That is the thought that Miss Ruth Mills, representative of Elizabeth Arden, emphasized to the guests at a fashion show featuring Arden sequences at a local store recently. Miss Mills believes that women of 1942, who are coming to handle a great part of the world's work, can accomplish more if they look as attractive as they do efficient. Galatea mannequins created by Elizabeth Arden modeled a wide range of exquisite housecoats and negligees, wearing the makeup sequence which harmonized most effectively with their robes, skin coloring and hair. The demonstration proved that a woman can wear the color of her fancy in clothing, rather than the one that "belongs" to her, if she provides herself with harmonious makeup. So the bugaboo of greens for the redhead, blues for the blue-eyed and violets for the silver-haired is a thing of the past because of modern cosmetology. Following were the sequences shown:

Mille Fleurs — Petal pink makeup gave lips and fingertips a glowing, natural sheen to wear with the flower shades of the Mille Fleurs print negligee modeled. The rouge was several tones lighter than the lipstickk for delicacy. Two lovely eye "shaddos" to harmonize—violet and brown. two powder combinations, Renoir Pink Illusion and Mat Fonce Cameo gave the mannequin's complexion a petal smoothness.

Red Feather—A new true red like the stripes in the flag. Excellent to wear with uniforms and tailored suits, lovely with navy blues and blacks, lifting with deep grays and dull blues.

Magenta — A subtle, exciting red, mauve-toned and very high fashion. To be worn with gay combinations such as vivid purple with lemon yellow, glowing turquoise, grape shades pastel pink, and lends unusual chic to black, white, beige or grey. Can be worn from dawn to dusk, with dark wools, jersey and tailored furs, as well as for evening glamour with velvets, damasks and brocades.

Victory Red—A color to brighten R.A.F. Blue and Army costumes. Also to be worn with black, dark green, grey and harmonizing reds.

Women Work Hard at Study Of Mechanics

By Ida Jean Kain

FROM NOW ON there won't be any appealing females waiting by the roadside for some strong, chivalrous man to some along and change that flat rear tire. Or will there?

At any rate, the women pitching into defense work are learning to change their own tires, even in a blackout, and to clean cylinders and take a motor apart and put it togeiher again without having any spare parts left over.

Although tinkering with a car has always been regarded as a man's prerogative, it is all in the night's work for the various voluntary services recruiting women. The mystery of mechanics is turning out to be surprisingly simple.

Surprisingly Simple

As observed by one competent housewife down on her hands and knees on a garage floor to see what made the wheels of a truck go around. "Why, it's no more complicated than a steam cooker!"

Her particular outfit is a unit of the National Women's Security Corps, comprised of business girls, school teachers and housewives. All this past winter they attended a weekly, two-hour class and their enthusiasm for grease and hard work has convinced the expert in charge of their instruction that women are naturally gifted as mechanics.

You might expect the women who enroll for such heavy duty to be on the hefty order—and some of them are. But the majority are the average, sedentary workers who want an active outlet for their energy after a long day at the office or taking care of a home, but who want, more than anything else, to help out in the defense program. Since they have been working with their muscles, they agree that they feel 100 per cent better. Instead of being more fatigued, as might be expected, they are actually boasting of how fit they are.

Keep 'Em Rolling

Such training in mechanics is required of women preparing to drive ambulances and is considered quite an asset for those standing ready to chauffeur for the Army and Navy. Furthermore, it is quite likely that American women will be called upon to take over driving for the truck and bus lines—some of them are already established as taxi drivers. If so, the women will keep 'em rolling.

How does one get into good enough condition to take over this hard work? Exercise, of course. Every one of these units has a good course in calisthenics to strengthen all the muscles, but particularly those concerned in the maintenance of balance during heavy lifting. You can't handle a tire or jack up a wheel unless you keep your balance. Otherwise, there is danger of strain. In addition to calisthentics, the trainees have to pass posture tests—walking up ladders with heavy bags of sand, hefting pails of water and carrying tubs of water or sand.

Easter Morn

I don all my bright new Easter garb—
It took me weeks to find it;
But I wear it over a shopworn soul—
Lacked the time to mind it.

Today's Social Notes

(From the Truthtown Torch.)

Mrs. Thornberry Flitterjig arrived by airplane last night from Mexico City, where she has been vacationing, to participate in the Truthtown Easter parade, an event that, in spite of her constant travels, she hasn't missed in years.

"I suppose I am a hopeless sentimentalist," said Mrs. Flitterjig last night at the Hotel Swank, "but I always feel it my civic duty to come back to Truthtown to don my Easter garb."

Mrs. Flitterjig, who left here three weeks ago, is being welcomed home this weekend with a series of small, intimate parties. A series of farewell parties, also of a small, intimate nature, will be given for her next weekend preparatory to her departure for southern California to compete in a defense bridge tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. DeLancey Dizzard are understood to have slipped quietly into town Wednesday night, but have not yet opened their home to the public. A voice on the telephone at the Dizzard home yesterday (which sounded strikingly like that of Mrs. Dizzard) indignantly informed The Torch that Mr. and Mrs. Dizzard "never returned to town until the opening of the little season." However, it is understood on good authority that the Dizzards had a misunderstanding with one of the three families with whom they had leased a Palm Beach villa for the season and left the resort in a huff.

Mrs. Montclair St. Vitus, recently named "Woman of the Year" because of being identified with 35 different projects, has accepted a Government post, that of coordinator of mental mobilization for the achievement of the objective. Mrs. St. Vitus, who, in spite of her many activities, entertains charmingly, is giving a series of small intimate parties at her fascinating home before leaving on an inspection tour, during which she will visit Aiken, S. C.; Palm Beach, Fla.; several dude ranches in the Southwest and Santa Barbara, Calif.

Announcement

Mrs. Aristophanes Rockbottom has notified The Torch that due to the confusion resulting from the presence in Truthtown of her husband's cousin, Mr. Euripides Rockbottom, and his wife, as well as her husband's nephew, Mr. Pericles Rockbottom, and his wife, she will henceforth be known as THE Mrs. Rockbottom, and has so designated her visiting cards.

The Amazons

"What do you think of the Woman's War Corps?"

"I think it'll be a good thing—if we just get the right women to head it."

"That's it! The right type of leaders."

"Exactly! Representative women."

"Yes, with some standing in the community."

"And some background."

"The officers ought to be picked very carefully."

"Yes, what we want to see is that the whole organization falls into the right hands."

"They say Mrs. Popinjay is expected to be at least a colonel."

"She would never do! She hasn't any real background."

"Did you ever hear of Eulalia Gavel Gimlette?"

"Who's she?"

"I've heard her name mentioned in connection with the Women's Corps."

"Who was she?"

"Evidently a Gavel."

"Who were the Gavels."

"I'm not sure, but I think she's from the West Virginia Gavels."

"But who ever heard of her? I tell you we must have prominent women."

"I suppose Mrs. Bellwether will be a general at least."

"Well, of course, Mrs. Bellwether has unquestioned standing, but——"

"Yes, and connections, but——"

"But I do think she's really a little too old for such service."

"So do I. The younger women really ought to make the sacrifice."

"That's just what I say! Now while I do feel that my home and family come first, yet I do recognize that at a time like this I owe a duty to my country, and, of course——"

"That's just the way I feel!"

Red accessories are sweeping the country for the Easter parade. Above is a red handbag and shoe team, a sprightly note for perking up your practical Easter suit or coat ensemble. Red, one of the most versatile colors of the season, may be mixed with virtually any other color or matched with a one-hue outfit—if you can afford to be real daring. Both bag and shoe are soft calfskin, simplified in style

Good Lighting Essential for Proper Make-up

Even these days, when make-up has been fairly well subjugated, too many women run around with an extra layer of rouge exposed to the noonday sun.

This observation is made by Don Cash, Hollywood make-up artist. Cash, who at the moment is adding a bit of grown-up glamour to Shirley Temple on the set of "Miss Annie Rooney," bemoans the fact that faulty lighting is still responsible for unflattering make-up. Even under the best conditions, he claims, most women apply their witchery by artificial light, and when this light's bad, so is the result of their efforts.

The answer? Fluorescent lighting around dressing-table mirrors. This modern illumination is not costly. It doesn't radiate heat, which is a big help in warm weather; its soft glow prevents squinting, hence lines and crow's feet; and its rays produce true daylight, which in turn will produce realistic make-up.

Evening make-up is applied more evenly, too, in this clear white light.

Boiled Salad

Shredded red cabbage, combined with half as much diced apples, seasoned with salt, pepper and lemon juice and moistened with boiled salad dressing, gives a spring salad worthy of special mention.

Your Personal Success

Slimming Diet

POOR MRS. PLUMP! She has one of the worst handicaps to personal success—fat! Looking years older than her age, she's ignored by the slim and young.

Know your calories—as they do, Mrs. Plump! Calories make fat; if you'd switch to a low-calory diet you'd lose two pounds a week!

Cutting rich desserts won't do it, and a starvation diet isn't necessary.

High-calory dishes may be as homey and innocent looking as chipped beef on toast, which has 400 calories! Fewer calories are in a whole luncheon of egg and tomato salad (100), bran muffin and butter (106), snow pudding (150 a cup). Only 356 in all!

So the thing to do is have a calory chart. From that you may learn what "innocents" are really dangerous! You see how a liking for corn pudding (300 a cup) and beef hash (400 a serving) makes you fat even if you avoid exotic sweets.

Also wonderful—you find many tasty and healthful low-calory dishes! On lots of orange juice (100 a cup), string beans (45 a cup) and good steak (200 a serving) you get young as you slim!

Our 40-page booklet has 42 tasty low-calory menus based on healthful, vitamin-rich foods for physical fitness. Has calory chart, 3-day liquid diet to start reducing.

Send 15 cents (plus 1 cent to cover cost of mailing) for our booklet, "Change Your Weight for Beauty's Sake," to the NEW YORK OFFICE of The Washington Post, Home Institute, 109 West Nineteenth Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Vitamin Sandwich

Peanut butter and roasted peanuts are excellent sources of that valuable Vitamin B-1, and should have greater play in your daily menus. They can be made into interesting breads, biscuits and muffins, attractive desserts and are good in salad and sandwich blends. Peanut butter may be thinned with cream, salad dressing or butter.

Mexico's Foreign Minister Feted at Gala Dinner

Senator Tom Connally Is Host at Mayflower In Honor of Dr. Ezequiel Padilla

It has always been a Washington custom—this flurry of partying for visiting celebrities—but in the Capital of the United Nations at war, with statesmen commuting between their own countries and Washington, fetes with a purpose have reached an all-time high.

The all-out effort the Capital has been making to honor "the Magnificent Mexican," Dr. Ezequiel Padilla, foreign Minister of Mexico, is more than a tribute to the personality and record of the Latin-American diplomat. After Dr. Padilla's strong anti-Axis stand at the Rio de Janeiro conference, Washington officialdom feels that every honor to Dr. Padilla, is a dishonor to the dictator-triumvirate.

Last night it was the turn of Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, to honor the former Mexican Senator, attorney general, secretary of education, and Minister to Italy. Entertaining at dinner in the—appropriately enough—Pan American Room of the Mayflower Hotel, Senator Connally had as his guests the Acting Secretary of State, Sumner Wells; the Mexican Ambassador, Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera; the Brazilian Ambassador, Carlos Martins, and the Mexican Minister, Dr. Luis Quintanilla.

Others at the dinner were Senator Alben Barkley, Senator Robert LaFollette, Senator Walter F. George, Representative Sol Bloom, Representative Luther Johnson, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Nelson Rockefeller, George T. Summerlin and Dr. Roland Young. Sharing the spotlight with Dr. Padilla were the Mexican Undersecretary of the Treasury, Raymond Beteta, and the economic advisor of the Bank of Mexico, Luciano Wichers, who accompanied the foreign minister to Washington.

Dr. Padilla plans to remain in the Capital for only a few more days. He will be guest of honor tonight at a dinner at which Nelson Rockefeller will be host.

Brother of Queen Here for Visit Honored at Dinner

Another visiting celebrity who was a guest of honor at dinner last night was the Hon. David Bowes-Lyons, brother of the Queen of England, who is in Washington on official business in connection with the ministry of economic warfare. The Military Attache of the British Embassy, Col. R. L. Benson, and Mrs. Benson were his hosts at their home on N Street.

Minor tragedy of the Honorable Bowes-Lyons' American sojourn is a quarantine. His two children, Davina, and Simon, who are in this country for safe-keeping, have been looking forward for some time to this visit from their father. Simon, aged 9, unfortunately chose this moment to contract the mumps and for several weeks will be confined to his school while his classmates are heading homeward for Easter-time vacation. However, though his father has never experienced that bumpy disease of childhood and is not allowed to see him, everything possible is being done to hurry young Simon's recovery, so that the quarantine will be lifted before the Honorable Bowes-Lyons returns to England.

The Honorable Bowes-Lyons, who has been staying at the British Embassy, will spend next week in New York, returning the following week to Washington when he will be the houseguest of Col. and Mrs. Benson.

Elizabeth Andrews Is Engaged to Ensign Kniffin

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Williams Andrews, of Washington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth J. Andrews, to Ensign Wayne D. Kniffin, U. S. Coast Guard Reserve, son of Mrs. Benjamin Kniffin, of Ohio and Washington. The wedding will take place at the Takoma Park Baptist Church, probably in May.

Miss Andrews attended Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., and was graduated from American University. She is a member of Phi Mu Sorority. At present she holds a position in the law library, Library of Congress.

Ensign Kniffin was an outstanding student at George Washington University and received his LL.B. degree last February. He was a member of the board of editors of the G. W. U. Law Review and recently passed the District of Columbia bar examinations.

Sen. Brewster Has Grandchild

Senator and Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first grandchild, Betsy Ann Brewster, April 1, in Washington.

The child is the daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Charles F. Brewster, whose marriage in Dexter, Me., in October, 1940, was an event of some interest to the Capital. Mrs. Brewster is the former Miss Mildred E. Whitmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond V. Whitmore, of Dexter, Me. Lieut. Brewster is stationed temporarily in Washington pending departure overseas.

Many Parties Planned for Visitors

A number of parties this weekend will accent the calendar for two visitors who came down from New York yesterday to spend several days. They are Mrs. Dorothy Green, daughter of Mme. Irimescu, whose husband was former Rumanian Minister here, and Mrs. Janet Richardson, of New York and Hollywood.

Mrs. Richardson, whose Hollywood home is next door to Herbert Marshall's has been spending the winter in New York. She is staying at the Mayflower here. Mrs. Green, who has visited here frequently is the guest of Mme. Elvina Orlicz-Dreszer.

Among the parties already on schedule for Mrs. Green and Mrs. Richardson is the luncheon to be given tomorrow by Mrs. Barge Hartz at her home in Bethesda. Mrs. Eugene Villaret will be hostess at an informal buffet supper tomorrow evening, and Mrs. Moran Drury will give a large luncheon on Monday for the visitors. They will attend the formal unveiling of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's portrait and the reception afterward at the Mayflower Hotel on Monday afternoon, and that evening, Mme. Orlicz-Dreszer will entertain at a buffet supper followed by bridge.

Mary Lee Gardner Is Married To Albert Plummer Toner

Evening Ceremony Unites Couple At Home of Bride's Parents

Miss Mary Lee Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Gardner, yesterday became the bride of Albert Plummer Toner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Toner, of Lewiston, Me., in a ceremony at the home of her parents in Silver Spring, Md.

The Rev. Walter Gale, of the Grace Episcopal Church, performed the marriage service at 6 o'clock before an improvised altar banked with spring flowers, palms, ferns and candelabra.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white mousseline-de-soie designed with square necked bodice, elbow-length sleeves and skirt of four flounces edged in lace. Her finger-tip veil fell from a coronet of gathered tulle and her bouquet was of white orchids and gardenias.

Mrs. J. W. Quaintance was her sister's matron of honor, wore a pale pink dress of net and lace fashioned with full skirt, sweetheart neckline and a shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers. Maid of honor was Miss Ruth Willis, who was costumed in pale blue taffeta similar to that of the matron of honor. Karl R. Toney, jr., was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Gardner received guests at the reception that followed wearing a dress of powder blue faille with a corsage of pink camelias. The bridegroom's mother was attired in an aqua crepe with corsage of orchids.

After a wedding trip South the couple will reside in Silver Spring. The bride attended the University of Iowa and George Washington University and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mr. Toner graduated from the University of Maine and received his M. A. degree at the University of Iowa. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Eta Sigma Phi fraternities.

Curtis Walkers To HonorGuests

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Walker have issued invitations to a cocktail party to be given on Saturday, April 10, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Compton, of Metuchen, N. J., who will arrive the early part of the week to be their house guests, Mrs. Compton coming to attend the Navy Sponsors luncheon. Mr. Compton was the former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and the party invitations have been sent to their Navy friends who were acquaintances of theirs while on duty here.

Mrs. Ralph Bridges will entertain for them on Friday at the Chevy Chase Club, and several other parties are being planned in their honor.

Boerema-Walker Wedding Planned For April 18

Invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Phyllis Walker and Don E. Boerema April 18 at Grace Reform Church. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl F. Walker. A reception at the Walker home will follow the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boerema, of Grand Rapids, Mich., will come to Washington to attend their son's wedding and his sister, Miss Rose Mary Boerema will be one of the bridesmaids.

Miss Walker will have Miss Phyllis Ephraim, a schoolmate from Michigan State College, where both she and Mr. Boerema studied, as her maid of honor. She will have three bridesmaids, Miss Boerema, Miss Jane Clarke, of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Thomas Calle, of Washington.

Mr. Boerema will have Tom Thomas of Grand Rapids as his best man. Ushers will be the bride's brother, Karl Walker, jr., Thomas Calle, Leslie Shaw and Lieut. Ivan Parsons. Miss Nancy Roe will be flower girl.

Doris Harlan Is Engaged

Mrs. Ben A. Harlan announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Doris Ellen Harlan, to Thomas Goldsborough Owen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Owen.

Miss Harlan is a graduate of the University of Maryland, where she was a member of Alpha Omicron sorority, and at present is employed at the Library of Congress. Mr. Owen attended George Washington University and graduated from Benjamin Franklin University, where he was affiliated with Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is now in the Army Air Corps and stationed at MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla. Both Miss Harlan and Mr. Owen have been active in the Methodist Youth Fellowship in Washington.

The wedding will take place April 5 at 4 o'clock in the Woodside Church, Silver Spring, Md.

Annual Exhibit Of Water Colors Opens Tomorrow

With an accomplished watercolor artist, Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, fittingly heading the list of patronesses, the Washington Water Color Club will open its Forty-sixth Annual Exhibition Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4:30 o'clock.

The exhibit is to be held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art. With Mrs. Stone on the list of patronesses for the event are Mrs. Owen D. Roberts, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., Mrs. Dean Acheson, Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, Mrs. John S. Flannery, Mrs. Robert V. Fleming, Mrs. Charles C. Glover, jr., Mrs. Rudolph M. Kauffmann, Mrs. C. Powell Minnigerode, Mrs. Duncan Phillips and Mrs. Corcoran Thom.

Betty Burton Entertains for Bride-Elect

As a city is to its suburb, so was the cocktail party Miss Betty Burton gave for that much-feted bride-elect, Miss Volinda Lewis, yesterday afternoon to the spinster dinner which followed it later that evening.

There were two separate and distinct fetes, to be sure, but the exact time the one ended and the other began could hardly be discerned by a casual observer. Sharing honors with Miss Lewis at the earlier gathering was her fiance, Lieut. (j. g.) Hughes Call, U. S. N. R.

Before their wedding takes place Saturday afternoon at Christ Church in Georgetown, the popular couple will be twice again feted, first, at a bridal dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Irving Lewis, the bride's parents, tonight at the Chevy Chase Club, and again at a wedding breakfast tomorrow at 11 o'clock given by Miss Gertrude Good.

Staying over for last night's spinster supper were Miss Lewis, Miss Anne Turner, Mrs. Guy Mercer, Miss Barbara Allen, Miss Phoebe Lewis, Mrs. James Edward Day, Miss Gertrude Good and Mrs. Thomas C. Werke, jr.

Among the guests invited to Miss Burton's cocktail party earlier were the wedding ushers, Robert Ferrell, Capt. Thomas Gilchrist, Ensign James S. Vandermade, Ensign Robin Scully, Lieut. David Northrup, John Rumsey, Denison Schweppe, Ensign Clark Henderson and Ensign Byron Johnson.

Others on the list were Mr. and Mrs. John D. Witten, Miss Anne Sterrett, Capt. Cameron Brown and Lieut. William Whyte.

House Guests at Tuckerman Home

A house party, that gayest of social customs, has been keeping Tuxeden, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, buzzing with activity the past weekend and the early part of the week.

Until Tuesday they had as their guests Lieut. and Mrs. James Todd, of New York City, who celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary during their stay. Mrs. Todd, who is a niece of Mrs. Tuckerman, is the former Miss Alice De Peyster.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman's daughter, Miss Margaret Tuckerman, also came down from Bryn Mawr College for the weekend. With her were two friends, Miss Faith Higgins, of New York, and her former Bryn Mawr roommate, Miss Patricia Brown. The other evening a young people's supper party for them was the scene of much merriment.

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Mrs. Paul Gillespie, formerly a resident of Washington, is a guest at the Fairfax Hotel. She returned from Honolulu shortly after December 7, having been there visiting her son, Harold Gillespie, manager of the Federal Service Finance Corporation. For the present, Mrs. Gillespie is making her home with her sister, Mrs. Harold Keen, of Delaware.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beeler Webster, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., formerly of Sligo Park Hills, Md., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Dorothy Webster, to Lieut. Robert Wendell Lefler on March 28 at Fort Benning, Ga.

Mrs. William M. Guthrie will return to Washington tomorrow after a visit to New York, where she has been staying at the St. Regis.

Lieut. and Mrs. David G. Bress are now at home at the Broadmoor, where they have taken an apartment.

Miss Jane Simon is passing some time in Buffalo, N. Y., where she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Weiss.

Mrs. Morgan Gives Luncheon

Mrs. Carroll Morgan entertained at a small luncheon yesterday at La Salle du Bois in honor of her sister, Mrs. Streeter Flynn.

Among others seen lunching there were Mrs. Artemus Gates, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, who was with Mrs. Jock Whitney. Mrs. Francis MacVeigh, of Boston, had with her at luncheon Mrs. John Glessner and Miss Sherry Parker shared a table with Hallett Johnson, jr., and Hamilton Fish Kane.

Mrs. Roper Hostess At Party for Mrs. Loose

One of many parties being given this season in honor of Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose was the pleasantly informal luncheon at which Mrs. Daniel C. Roper entertained yesterday at her home, 2700 Tilden Street.

Fifteen guests, representing a cross-section of diplomatic, official and residential society gathered at 1:30 o'clock for the party, which was one of the first ladies' luncheons Mrs. Roper has given since moving back to Tilden Street.

Three vases of iris, interspersed with pink carnations and sweet peas, decorated the long table at which guests were seated. Mme. Ertegun, wife of the Turkish Ambassador, was ranking guest, and others there included Mrs. Ralph William Close, wife of the South American Minister; Mme. Fotitch, wife of the Yugoslav Minister; Mrs. Guy V. Gillette, Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. Harry P. Huse, Mrs. Wade H. Ellis, Mrs. Dion Williams, Mrs. John O. Herrick, Mrs. Ballance Smith, Mrs. William Harrell, and Mrs. Clarence Lee Miller.

Arriving in Washington a few days ago, Mrs. Loose expects to be at the Shoreham Hotel until next Wednesday, when she will return to her home in Kansas City. A number of parties have already been given in her honor, and several more will accent her calendar before she leaves. Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis, and Maj. and Mrs. Parker West have entertained at dinners in her honor.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will give a small dinner for Mrs. Loose this evening, and tomorrow evening, Gen. and Mrs. Frederick Coleman will entertain at a similar affair. Still other parties on Mrs. Loose's Washington calendar are the dinner at which Senator and Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster will entertain on Monday evening at the Sulgrave Club, and Mrs. Wilbur Carr will be hostess at a luncheon on Tuesday.

Mary Jane Reed Becomes Bride Of R. E. Green

In a home ceremony yesterday afternoon Miss Mary Jane Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Decatur Reed, exchanged wedding vows with Richard Etter Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Lester Green.

The Rev. Alvin Lamar Wills officiated for the 3 o'clock wedding, and Mrs. Marie Deal sang. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was costumed in aqua crepe. Completing the ensemble she wore a small hat of white gardenias, long white gloves and a white orchid.

Her maid of honor was Miss Barbara Ann Green, who was attired in blue. Her flowers were red roses. James William Reed was best man. A reception, also at the bride's parents' home, followed the ceremony. Mrs. Reed chose a dress of ashes of roses shade and pink camellia corsage for the occasion, while Mrs. Green, mother of the bridegroom, wore blue with gardenias.

MISS SARA FRANCES EWING

Mrs. Frank Marion Ewing, sr., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Sara Frances Ewing, to Robert Edward Grote, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edward Grote, of St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Ewing attended Randolph Macon Women's College at Lynchburg, Va., and her fiance was graduated from Yale University and attended University of Michigan Law School.

The wedding will take place this month.

Prominent Women To Pour Tea at Art Exhibition

A number of prominent Washington women, each of whom is interested in art, will receive guests and pour tea tomorrow afternoon at the opening of an exhibit of children's paintings especially selected from Toronto, Canada, and the District of Columbia.

The exhibit will be held at the Children's Art Gallery, "Villa Rosa," at 4215 Massachusetts Avenue. From the diplomatic circles will be Mme. Martins, wife of the Brazilian Ambassador, herself a noted sculptress, and Mrs. Leighton McCarthy, wife of the Canadian Minister, also an accomplished artist.

Also pouring will be Mrs. Hugo Black, wife of Justice Black; Mrs. Dean Acheson, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State; Mrs. Chester Nimitz, Mrs. Duncan Phillips, Mrs. L. Corrin Strong, Mrs. Herbert Emmerich, Mrs. Stacy May, Mrs. Lenore Thomas and Mrs. John M. Morse.

Mary Warner Weds Navy Man

A former Washington resident now making her home temporarily far on the other side of the country is Mrs. James Thomas Fowler, jr., who until her recent marriage to Dr. Fowler, U. S. N., was Mary Alba Warner.

Mrs. Fowler is living in San Francisco for the present, while Dr. Fowler is on active duty with the U. S. Navy. The ceremony took place in Reno, Nev., on March 15.

Until her trip by air to California, the bride was employed at the Federal Housing Administration in Washington. She is the daughter of Mrs. Mell Durant Smith, of New York City, formerly of Washington, but originally from Mobile, Ala. She attended the University of Alabama.

Dr. Fowler is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. James Thomas Fowler, of Orangeburg, S. C., and was graduated from Vanderbilt Medical School in 1937

Petworth Club Hears Talk By Sen. Aiken

Even if there's no good old American frontier to settle, you can find a new one by venturing into wildflower lore, according to Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont, guest speaker at the Petworth Women's Club meeting yesterday.

"The wildflowers have seen the development of the comforts of our civilization," he said. "They have seen the forest cut away, cities and villages grow up, roads made, bogs and marshes drained for agricultural purposes."

Mrs. Frank J. MacMaugh, president of the club, presided over the business meeting preceding the luncheon.

Contributions were voted to the philanthropic section, the Animal Rescue League and the children's Blood Bank. Mrs. A. C. Norcross, chairman of visiting nurse group, reported 20,000 bandages and other articles had been made during the month. Mrs. Griffith Evans announced that $350 had been received during the Red Cross drive. Mrs. Harry Dorst reported on conditions at Blue Plains, and $10 was voted to purchase writing materials for the guests at the home. Mrs. Victor Sehorn, chairman of Red Cross unit, reported 320 sewed and 159 knitted garments had been sent to the Red Cross March.

Mrs. Otto Hammerlund was elected delegate to represent the club at the annual meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in May.

Mrs. C. M. Kimball was voted membership.

Leaving Soon for Chicago

There's a good reason why Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke (above) is excited over the annual Continental Congress of the National Society, D. A. R., to be held in Chicago in May. At that time she will be installed formally as the State regent of the D. C. Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. She was elected to that office recently at the District society's annual State conference.

Voteless League Sponsors, One-Day Taxation School

"How the War Affects Your Pocketbook" will be discussed during a one-day taxation school to be sponsored by the Voteless District of Columbia League for Women Voters, April 21, at the Washington Hotel. Mrs. Paul H. Appleby, 3901 Jocelyn Street, has been named chairman.

"There are no more pertinent problems for women today than taxation, price control and rationing and their effects on winning the war and contribution to a stable order after the war," said Mrs. Appleby. "We are all consumers and taxpayers. This school will help to make us intelligent cooperators with the Government."

Plans for the school call for a morning session featuring speeches from the Treasury Department, Office of Price Administration and Congress. The afternoon meeting will be devoted to a panel discussion of price control and taxation.

All sessions of the school will be open to the public, Mrs. Appleby assured.

Lecturer Holds Out Hope That U. S. May Swing India Into Allied Camp

WHEN it comes to propaganda—the Axis powers definitely have a head start in India and surrounding countries. But the United States holds three important weapons—honor, a big Navy and plenty of ready cash—that may help to swing that part of the world with the Allied Powers. So believes Miss Eunice Harriet Avery, widely known Boston lecturer.

Guest speaker at the Twentieth Century Club's luncheon meeting yesterday at the Y. W. C. A., Miss Avery traced the influence of Axis propaganda in India, Egypt and other countries.

"Tokyo," she explained, "is appealing to the various Indian tribes with loot, booty and beautiful women." Italy, she pointed out, was sending its most beautiful women—and the best dressed—to Egypt. And Germany long ago translated Hitler's "Mein Kampf" into Arabic. Also, many of the younger people of India and Egypt have been educated in Nazi Germany.

"It is necessary to know these things," said Miss Avery, "in order to understand the various spheres of influence that are now bearing fruit on the Indian question. Italy, she reminded the audience, had furnished many radios and had for several years been broadcasting in Arabic against the British. "Now," she emphasized, "in India is taking place a battle between Axis and British influence."

Recalling India's strategic position—long coast's line and other geographic factors—Miss Avery said that while India is more than 500 years old, it still lacks unity, but has plenty of raw materials, coal and labor.

In following the developments from India to the Middle East, the speaker said, "Watch carefully the pattern in the Middle East. You must take into consideration the propaganda being brought to bear on the countries around the Mediterranean."

One hopeful sign that the Allied Nations may counteract the Axis influence is the fact that United States engineers and equipment have replaced those of Germany in India.

Preceding Miss Avery's talk, a film giving details of how to put out incendiary bombs was shown to the Twentieth Century Club members. Mrs. P. M. Linebarger was admitted into membership of the club.

Sacred Heart Alumnae to Hold Dance

GAY young blades of the diplomatic contingent will swing many residential belles in a mad and merry conga at the tea dance sponsored by the Alumnae Committee of Convent of Sacred Heart. Scheduled for Saturday afternoon, April 11, the event will take place at the Sulgrave Club. Proceeds of the dance will swell the scholarship fund.

Miss Helen Crean is chairman of the entertainment committee. Assisting her are: Miss Sylvia Alexander, Mrs. Robert J. Coffey, Miss Julie Cahill, Miss Isabel Fox, Miss Marie Theresa Houser, Miss Suzanne Slingluff and Miss Eunice Slingluff.

Patrons and patronesses for the tea dance, which will draw college students as well as alumnae, reads like a Washington's Who's Who. Among those who already have signed on the dotted line to serve in this capacity are: The Ambassador of Peru, Don Manuel de Freyre y Santander; the Ambassador of Argentina and Senora de Espil; the Ambassador of Belgium and Countess van der Straten-Ponthoz, the Ambassador of Ecuador and Senora de Alfaro, the Ambassador of Uruguay and Senora Blanco.

Also, the Minister of Guatemala and Senora de Recinos; the Military Attache of the Peruvian Embassy and Senora de Sarmiento; First Secretary of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Pardo; First Secretary of the French Embassy Baron J. Baeyens; Counselor of the French Embassy and Mme. Marchal.

To mention a few others of the many patrons and patronesses of the benefit tea—Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Hanson Ely, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Alexander Sharp, Col. and Mrs. Walton Cox, Maj. J. Craig King and Mrs. King; Commander and Mrs. Frank Slingluff, jr., Lieut. Commander and Mrs. John Francis Greenslade, Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie and Dr. and Mrs. Homer G. Fuller.

Feel Lucky? Go Win a Picture

LUCKY? If so, hie yourself to the National League of American Pen Women's art exhibit, Sunday, April 12, at the Willard Hotel. With the purchase of a Defense Bond you might win one of the pictures offered as special prizes of the day.

Works of members of the South Atlantic region, League of American Pen Women, will be on display. Although the formal opening is set for 8:30 o'clock, the exhibit will be open to the public in the afternoon, 3 to 6 o'clock. A buffet supper for members and their guests will be held 6:30 o'clock in the main dining room of the hotel.

Mrs. George C. Gaydash, chairman of art for the South Atlantic Region, has given 15 framed original paintings by leading artists of the league. Purpose is to stimulate sale of bonds during the afternoon and evening.

Donors of original paintings include; Minnie L. Briggs, Helen F. Collison, Josephine F. Danforth, Florence A. Everhart, Alma Fiaz, Christine Fields, Rosamond Gaydash, Pherne Miller, Eugenia De Land Saugstad, Alma Winningham, Angie Weaver Wright.

First and second prizes and honorable mention will be awarded for entries in oils, water colors, black and white—including landscapes, still lifes and portraits.

Judges will be Rowland Lyon, of the Society of Washington Artists, Mrs. Mathilde M. Leisenring, formerly member of the art faculty of Corcoran School; Mrs. Margaret Yard Tyler, of the Yard School of Fine Art. Defense stamps and bonds will be awarded as prizes. Prize winning pictures will be eligible for entry in a national exhibition that will be announced later.

The bond sales will be in charge of the Treasury Department under the direction of Miss Alma Winningham and Mrs. Edna Webb Miles in the afternoon, while Mrs. Agnes McCall Parker assists Mrs. Miles at night.

Party to Aid Hospital

Mrs. Winfred Overholser and Mrs. Watson W. Eldridge, jr., will be cohostesses at a luncheon, followed by bridge or other games, on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 14, in their apartments at St. Elizabeths Hospital. The party is for the benefit of the women's board of George Washington University Hospital.

HEAD UP CHIN UP Under a Pretty Hat!

It's very true!

A pretty hat proclaims your spirit louder than words.

A pretty hat is as American as a soft drink.

But it's a symbol.

Of the pleasure we still take in little things.

Of our new clothes philosophy (hard-working clothes, long-lived clothes . . . and the joy of a gay, feminine hat).

Of your determination to be pretty for your navy or army friend.

(Suppose a woman's hat has always been the butt of a man's jokes? He loves you in them . . . he remembers you in them!)

Why—a gay hat, a pretty hat can make a man's spirits soar.

So . . . this Spring, think of hats as spirit-lifters.

Superman Joins Jeep

Superman formally enlisted with the Quartermaster Corps yesterday and has been assigned to Motor Transportation Division at Camp Holabird, Md. This particular Superman is the largest and strongest of the new Army trucks. The six-wheeled six-ton motor behemoth was christened Superman at ceremonies held in the camp yesterday.

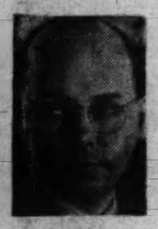
Caution in Wartime!

A woman called The Post last night to inquire if it were "safe to go to Florida." She explained that she "needed a vacation badly," but was afraid to go considering the "progressive blackouts and the invasion threat." When assured the Army and Navy were on the job guarding the coast, she agreed to chance it.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Food Administration To Be Set Up Piece-Meal



A wartime food administration will be set up piecemeal. The plan is to give the Agriculture Department broad powers over the production, supply and allocation of fats and oils. If that works then Agriculture will be given control over other basic food commodities. The only possible hitch in the plan will come from the War Production Board, where 38 dollar-a-year men from the food industry are extremely anxious to grab the control. However, Agriculture has at least mapped a plan of what it proposes to do, which is something its competitors for the job haven't done.

Uncle Sam has taken a long-term lease on 40,000 square feet of office space—sufficient to house from 450 to 600 employes—at 200 Varick Street in New York City. The space will be turned over to the Public Roads Administration but very few employes from Washington will be transferred there. At least that the plan now. PRA is taking a census of the Nation's trucks and buses and this work will be done in New York. Five million questionnaires have been sent out to bus and truck owners. The returns will be processed by WPA workers in New York. WPB, OPA and the War Department asked PRA to make the census. The House a week ago refused to approve an appropriation for a new PRA building here but officials say this action had no connection with the New York lease.

Railroad Retirement Board lost more than half of its employes from the wage and service records division that is being moved to Chicago this week. The division had more than 200 employes. Less than 100 left the city. The employes who did transfer must report for work in Chicago next Monday. The others got jobs in war agencies here at one and two grades higher than they were rated at RRB. Retirement Claims Division will move on April 15 and two days later the Administrative Services Division will leave for Chicago. About 700 of the board's 1600 employes have said they will go to Chicago. Incidentally it's reported that one of the officials who may remain here is Murray W. Latimer, able chairman of the board. Latimer is rumored in line for a key war job.

1233 Shifted in March

War Transfer Unit in the last week of March transferred 1233 employes to war agencies. More than 1600 have been shifted during the first month of operation by the unit, which was set up on order of the President to assist in converting the Government to an "all-out" war footing. More than 8500 were transferred before the unit was created. Civil Service officials believe far more employes can be transferred, and they are working to prevent delays. Generally speaking war officials are dissatisfied with the unit's operations. They want more employes at a greater speed.

Representative John A. Meyer (Democrat), of Maryland, confirmed the story here yesterday that the Government is trying to buy the Maryland Casualty Co. building in Baltimore. He's trying to keep the 4700 Social Security Board employes in Baltimore. . . . Veterans Administration will hire 540 employes in its insurance division. Some already have been hired. . . . Representative Ludlow (Democrat), of Indiana, is working to reduce the mass of printed material issued by the Government. . . . The Apprentice Division of the Labor Department will hire 16 employes here and 90 in the field.

Uncle Sam is recruiting trainee ordnance inspectors. The Civil Service jobs pay at the rate of $1440 a year for the first three months, which will be spent in college. Those who successfully complete the course will be promoted to $1620. . . . John Winant has been indorsed for Labor Secretary and for chairman of the proposed man-power mobilization board by several potent labor leaders, but it's understood that he's not interested in either job. . . . W. G. Meal will be appointed chief of the fruit and vegetable branch of the Agricultural Marketing Administration. His assistant will be S. R. Smith.

Chilean Educator Compliments U. S. Students

P.U.C. Probes 10-Cent Phone Calls in Hotels

Fiery little Gregory J. Hankin, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, in characteristic fashion yesterday sharply cross-examined witnesses at a public hearing to find out why it costs 10 cents to make a telephone call through a hotel switchboard and only 5 cents in a coin booth.

The hearing, jointly conducted by the P. U. C. and the Federal Communications Commission, was called to determine whether the P. U. C. and the F. C. C. have jurisdiction over telephone "service" charges added to telephone bills by some District hotels, clubs and apartment houses.

The right of the two commissions to hold the hearing or to regulate such surcharge tolls was challenged by Joseph C. McGarraghy, counsel for the District Hotel Association, who contended that the charges were subject to control by the District Rent Commission, but not by either the FCC or the PUC.

Phone Officials Reluctant

Hotel men readily admitted that they were charging the extra fees in connection with local and long distance telephone calls but representatives of telephone companies were reluctant to admit direct and intimate knowledge of the extra tolls.

This got under the skin of Hankin, who asked George B. Larkin, assistant general commercial manager of the long lines department of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.: "Why all this pretense of innocence? These are matters of common knowledge which you know as well as you know other things, out of person contact."

McGarraghy contended that telephone departments of hotels were financial burdens operated as a "service" to hotel patrons.

L. Gardiner Moore, manager of the Shoreham Hotel, stated that the Shoreham followed the practice of charging transient guests 10 cents for each local call. Permanent guests paid at the rate of 5 cents a call and an additional monthly service charge of $1, an instrument rental charge of 50 cents, and a directory listing charge of 25 cents, he said. A 10 per cent surcharge on all long distance calls made by either permanent or transient guests is also made, he said, up to a maximum extra charge of $2 a call.

Reports Considerable Evasion

Moore said that he was faced with considerable evasion of these extra charges by persons who reverse the telephone tolls or have them charged to the concern that employs them. For the service of handling a reversed call, a 5-cent charge is made, he said. One such call was made recently to Sydney, Australia, after one of the hotel's operators worked a day and a half to make the connection, he said.

David E. McCoy, general commercial manager of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., admitted under questioning by Harold J. Cohen, F. C. C. counsel, that a special switchboard in Union Station maintained by the telephone company was similar to public switchboards in hotels maintained by the hotel and rendered the same service. These switchboards are presided over by an operator who takes orders for telephone calls and directs the caller to one of a battery of telephone booths available nearby.

McCoy said that he did not know the charge made by hotels for such local calls, but believed it to be 10 cents. At Union Station, the charge is 5 cents, he said.

Solidarity Up To HighPupils, Chilean Says

"The future political unity of the United States and Latin-American countries is the responsibility of high school students of both continents, and they must train themselves to be internationally minded to assume that responsibility," Francisco Aguilera, former superintendent of Chilean high schools, declared last night.

At the closing session of the Institute of National Government held at American University, 175 students from 37 high schools in 13 States heard Aguilera criticize the "myth" that Latin-American countries were "little Tammanys in their political operations and revolutions.

"Rather, the governments of South America are as balanced as those of of the United States," Aguilera said.

He complimented the American students on their knowledge of international affairs saying:

"You are as aware of inter-American problems as any group of South American students who have been described at times as being too politically minded.

The session held last night was preceded by a dinner marking the close of the "laboratory" courses in practical government conducted for the last week by H. M. Willard, director of National Capital School Council.

Night School Play Facilities May Close

Unless additional funds are made avaliable, practically all night operation of school and recreation buildings by the Community Center and Playgrounds Department will cease tomorrow, Milo F. Christiansen, acting coordinator of recreation for the District, warned last night.

The present operation includes 40 school and recreation buildings consisting of 10 high schools, 14 junior high schools, 10 elementary schools and six recreation buildings, including field houses in housing projects.

Christiansen declared that vigorous protests are being made against the closing of the grounds by numerous civic groups.

Now before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee is a deficiency item totaling $19,000 to meet the expenses of the department's night recreational activities.

If the amount is approved, the centers can remain open three or four evenings a week until the end of the fiscal year on June 30, Christiansen said.

Hit by Truck, U. S. Employe Loses Leg

A 24-year-old Government employe lost a leg when struck by a truck yesterday and escaped bleeding to death by the quick action of a bystander who fashioned a tourniquet with his belt at a bus stop in Arlington Village.

JAMES

Miss Mildred Navin, 549 South Edgewood Street, Arlington County, was removed to Emergency Hospital by the Arlington Rescue Squad, where amputation of her right leg was necessary. Her leg had been partly torn off. Attaches at the hospital said her condition was "good." The injured woman is a stenographer in the Department of Labor.

The man who applied the tourniquet was Roy E. James, 32, of Arlington Village, chief of the audit section, Customs Bureau, Treasury Department, who has been taking the Red Cross first aid course given to Treasury employes and has thus far had six lessons.

According to police, Mrs. Navin was struck by the truck when it careened after colliding with a bus at Sixteenth and South Edgewood Streets. She was standing with a group of about 10 other persons. Miss Margaret Covey, 25, also of Arlington Village, a Labor Department worker, was knocked down but suffered only minor injuries.

As soon as James realized that Mrs. Navin was seriously injured, he removed his belt and quickly applied a tourniquet. James held the tourniquet a few minutes, stopping the flow of blood and then asked a naval officer to hold it while he went to summon the rescue squad.

Police Chief Harry L. Woodyard said the truck was driven by Wash Fuller, 34, of 3120 Seventeenth Street South, Arlington, who was taken into custody by police. The bus was driven by Henry W. Zackman, 28, R.F.D. No. 3, Alexandria.

Mrs. Navin's husband, Cecil Navin, is employed by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Commerce Department.

Geographic Society To See Bird Movies

Natural color motion pictures of American bird life will be shown by Dr. Arthur A. Allen, Cornell University ornithologist, to members of the National Geographic Society, at Constitution Hall tonight.

Last summer Dr. Allen traveled extensively in the United States, studying and filming many familiar birds. A few years ago he led an expedition on a 15,000-mile tour of the country, making records of birds' songs, including many rare types. Dr. Allen's lecture will be the last in the society's series for the 1941-42 season.

Jury Finds D. C. Widow Guilty Of Stealing Dog Tax Funds

Mrs. Hattie F. Small, white-haired Washington widow who once worked in the District tax collector's office, yesterday was found guilty of embezzling $392 from District dog tag funds by a District Court jury of nine men and three women.

Dry-eyed but with her mouth working nervously, Mrs. Small stood while the jury's foreman pronounced a verdict of guilty on each of 30 counts on which she was indicted. A woman friend, who has been at her side throughout the trial, stood beside her with her arm around the black-garbed defendant.

Since each count carries a maximum sentence of 20 years, Mrs. Small is now liable—technically—to a possible maximum prison term of 600 years. A fine of about $800, double the amount of money taken—could be added to this.

Prosecutor John L. Laskey told the jury that Mrs. Small had actually taken about $4000 from money received as dog tax payments during the calendar years 1939 and 1940. She was charged in the indictment, however, with only 30 specific instances in which she was said to have netted a total of $392.

In answer to a defense contention that 17 other persons had access to the tax receipts and funds, Laskey pointed out that on the days dealt with in the indictment only Mrs. Small had handled the records and cash drawer.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts permitted Mrs. Small to remain free on her previous bond pending sentence.

Conference Passes D. C. War Housing

50-Million-Dollar Bill Provides 20 Millions for Public Works Here

By Charles Mercer
Post Staff Writer

Congress virtually assured thousands of Federal war workers in the Washington metropolitan area better living conditions yesterday as House and Senate conferees agreed to authorize 50 million dollars for construction of single and dormitory dwelling units and for expansion of existing hospital and public works facilities.

Within the limitation of 30 million dollars for housing and 20 millions for public works, the legislation delegates to the National Housing Agency and the Federal Works Agency broad powers in determining projects which will benefit the lot of those engaged in the war effort here.

Acceptance of the conferees' report is expected by both houses next week.

Mall Dormitories Approved

The bill will go to the White House with strong Congressional recommendation that funds be expended for these purposes:

Temporary dormitories for single Government workers, possibly along the Mall, as was first proposed by President Roosevelt.

Some permanent single homes, but a majority of temporary structures which can be dismantled and salvaged after the war and not unbalance the local real estate market.

A probable concentration of housing in Arlington County to serve workers at the new War Department Building.

At least five million dollars and possibly eight millions for expanding hospital bed space. First served would be the municipal institutions, Gallinger Hospital and Glenn Dale Sanitarium, with a total of 900 new beds. Private hospitals, now taxed to capacity, also would be aided.

Approximately two million dollars for increasing schoolroom space within the District.

Between five and six millions for water and sewer facilities, including a new filtration plant.

Goodwillie Plan Dropped

Knocked out by the conferees' action was the proposed plan of Arthur Goodwillie, of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, to reconstruct nine slum blocks of Southwest Washington into living quarters for war workers at a cost of five million dollars to the Government.

Final settlement on a 50-million-dollar authorization figure ended three tumultuous months on Capitol Hill for the bill.

After hearings before the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee, the House passed the measure with a 50-million-dollar figure. Hearings before the Senate Education and Labor Committee and resultant action by the Senate raised the sum to 70 million dollars, carrying 45 millions for housing, including the Goodwillie plan, and 25 millions for public works.

The measure returned to the House committee for further hearings before going to conference early this week.

Ellender Comments

Senator Ellender (Democrat), of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate conferees, said yesterday that the amount of five million dollars for hospitals is "the least which can be expected to meet the existing needs. We hope that eight million dollars will go for the hospitals."

Senator Taft (Republican), of Ohio, pointed out that additional funds are needed for the schools. Citing the two million-dollar figure for additional schoolroom space, he added that "a somewhat smaller amount is expected to meet recreational needs."

The United States Government has begun action to take over a five block tract in Southeast Washington, to be used for an expansion of the Navy Yard, it was learned at District Court yesterday.

The area which the Government seeks is a five-sided plot bounded by M Street on the North; N Place on the South; First Street on the West, and New Jersey Avenue and Canal Street on the East.

According to a condemnation suit filed by the Lands Division of the Department of Justice, it would provide room for a seven-and-a-quarter acre addition to Naval Gun factory facilities and would cost Uncle Sam about $440,000 to acquire.

The transaction involves 98 parcels of land and necessitated naming approximately 295 defendants who have interest in the land either as owners, occupants or title claimants.

It includes a line of Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and a Transport Lumber Co. lumber yard and warehouse, as well as numerous other lots and buildings owned by both individuals and corporations.

Alexander H. Bell, jr., principal attorney of the Justice Department's lands division, told the Court that action to take over the land had been commenced at the request of the Navy Department. The area involved was technically described as Squares 743 and 744 of the city.

A hearing on the proceeding has been set for April 13 at the courthouse by Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher.

Egg Rolling Moved To Friendship House

In lieu of the usual trip to the White House grounds 150 kindergarten and day school children from Barney Neighborhood House and Friendhisp House settlement will gather tomorrow at 2 p. m. in a joint egg-rolling frolic in the gardens of Friendship House at 619 D Street Southeast. Small children from Southwest House will have their egg-rolling at the Zoo on Easter Monday morning.

Roosevelt Signs Court Merger Bill

New Law Combines Police, Municipal Setup Into Single Tribunal of 10

President Roosevelt yesterday signed the District court merger bill, creating a new Municipal Court and intermediate Court of Appeals.

The new law combines the present Police and Municipal Courts into a single tribunal of ten judges, although still retaining the district civil and criminal jurisdictions of the present courts. In the civil branch the financial limitation on cases is raised from $1000 to $3000, thus relieving the crowded docket of the United States District Court.

The new appellate court, with a bench of three judges, will hear appeals from the lower court.

All judges of the new courts must have practiced law in the District for at least five years. The three judges of the higher court and eight judges of the lower court must have lived in the District for at least five years. Two members of the bench of the Municipal Court may reside outside the District.

D. C. Coal Prices Up 6 Cents After Freight Increase

A 6-cent increase in the price of coal per ton was announced last night by Washington coal dealers, effective immediately.

The additional cost to the consumer is to equalize the 6 cents per ton freight increase which went into effect March 18, according to the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

The price of coke was boosted the same amount, but for a "short ton" of 2000 pounds. Coal prices are based on a "long ton" of 2240 pounds.

The coal dealers had requested a 25 cent per ton raise from the Office of Price Administration

Murder Made Delightful In 'Roxie Hart,' Capitol

Ginger Rogers and Superlatively Comic Cast Romp Through Nunnally Johnson's Satiric Hit; Patricia Bowman and Paul Haakon on Stage

THE WEIRD LEGAL PROCEDURES that made every sensational murder trial a publicity field day for everyone concerned, from judge to defendant, through every gradation of court authority and the press, back in the tubulent '20s, are richly and ribaldly parodied in "Roxie Hart," Nunally Johnson's convulsingly cockeyed screen adaptation of Maurine Watkins' stage play of "Chicago," now on the screen at Loew's Capitol. It is as ridiculously amusing a travesty as has come along since Al Capone,, Ruth Snyder and Judd Grey and the Hall murder mystery laid the basis for Mr. Johnson's bubbling burlesque. He hasn't missed a trick in converting the unbelievable events of a fabulous era into hilarious entertainment, contrived for laughing purposes only.

This Mrs. Hart is a rowdy young woman with aspirations toward a career in the cabarets, who is persuaded by a crafty newspaper reporter, in quest of a "big" story, and a theatrical agent not averse to a "soft touch," to take the rap for a fatal shooting committed by her husband, on the theory that it will make her the greatest thing that has happened to the theater since Bernhardt. With Billy Flynn as her mouthpiece, the scheme can't miss. And it doesn't, for reasons as fantastic as they are funny.

Mr. Flynn is a notorious barrister who cares less about the law than he does about "putting on a show"—the sort of lawyer who, when approached by the guilty husband to take his wife's "case" for a little less than the stipulated fee, observes bluntly, "When you asked me to take the case, did I ask you if she was guilty, or if she was innocent? No. All I asked you was for $5000!"

So it comes about that Roxie gets into some lovely catfights in defense of her title as "queen of the jail"; entertains gushing sob sisters in the hoosegow, while gorging on Lucullan feasts sent in gratis by the smartest hotels; stages a black bottom contest with the reporters and photographers in the prison press room; paralyzes the courtroom, has the judge leaping into every picture the camera-hounds snap of her and, finally, bursts into a rage when another shooting on the courthouse steps steals the spotlight from her just as she is being acquitted! So it comes about, too, that Mr. Flynn, after building up a tremendous case for the self-sacrificing and undying devotion of parents to their "babies," caught in the web of the law in our great cities, gets the shock of his life. All very lunatic, ludicrous and laughable—especially to those who remember that there were aspects even of the Hauptmann trial which, on the strength of present evidence, Nunnally Johnson might have written.

Star and Cast Play It to the Hilt

With her tousled red hair, web stockings, short skirts and chewing gum, Ginger Rogers tears into a role unlike any in which she has heretofore been seen and plays it for all it is worth. When she goes into her dances, it is cause for renewed regret that Fred Astaire ever has had any other partner, and when she goes to work on the jury it is something to see. Three in her male support keep the pressure up. Adolphe Menjou, the immaculate Flynn, who goes into court looking like a storm-tossed haystack, is the shyster to the life, and Lynne Overman is made-to-order for the veteran reporter who is confident that Cook County is the most gallant county in the country and wouldn't even have hung Lucrezia Borgia. More than a shadow of love interest is supplied by George Montgomery, the cub newsman, who years later is reciting all these horrendous events over a flagon of grog, following a ten-cent shooting that reminds him of the whole thing. Spring Byington, Sara Allgood, Phil Silvers, William Frawley, George Lessey, as the judge, and George Chandler, as Amos Hart, the husband, chip in considerably more than their two-bits worth. The trial, incidentally, is broadcast under the sponsorship of a patent medicine quack whose announcer is inspiringly impersonated by Milton Parsons—"Why not sit right down today and write Dr. Whosis a nice long letter, telling him all about your gall stones?" And that's the way it goes.

The new stage bill at the Capitol is brief but potent. Headlined by those two incomparable dancers, Patricia Bowman and Paul Haakon, it is highlighted by Miss Bowman's "Jitterbug Ballet," Mr. Haakon's "Russian Sailor" and then an infinitely graceful and whimsical " Polka" executed jointly. Artists both, their interval of spirited Terpsichore was greeted with tremendous enthusiasm by yesterday's first capacity house. Also on the bill are Sylvia and Clemence, those two ebullient, acrobatic comediennes, and, as an added attraction, Robert Williams and "Red," his canine marvel of plasticity. The Rhythm Rockets are conspicuous in their "Sailing Ballet" and as background for Miss Bowman and Mr. Haakon. The Fox Movietone News, "Fighting the Fire Bomb," Sam Jack Kaufman's "Happy Easter" overture and Art Brown's lusty songfest complete an Easter bill of high spirit.

The Counsel Advises His Client

ADOLPHE MENJOU AND GINGER ROGERS as the great criminal lawyer, with an overpowering yen for publicity and "putting on a show," and the giddy cabaret girl who perceives the makings of a magnificent "career" in a bogus murder trial. This would be in "Roxie Hart," the travesty on Chicago justice, now at Loew's Capitol

HEDDA HOPPER

Blame the 'Wild Man!'

Hollywood, Calif., April 2. Since they started the picture "Moon and Sixpence," the Javanese dancer Devi-Dja has revealed that head-hunters of Borneo were knocking off boogie-woogie before the Pyramids were built, and that we've developed nothing over here that can hold a candle to Java Jive. And along comes the grand-niece of Gauguin's native wife, who says that the cream of Gauguin's paintings were tossed into the sea after his death by his widow, who got tired of them cluttering up her house. Well, well, that's life for you—here today and Gaugin tomorrow!

LIONEL BARRYMORE

Speaking of jive, Lionel Barrymore's gone low-brow to whip up a couple of those ditties for Bob Crosby. Friends suggest he title them "The Barrymore Blues" and "The Rasputin Rag."

I'm wondering if Jerry Colonna, who's up for the draft, will have to shave that floor brush off his lip. After all, the Navy made Doug Fairbanks, jr., get a haircut.

Helen Parrish is engaged to Charlie Lang, Universal actor, whom she met at her brother's wedding. But Helen, who's only 20, says they won't marry immediately because of her mother's objection . . . When Frankie Albertson's divorce is final, he'll marry Gracie Darlington, a New York dancer.

Hurray for Irving Berlin! He'll do another "Yip Yip Yaphank" at the Music Box this summer for the Army.

George R. Stewart, who wrote "Storm," which Paramount is going to produce, used to be a schoolmate of Buddy De Sylva at the old Azusa high school.

Cedric Hardwicke and Greer Garson are feeling pretty smug about that Canadian Victory Bond selling tour. They were given $1,600,000 as their quota, but sold twice that amount.

Ann Ayars has been invited by the graduating class of the Beverly Hills High School to come and give them a talk on acting. She graduated from there and has been acting a year!

Loose-Leaf Notebook

New York, April 2.

Leftenant Jenner is Britain's foremost mine-devitalizer. He visited New York recently, and was shown the town by Linton Wells, the commentator, who is writing a magazine article about him . . . At the base where he is stationed, Lieut. Jenner's assignment is one of the most hazardous of the war—to remove the caps from, and render harmless, the Nazi mines which menace British ships . . . He is serving his country well—doubly well. For in addition to fulfilling this dangerous job, he also complied with the unusual British income tax law which makes a husband liable for the taxes due from his wife. His estranged wife is a wealthy lady. He paid her £2000 tax.

CHARLES BOYER

Next month, in a campaign which will begin with nationals ads, the Dental Gold Manufacturers will start a drive urging all dentists to buy as many supplies as they can, and present 2 per cent of the sales for Army Ambulances. . . . Charles Boyer is being groomed for the leading role in the adaptation of De St. Exupery's "Wind, Sand and Stars" . . . Paul Robeson will lead a delegation to the White House, to plead for the release of Earl Browder.

The recent London dispatch, reporting the possibility that the House of Lords soon may disappear from British life, reminded Guy Bolton of an incident which was alleged to have happened during the last war. At that time there was a scandal about wealthy commoners who, by contributing heavy sums to political parties, were able to buy Peerages . . . A Londoner was assured that he could obtain a title by contributing £20,000. He selected the title he preferred—let's say "Lord Vansonwright"—but was told that he'd first have to deliver the check in payment. The wise man safeguarded his investment by signing the check "Lord Vansonwright"—so that it could be cashed only after that title was his.

This column's newest paper is the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard . . . Six authors, from Harry Hansen to Edgar Lee Masters, are writing River-books for Farar & Rinehart. The rivers whose stories will be told are the Chicago, St. Lawrence, Wisconsin, Alleghany and Twin Rivers . . . A Warner Bros. scout saw "Arlene," the show which was presented at the Roerich Theater, and signed Betty Grayson to a film contract . . . Joe Frisco hasn't heard yet about Gen. MacArthur's arrival in Australia. Frisco, the inveterate horse-player, insists "If it wasn't in the Racing Form I ain't heard it."

So many former Stork Club employes now are working at the Copacabana that when Sherman Billingsley hires a new man he advises: "This means not only one job for you, but two—one here, and then at the Copacabana" . . . The War Department may accept the radio program, "Magazine of the Air," which is being offered them by Dan Golenpaul, producer of "Information Please." . . . I, Domashefsky, the Sardi cab driver, reports that many of his colleagues have enlisted in the Tank Corps, where their Times Square Traffic experience serves them well. "But they got trouble with the officers," he related, "who want 'em to drive the tanks straight to the objective—but the hackies are accustomed to cruising."

For the past two months Lew Ayres' agent warned him that the step he was planning to take would ruin his career. "I know it," Ayres insisted, "but this is the way it must be" . . . Belle Rosette, the Village Vanguard's Calypso singer, will replace Carmen Miranda in "Sons o' Fun," on May 1 . . . Hervey Allen's new book, "The Disinherited," will be longer than his "Anthony Adverse" . . . At the final performance of "High Kickers," George Jessel saw a pretty girl in Sophie Tucker's dressing room, and offered her a job in the show, when it goes to Boston. "But I can't. I'm in 'Let's Face It,'" the girl informed. "In that case," Jessel proposed, "see if they'll take us."

A veteran vaudeville dancer and night club entertainer has been classified 1-A by his draft board. To prepare himself properly for this new, strange existence, the vaudevillian decided to see a psychoanalyist . . . "Here's how I feel about it. I'm rarin' to go," he confessed to the analyist. "I'm awfully anxious to be sent overseas as soon as possible. A chance to fight the Nazis, and have a gun with which to do it. That's all a man could ask for . . . I'd like 'em to send me to Ireland, quickly—just a few miles across from the Nazi troops. I call that wonderful—me, in Dublin, fully armed for a whack at Tyranny. And who knows?" he concluded. "Maybe I could also get a chance to double into a Dublin theater."

Hardy Family Indulge Usual Foibles on Screen at Palace

By Nelson B. Bell

"THE COURTSHIP OF ANDY HARDY." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of an original screen play by Agnes Christine Johnston, based on the characters created by Aurania Rouverol, costarring Mickey Rooney, Lewis S. Stone and Fay Holden, with Cecilia Parker, Ann Rutherford, Donna Reed, Sara Haden, William Lundigan, Steve Cornell, Frieda Inescourt, Harvey Stephens, Betty Wells, Joseph Crehan, George Beckham and Todd Karns. Directed by George B. Seitz. At Loew's Palace Theater.

To those not seated with the philosophical counsels of the Judge, the amorous peccadilloes in which his son and daughter involve themselves and the mother-hen anxieties of Mrs. Hardy, "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," this week's new attraction on the screen at Loew's Palace Theater, will prove the peer of any of its predecessors.

DONNA REED

To those who have seen them all—and the series has been extraordinarily long—the formula upon which these studies of domestic life in the typical little town of Carvel are concocted may seem to be growing a shade thin and stereotyped.

It is hardly a "courtship" in which Master Andy is involved in the instant case. Rather, an enforced dancing of attendance upon a cloistered young lady of the neighborhood, whose parents are involved in as pretty a brawl as one would care not to encounter. In an attempt to solve the divorce problem in the interest of the daughter of the warring couple, who is the sole victim of the Nesbitts' incompatability, Judge Hardy suggests to his adolescent son that it would be a fine idea for him to pay the girl a little attention for the sake of righting a gross injustice. Master Andy gamely undertakes the assignment and winds up, in course of time, under the reluctant conviction that there's no doubt about it, "some women turn out most unexpectedly to be habit-forming."

A Great Transformation

This tardy conclusion is arrived at only after Melodie Nesbitt has transformed herself from a youthfully gargoylish wallflower into a radiant young glamour girl, who wins back at her second "hop" all the money Andy had paid out at her first to induce his pals to "cut in" on their dances.

In the meantime, Sister Marian, recently returned from the city in a cloud of sophistication, is getting herself into an elegant mess with a gilt-edged playboy who comes face to face with a serious situation in attempting to drink the most questionable of the roadhouses dry in her early morning company.

This dual tale of filial wrongheadedness has been tricked out by Agnes Christine Johnston with "comedy touches" that place credulity under a surprisingly severe strain. For example the family's appearance at the dinner table in their night robes and pajamas when Miss Hardy insists that her own robe de chambre really is an evening gown which she purposes to wear on her date, and again in the matter of that loudspeaker auto attachment. Otherwise "The Courtship of Andy Hardy" is about as usual.

Andy Hardy is still Mickey Rooney, or vice versa, with a little too much swagger supplanting what used to be a little too much "mugging." Lewis S. Stone and Fay Holden are still the perfect parents and Sara Haden continues to be an inconspicuous, but helpful, Aunt Millie. Cecilia Parker comes back to a rich role as Marian, but Ann Rutherford, Andy's legendary girl friend, finds herself restricted to a mere "bit" at the very end of the picture. As charming and talented a young actress as Ann deserves better.

Triumph for Miss Reed

That preferential treatment, at Miss Johnston's hands, seems to have been reserved for Donna Reed, as the unhappy neighbor who manages so captivating a transition from glum isolation to glowing young womanhood and vast popularity. Her belligerent parents are venomously portrayed by Frieda Inescourt and Harvey Stephens, whose reconciliation is inevitable if Judge Hardy is to maintain anything of his reputation as the infallible mediator.

If there are any eager to take a course in the strange patois spoken in the better of our high school "frat" houses, "The Courtship of Andy Hardy" is recommended as a profoundly fruitful seat of learning. Andy and his pals speak a language in this one almost as difficult to comprehend as Cliff Nazarro's double-talk. Judge Hardy catches onto it with the facility of a great mind.

Augmenting this new multiple-adventure of the Hardy family on the new bill at the Palace are a "Crime Does Not Pay" subject, "Don't Talk," in the interest of a successful prosecution of the war; the defense reel, "Fighting a Fire Bomb;" a lively cartoon comedy, "The First Swallow," and the picturized news events.

Startling Bonnet

Norma Shearer wears the most startling hat in Hollywood in her new farce, "Her Cardboard Lover."

The hat, which looks like a Mormon bonnet, is made of pencil-thin black and white stripes. But the unusual feature of it is that it is lined with cerise jersey, which frames the face in a reflected glow.

Directed by Irving Pichel. Reviewed Thursday afternoon. At the Columbia Theater.

By Richard L. Coe

No slur is intended in saying that "Secret Agent of Japan" is a better picture than one might expect. The Columbia's new first-run film was conceived and completed in the comparatively short time since Pearl Harbor and succeeds in being a yarn that is engrossing as well as timely.

No one, of course, will be so gullible as to imagine that the glamorous espionage depicted in "Secret Agent of Japan" is in any sense actual. It is simply entertaining to think so, and nothing more. However as simple exposition of Japanese treachery and deceit it serves its realistic setting well. Its background is Shanghai during the few days leading up to Pearl Harbor, an episode which history decrees immediate success to the enemy, in itself a novel situation for international spy stuff, since tradition more usually gives our side victory. This I think, is the reason it maintains fairly steady interest.

For so patently topical a film, "Secret" Agent of Japan" is smoothly produced and adequately cast. Preston Foster and Lynn Bari share the leads in a company whose balance is dominated by lesser-known Oriental players. And John Larkin's script is neatly pieced together with suspenseful twists of plot.

"Magic Carpet" on Hawaii

Foster plays a toughened man of the world who runs a popular gambling joint in Japanese-infested Shanghai—a far less imposing but more credible joint than that run by Mother Gin-Sling whose gesture was so misdirected of late. The plot turns on the accepted custom of these places to serve as a postoffice for its patrons. Under the guise of a jade-buying expedition, a Japanese spy system is working out details for the New Order in the Far East.

Into his Cafe Dixie steps a couple of those beautiful gals for whose sake every goggle-eyed dope like this reporter would give ten years of life for two as an espionage artist. Whether they are tied up with the Japs and the German barely forms part of the plot and whether they will come out alive forms another. As I've said, you know the immediate outcome but the ending doesn't stop there.

No one is going to call this adventure yarn a "sleeper" or a surprise wow, but its straightforward, rapid pace does emphasize the fact once more that a picture doesn't have to have lush production details and a million-dollar budget to be entertaining film fare. It's simply a highly fictional spinning of a plan that will affect us the rest of our days. That is its appeal, and it makes something of it.

The Columbia has another Pacific Ocean setting as its top short subject—a Lowell Thomas "Magic Carpet" visit to Hawaii, a visit Commentator Thomas remarks is the last peaceful one in the Pacific until victory is ours. Its emphasis is on the pleasantness of life in that one-time paradise.

"Eat Me Kitty Eight to the Bar," a Terrytone of the turn-about humor, and the latest newsreel complete the bill.

Lack of B-1, Not Whisky, Causes Jitters

By Howard W. Blakeslee
Associated Press Staff Writer

Boston, April 2.—It is better to drink whisky than water if you want to avoid the kind of heebie-jeebies which doctors call polyneuritis.

This was shown in a report today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by J. V. Lowry, W. H. Sebrell, F. S. Daft and L. L. Ashburn of the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md.

These heebie-jeebies, which run to anything from wobbly eyes to pink elephants, afflict chronic drinkers. Until a few years ago these woes were attributed to strong drink. Then doctors discovered that the cause was not alcohol but the fact that the hard drinkers didn't eat enough, especially not enough Vitamin B-1. On a quart of whisky a day they were cured simply by making them eat.

Water Drinkers Got It Earlier

Now comes the pay-off. The National Health Institute doctors gave the heebie-jeeby diet to rats. Some of the animals were given water to drink with this deficient diet, some alcohol, and some whisky.

The animals all got the heebie-jeeby condition. But without exception the rats drinking only water got it earlier than their mates who drank either whisky or alcohol.

The rat state of seeing pink could be prevented, no matter what they drank, by giving them Vitamin B-1.

Meanwhile a method of getting over a jag three times quicker than is now possible was described by three Harvard physiologists. The doctors said they had administered a chemical to a group of dogs a few hours after getting them bleary-eyed drunk, and found that the sobering-up process was three times faster thereafter than during the period before the chemical pick-me-up was given.

Burns Up Alcohol

Doctors W. W. Westerfeld, Elmer Stotz and Robert Berg said the substance used was sodium pyruvate, and they declared its role was to "burn up" the alcohol in the system, thus speeding a return to sobriety.

They explained that sodium pyruvate is the same chemical that is produced as one of the break-down products when carbohydrates like sugar are consumed in the human body.

Bus Switch To Avoid Fee Arouses Ickes

His dander aroused by protests against the new license fee levied upon commercial passenger carriers using the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes yesterday lashed out at dissenters.

"There is no justification for the diversion of this form of traffic from the George Washington Memorial Parkway (of which the Mount Vernon Boulevard is the main link) because of the small permit fee for the use of this thoroughfare for commercial purposes," he asserted.

His remark was in reference to reports that some buses and sightseeing cars are switching to Route 1 between Washington and Alexandria, rather than pay an assessment for using the boulevard, thereby aggravating traffic congestion on No. 1.

The licensing system became effective Wednesday. It requires commercial passenger carriers, excluding taxicabs, to pay a $3 per year per seat fee. For example, the annual charge for a 30-passenger interurban or sightseeing bus would be $90.

The fee is nominal, Ickes said yesterday, amounting in most cases to only a fraction of a cent per trip. Up to now, he continued, these carriers have made no contribution toward the upkeep of this Federal parkway.

The parks office revealed that 69 permits have been issued to date. Ten of these have gone to buses of the A. B. & W. Transit Co.

Credit Unions Held Liable to Md. Taxes

Baltimore, April 2 (AP).—The State tax commission ruled today Federal Credits Unions were subject to payment of the $10 State tax filing fee and the property tax.

William L. Henderson, chairman, announced the ruling in a letter to Milton Rygh, assistant director, credit union section, Farm Credit Administration, United States Department of Agriculture. Henderson said there were 33 Federal Credit unions in various parts of Maryland.

He notified Rygh the unions were classed as "foreign corporations" in Maryland. State tax law imposes a capital stock tax on such corporations.

Hitchcock, Chiller-Diller Man, Proves Very Affable Fellow

Visualize a man who uses people's nerves as harpstrings upon which he plucks until they are almost frantic. A man who by mere celluloid trickery can wear down a strong man to a frazzle and reduce women to a state just this side of hysteria.

Now how have you pictured him? Machiavellian wretch chewing on a caramel he stole from a child? Wrong!

Alfred Hitchcock, who for a few hours yesterday was a guest in Washington, may torture you inside a movie theater, but in the flesh—some 250 pounds of it—he proves to be a benign, unpretentious fellow without a single sinister facet in his makeup.

Moon-faced and utterly non-Hollywoodian, Hitchcock is, you recall, the Englishman who directed such chiller-dillers as "Rebecca," "The Lady Vanishes," "Foreign Correspondent" and "Suspicion." His newest film, "Saboteur," will have its premiere here April 23.

He is a folksy individual who graduated into the picture business from a five-year stretch as an advertising layout man. Tho his way of thinking, musicals and girl shows are just fine as escape entertainment in these times but still don't afford the escape from the day's grim headline news that an audience gets out of wondering if the hero will be blown up by the time bomb he is unknowingly toting in a suitcase.

In a Carlton Hotel interview session yesterday, Hitchcock sat by patiently while a bevy of drama critics argued about something quite foreign to him and his pictures. Later, asked by one of them which are his favorite among the pictures he has directed, he answered with "Juno and the Paycock" and "Rich and Strange," both of which are virtually unknown on this side of the Atlantic.

Those two episodes entrenched him as a regular fellow here but out in Hollywood they probably would brand him an eccentric.

Freed Convict Avenges Self By Killing 3

DOMINICK PICCONE,

By the Associated Press

Pontiac, Mich., April 2.—For two years Dominick Piccone fretted in prison and planned vengeance against his 71-year-old benefactor. He had his vengeance and tonight he is back in prison.

Piccone had promised to return and kill Cassius Barber when he got out of prison, and he did it—one of three killings carried out in a 24-hour period Tuesday and Wednesday, during a 900-mile tour of the State.

Taken into circuit court before Judge H. Russel Holland, he pleaded guilty. Piccone was given the most severe punishment possible under Michigan law—life at hard labor and solitary confinement.

Piccone, who is 20, signed a formal confession relating how he had been "farmed out" to Barber as a juvenile delinquent; how he had been treated as a member of the family until there was some trouble with the old man over spending money; how he finally beat the old man and fled; how he stole a pistol from Barber and later used it to force a young school teacher to drive him from Detroit to near Barber's farm where he intended to kill the farmer; how she had fallen and he was convicted of felonious assault because of her injury, and how Barber at his trial had identified the stolen gun. All that was two years ago.

Then, March 17 of this year he was paroled and with $18 in his pocket, he bought a gun.

Tuesday night he went out to the Barber farm in the rain and sleet. He stopped first at the home of Romaine C. Potter, 75, Barber's cousin, who lived a quarter of a mile from Barber's home. Piccone said he wanted to get dry.

But, his confession went on, Potter realized what Piccone intended doing—killing Barber, and wrestled with him.

"I pulled the trigger," Piccone said. Potter dropped dead.

He walked, then, to Barber's home, where he found Thorpe, another neighbor farmer, who had just driven into the yard.

Piccone forced Thorpe to enter Barber's home side by side with him. Barber was sitting at a table reading, his wife nearby.

"Mr. Barber said, 'It's you,' " Piccone said in his confession. "And I said 'yes.' He noticed the gun and I said 'I told you I was going to do it.' He (Barber) raised his hand and I shot. He started to say 'don't' and that's all the farther he got."

Piccone then forced Thorpe to drive him on a 900-mile tour of the State during which he killed Carl McKenzie, 40, near Concord, Mich., 90 miles from the scene of the original crimes. McKenzie had approached Piccone and Thorpe where they had stopped to rest.

Piccone surrendered to State police without a struggle when he was accosted at 3:30 a. m. this morning. He confessed, pleaded guilty and was on his way to prison 12 hours later.

Thorpe, who was with Piccone when State police halted them this morning, told officers he was in fear of his life all during his trip with Piccone, who kept a revolver jammed in his side.

Circus Comes To Town, but Quickly Goes

Complete and unexpurgated, from gorilla Gargantua right down to the last piece of canvas, the circus rolled into Washington yesterday and then rolled right out again—teaser-like.

Bound out of winter quarters in Sarasota, Fla., for the season's opening date in New York City, 56 carloads of performers, rousabouts, canvas, wagons, animals, posters and everything else that goes into the Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey show paused for a few hours in Potomac Yards.

On hand to greet the vivid harbinger of spring were a dozen or so circus fans, who wouldn't be dismayed by the necessity of getting up before daybreak in order to be on hand when the first section puffed in at 5:20 a. m.

The Bradnas, Wallendas, Christianis, the clowns and other performing artists were aboard the first section, which was crossing the river en route north at 7 o'clock. Scarcely had the train's echo died away than the second section, bearing the animals, cage wagons and other properties, pulled into the yards.

Getting their first sight of the Capital were 11 of the troupe's 45 elephants, replacements for those which were mysteriously poisoned last year.

Cecil B. DeMille's film, "King of Kings," will be shown today at 10:30 a. m., 1:30, 4 and 8 p. m. at First Congregational Church, Tenth and G Streets Northwest.

Maunder's cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary," will be sung tonight at 8 p. m. at Petworth Baptist Church.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Spirit of Passover Is One Of Liberty, Rabbi Declares

"The spirit of Passover is one of liberty," said Rabbi Harry Silverstone yesterday at Tifereth Israel Synagogue, Fourteenth and Euclid Streets Northwest, as the first day of the Passover season was observed throughout the city.

"A nation of slaves in Egypt, saw at this time of the year, the first rays of the liberty dawning upon them," stated the rabbi, "and the foundation was laid for a glorious future struggle for the loftiest principles and ideals of humanity."

"Today when Pharaoh-like tyrants want to enslave the world, it is incumbent upon every man, woman and child to help in defense of our country. With idealism and the true spirit of sacrifice we will carry on, bringing victory and freedom to us and to a suffering world."

Rabbi Silverstone led prayers for President Roosevelt and other leaders and for men in the armed forces.

Orthodox services also were centered at Adas Israel, Ohev Sholom, B'nai Israel, Beth Sholom, and other synagogues, while Reformed services were held at the Washington Hebrew Temple, 822 Eighth Street Northwest, the latter led by Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld. Orthodox Jews also will hold synagogue services today at 8:30 a. m., in addition to regular Sabbath services tonight at 8:15 p. m.

Seventh and Randolph Streets Northwest.

Postponed from last Sunday because of the storm, "The Passion of Our Lord According to St. John," will be presented today at 8 p. m. by the Washington Cathedral choir of men and boys.

Special Tax On Increased Income Urged

By the Associated Press

A suggested $14,800,000,000 tax program based on tapping recent increases in income to individuals and corporations was presented to the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday by Prof. Joseph E. Shafer, of Bowling Green State University, Ohio.

He estimated it would produce $8,800,000,000 from individuals and six billion dollars from corporations. Shafer proposed a special individual income tax ranging from 20 per cent of the first $100 of increased income over 1941 to 95 per cent of any increase exceeding $11,800. This levy would be in addition to regular taxes.

For corporations, he would use a 1938-40 base and tax the increases above that level at rates ranging from 50 per cent of the first $5000 to 100 per cent above $100,000.

"The general purpose," he told the committee, "is to place the burden of new taxes upon those who are enjoying increased incomes from the war and to avoid placing added burdens of tax upon those who have fixed incomes because many persons with fixed incomes already have undertaken fixed obligations."

Edgar G. Brown, speaking for the United Government Employes, Inc., and a director of the National Negro Council, asked the committee to oppose a sales tax.

League Opposes Tax

Cynthia Wentworth Hannum, Washington representative of the League of Women Shoppers, also expressed opposition to a sales tax and advocated instead higher corporation levies.

She said that a sales tax would be not only unjust and discriminatory against the low-income groups but would be "a positive danger to our national existence."

The witness, saying the league had more than 1000 members in New York, Washington, Boston, Miami, Fla.; Columbus, Ohio; St. Louis, Denver and Hollywood, proposed that all profits above 6 per cent of invested capital be considered a taxable excess.

She also advocated mandatory joint individual income tax returns by husbands and wives.

Sales Tax Held Necessary

Representative Disney (Democrat) of Oklahoma said yesterday a survey he had made showed that "an overwhelming majority" of the House would vote for a sales tax rather than for big increases in individual and corporation taxes proposed by the Treasury.

Asserting that Congress could not raise seven billion dollars from corporations and individuals, Disney said in a statement that "we will be compelled to go to a sales tax, much as we dislike to."

Disney, member of the Ways and Means Committee, said in his statement:

"I have made a general survey of the House which convinces me that an overwhelming majority will vote for a sales tax, rather than to increase income taxes sixfold in two years, as would be the case under the Treasury's recommendations on average incomes."

The 1941 tax bill trebled the average tax paid by low and middle income brackets, and the Administration's new proposals would double existing levies.

Disney said that he favored a graduated sales tax with high rates on luxuries, low rates on luxury-necessities, and "very low rates" on cheaper food and clothing.

Clarification Urged

The Automotive Parts Rebuilders Association urged the Ways and Means Committee to clarify the taxing of repaired automobile parts, contending the industry now was "harassed by uncertainties."

Meredith M. Daubin of this city, counsel for the organization, contended it was the intention of Congress to tax only newly manufactured auto parts, and not those rebuilt or repaired.

He argued that the levy, now five per cent, should be eliminated on repaired goods altogether or, if left on the books, should specify definitely their inclusion with a provision, however, that the assessment be calculated only on the net sale price.

R. R. Thompson of Irvington, N. J., Albert D. Goldman of Baltimore, Md., and A. S. Holzwasser of Boston, three automobile part rebuilders, indorsed the association's stand.

Ralph Powers of this city, a securities salesman, indorsed a proposal by Representative Knutson (Republican), of Minnesota, for a national lottery.

Prof. Evans Called As Army Officer

Charlottesville, Va., April 2 (AP)—The army has called to active duty Thomas H. Evans, associate professor of civil engineering at the University of Virginia's engineering school. He left yesterday for Fort Belvoir to assume duties as a captain in the Engineer Corps.

Professor Evans was serving as chairman of the engineering, science and management defense training program in Virginia. Another university professor, Lawrence R. Quarles, will succeed him in this capacity.

GLEN ECHO BLOOMS TOMORROW. Even if another crazy blizzard descends tomorrow, pay it no attention. Spring is here and it'll be snowing violets—because Glen Echo's gate will swing wide tomorrow. The merry-go-round will be a-whirling and the other scores of attractions in full swing. And, very importantly, you'll find your pals, Paul Kain and his orchestra, giving their all in dance music on the bandstand of the handsome Spanish Garden ballroom from 9 p. m. until midnight.

The Neptune Room presents its new "Super-Six" of attractions tomorrow. Meaning Andy Padova's Streamliners, much favored by the tony classes in Miami this winter, and Collins and Arlo, organ and novachord stars, who amount to a "two-man symphony orchestra." Neptune tomorrow will undoubtedly be a combo of "jam session" and symphony.

PROGRAM FOR VICTORY. Bob Chester will be sounding off in his inimitable "Twenty-four Robbers" in the Victory Room for the last time tonight. Tomorrow the highly recommended Lou Breese Band arrives . . . And listen to what else is coming up in Victory. Benny Goodman's in for a one-nighter on April 9. George Salb starts on April 16, will be succeeded by Will Bradley on April 26. And Ina Rae Hutton, of the chassis superb, will undulate in on May 10.

EDDIE OLIVER TO COSMOS. On Monday, Eddie Oliver, surprising pianist, said to be comparable to Carmen Cavallaro, will bring his band to the Cosmos Room. Oliver has played at Florida's Hollywood Beach Hotel all winter, was musical arranger for Ben Bernie and Paramount pictures. His band was recently on the Fitch Bandwagon. He was playing in Paris when the war broke out.

Live ducklings are swimming in the pond of the miniature village at the entrance to the Mayflower Lounge. Today gives you your first chance to enjoy the wonderful floral picture always presented by the Mayflower lobby at Easter time.

CONFUSION WAS KING at the Troika last night. Giovanni swiped everything in the place but the pigtails of Dancer Clarissa, which are her very own. But all the watches and wallets (after all, checks must be paid) finally sailed back to their proper owners. Almost as sensational as Giovanni, in a different way, was singer Adrienne—tall, dark and sirenish, a sophisticated tornado of rhythm.

LOADS OF GOOD WISHES go with E. LeRoy Risk to his new post as manager of Hotel 2400 Sixteenth Street. Manager Risk has been at the Ambassador Hotel for 12 years as assistant manager. They gave him a big goodby party at the Ambassador with loads of presents from the staff, hearty wishes of good luck in a speech by Manager Russell A. Conn, and champagne afterward in Hi Hat.

Bob Preble, the Casino Royal's goodlooking emcee, expects to be a popsy again around July 4. He's already the pappy of a cute 8-month-old daughter Whee!

EASTER PICTURES. Celia Brest, of Cafe Caprice, looking alarmingly like an angel in a gown of shirred white chiffon . . . Beverly Stull, of Burt's Trans-Lux, vowing that between her income tax and doctor's bills, she's going to be minus an Easter outfit this year . . . Jane Marlow, of Restaurant "823," resembling a bouquet of spring flowers in one of those giddy spring prints . . . Maestro Henry King, of Del Rio, stopping to gaze at the budding leaves in the White House grounds, then looking so innocently embarrassed when a guard stared at him, and hard.

TOP MENU TRICKS. The languet of beef, paysanne, at the Balalaika. This is one where the chef scores over mother's best cooking . . . The real New Orleans coffee at the Louisiana. Different but delightful . . . The boiled chicken, family style, with matzoth balls that's a Thursday special at Restaurant 400. Yummy! . . . The date sticks and corn sticks in the Burlington dining room. You'll gobble 'em by the dozen . . . The grand antipasto at the Copocabana, with little ceci beans that taste like cooked filberts . . . The crisp cheese blini with sour cream at Paul Young's . . . And, say, this is about the last call for the Pall Mall Room's superb Lenten special—rolled pancakes filled with creamed crab meat.

NICE WORK—IF YOU CAN DO IT. Norma, girl magico, at the Shoreham, is picking bucketfuls of half dollars from the ears, hair and pockets of customers who act as her assistants. She also found a string of weinies on one fellow . . . The girl of the skating Royal Rockets, now at the Lotus, passes herself through an unstrung tennis racket while doing 60 spins a minute . . . Maestro Ralph Hawkins, of the Crossroads, has some master trick of keeping in condition. He looks younger than he did six years ago . . . Leader Layton Bailey, of the Metronome Room, has a way of playing "Moonlight Cocktails" so that it hexes half of the customers into immediately breaking into song . . . Accordionist Lea Bailey, of Mayfair's Michael Barker Trio has been playing in public, and for money, since he was 12 years old . . . But the job news that lays us low this week is that both Manager John J. Connolly, of the Hamilton Hotel, and Leader Milton Davis, of the hostelry's Rainbow Room, are simultaneously serving on the coroner's jury.

The Four Toppers, a crew combining swing rhythm and clowning antics, will make their bow at El Patio on Monday. Singing Pianist Penny Ford is off to Miami for a month, then will return to El Patio.

"KAVAKOS KUT-UPS," meaning the twice-a-night floor show at Kavakos Grill, is in great form this week, presents a regular circus of comedy, melody and fancy stepping. A jolly country dance is due on Sunday afternoon.

THE 'GALE'S A BLOWIN' big business up these evenings. Jack Maggio's 13-man orchestra, now at the Nightingale for many months, is the rhythm lure that prompts so many people to say, "Let's go down to the 'Gale."

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 2—In case you're asking whatever became of Eddie Lyons, the boy is still in the Nats' camp. You remember him, of course. He's the 18-year-old lad whose pinch hits beat the Giants twice within three days in the Grapefruit League. He set the typewriters of the Washington baseball correspondents gibbering wildly in his acclaim. That was only ten days ago.

POVICH

Well, he's still present, but Manager Bucky Harris is trying to be rational about the half-pint lad, even while labeling him as a great natural hitter and a pretty good second base prospect. He isn't playing Lyons much probably because it seems just a bit too fantastic that a kid with a half year's experience in a B League is ready for the majors. Harris wants to feel his way with the boy.

In any other year, Lyons would probably be farmed out pronto because he does not figure to improve sitting on the Nats' bench. But this year there is no certainty that Lyons will warm the bench. The only other second baseman on the club is Frank Croucher and Croucher's long-time sore arm is a headache to Harris. Converted shortstop Jimmy Pofahl, with his arm in perfect health, can't throw much.

If Lyons had any tendencies to become inflated with his rapid ascent from third year in high school to a major league club, they were properly deflated yesterday, although unwittingly. Hank Greenberg was the innocent party to an embarrassing moment for Lyons.

Greenberg was playing for the Orlando Air Base team against the Nats and couldn't find a bat in the soldiers' rack that suited him. He walked toward the Washington bench to borrow a stick when he saw young Lyons selecting a bat for himself.

"Hey, boy, bring me one of those bats," Greenberg yelled, thinking he was talking to the bat boy.

The flustered Lyons heard the merriment on the Nats' bench but he handed a bat to the great Greenberg before he could think of a reply, and by that time Hank was out of hearing.

Later in the game when Lyons went to bat as a pinch hitter and reached first, Greenberg turned to Coach Ossie Bluege and asked, still innocently: "What kind of a screwy club is this, letting the mascot hit?"

Buck Newsom's purchase by the Nats has created something of a dilemma for Bucky Harris in making his pitching assignments. Newsom wants to pitch the opening game on April 14 against the Yankees and Harris may not feel like humoring that desire of bashful Buck.

For the past three years, Dutch Leonard has pitched the Washington opener and until Newsom joined the club there never was any doubt that Leonard would be on the mound on April 14. Newsom has his own ideas of who is the most important man on the Washington pitching staff, however. He won't like it if Newsom isn't the opening-game pitcher, even as he stomped and ranted in 1936 when Bucky Harris passed him up in the opening game to pitch Joe Cascarella.

In any other town, the opener is just another ball game, but in Washington it is a special honor, what with the President and his White House staff in attendance, and the pitchers' competition for the job is understandable.

There could be friction very easily on the Washington pitching staff anyway. Newsom, who had one of the worst records in the league last year, is drawing more salary than either Leonard or Sid Hudson. If you think the latter pair relish that fact, then leave your name and address with this department, because we can sell it to a sucker list.

Who do you think the Nats tried to buy the other day? None other than Jimmy Wasdell, whom they fired a couple of years ago. Clark Griffith had an idea the Pittsburgh Pirates would sell him, only to learn that the Pirates wouldn't. But the attempt of Griffith to buy Wasdell is noteworthy anyway.

No ball player was ever sold so willingly by the Washington club as was Wasdell. When Brooklyn offered $17,000 for him, Griffith closed the deal by telegraph before Brooklyn had a chance to change its mind. Wasdell, who cost Griffith $30,000 originally, was publicly labeled by the Nats' owners as the biggest flop he had ever purchased.

The other day, however, Griffith suddenly realized that if First Baseman Mikey Vernon were injured, the Nats couldn't dig up anybody with the slightest familiarity with first base. Panicked at that thought, he made an offer for Wasdell who subbed so capably for Dolph Camilli of the Dodgers last season. The welcome mat was out again for the fellow the Nats booted out of the league.

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

New York, April 2.—Do you have any idea what goes through the mind of a great fighter just before he lays his title on the line?

Well, we know what Joe Louis was thinking about just before risking his million dollar title for no pay against Abe Simon. We happen to know because we were sitting near his corner and heard the ensuing dialogue.

CONSIDINE

Just before gong-time, a number of fighters were introduced from the ring and each one—after bowing—jogged over and shook hands with Joe, one of the fighters was in uniform. He is Private Adam Piango, known to the ring trade as Young Kid McCoy. The good-looking young welterweight was inducted into the Army some weeks ago and wound up in Camp Upton, where Louis is assigned.

"Good luck, Joe," McCoy said as he pumped Joe's purple leather glove.

Joe had been mechanically replying, "thanks," or "uh-huh," to the others, but he looked up when he heard this new voice and said:

"Hello, Adam, what you know?"

"Don't know much," McCoy said.

"How things at Camp Upton?" Joe asked.

"Okay. Everything's okay."

"Any of the boys miss me?"

"Sure, sure. They all miss you, Joe."

"Say, Adam, how about them two big puddles out in front of our barracks. They ever dry up?"

"Hmmmm. . . ."

"Well, Joe, I guess I have to go now."

"I guess I do, too."

Joe's boxing plans remain up in the air. There was no mention of his future fighting when he appeared before Maj. Gen. Phillipson of the Second Corps area yesterday and presented him with a check for $64,980.02 for the Army's emergency relief fund. Mike Jacobs felt that it would have been bum taste to give away a check like that with one hand, and make a plea with the other.

There is time for considering Joe's future action. What probably will be done is this: Louis will fight Bob Pastor and Billy Conn in outdoor fights this summer and keep a portion of his purses. The major portion, in fact. He'll donate to service relief funds a portion of the purses comparable to the amount of tax money he'd have to pay. With the remainder, or with most of it, he'll pay taxes on his 1941 earnings. He has personally given a little more than $83,000 to the Army and Navy funds this year—in two fights—and that's more money than most fighters earn in a lifetime.

By sharp contrast to Louis' historic generosities is the curious conduct of Welterweight Champion Freddie "Red" Cochrane, now at the naval training station, Newport, R. I.

Efforts to match Cochrane with Ray Robinson have been going on for months. The fighters appeared before the New York Boxing solons months ago, at which time Cochrane posted a forfeit after contracts were signed. Cochrane then pleaded that he could not get sufficient leave from the Navy to train properly to fight Robinson.

Last week, Mike Jacobs wired Cochrane offering him the top spot on a Navy relief fund show at Griffith Stadium, in Washington, D. C., on May 21—with Robinson as the foe, of course. Though promised a return bout within 60 or 90 days in the event Robinson won the title, Cochrane sniffed at Jacobs' offer and wired back as follows:

"You know how to arrange for my services. Please don't be so cute. Get in touch with Willie Gilzenberg, my manager."

It made Mike blink. After all, Jacobs did not ask Cochrane to fight for nothing. Red was to get the major share of the gate. The Navy was to cut in for 10 per cent off the top. Cochrane would have made a lot of money—more, in fact, than he had made in his entire career—and he would have been rendering a great service to his branch of the armed forces. But, for some reason, he stalls.

Could it be possible that Red and his handlers would like a percentage slice of Robinson, to salve their wounded feelings if Ray wins?

Navy Relief Fund Aided by Bowlers

A handicap bowling tournament for the Naval Relief Fund is scheduled to start tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Hyattsville Recreation and will run through until 8 Saturday night, with the Sunday shift starting at 2 and continuing until 11 that night.

A first prize in the men's division of $100 is guaranteed by the management, which will have their o[illegible] competing against the men, making up their own prize list according to number of entries.

Scratch for both men and women is 130 on a two-thirds basis, with the entry fee $2. Thirty cents from each entry—half donated by the bowler and half by the alleys—will go to naval relief. The event is a three-game affair and may be bowled at any time. Reservations for early shifts may be made by calling WA-rfield 8464.

Masterson, Steve Sundra Are Routed

Griffmen's Rookie Alex Kvasnak, Stars At Bat; Nats Get 13 Hits, Cards, 12

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 2.—The Nats' pitching went sour in the Grapefruit League today and they took an 8-6 beating from the Cardinals. Steve Sundra was the losing pitcher, but Walter Masterson was an accessory.

The trouble with Sundra and Masterson was that they were pitching runs to the Cardinals faster than the Nats could score 'em, even at a brisk hitting pace. Actually the Nats outhit the Cards, 13 to 12, in one of their most productive attacks of the spring, but they couldn't overpower their own pitching.

It wasn't the fault of Rookie Alex Kvasnak that the Nats didn't win. The frail bespeckled Czecho-Slovakian outfielder who, at first glance, looks as if he were scouted in a home for underprivileged youth, tried mightily to get the Nats home in front. In five turns at bat, he beat out a clever bunt, singled to start a four-run rally, got hit by a pitched ball, and singled again with the bases full in the eighth to drive home two Washington runs.

Nats Get Six Hits

The Cardinals had a 3-to-0 lead before the second inning was over, when they landed on Sundra for three solid blows, including O'Dea's double to center. An error by Ortiz on the ball didn't help Sundra any. Eventually, Sundra gave up seven hits in his five-inning turn, and wild-pitched one run home.

Washington got in front briefly in the fourth inning, 4 to 3, with a sustained attack on the veteran Lon Warneke. They crammed six hits into the inning. Kvasnak singled to center, Ortiz single to left, Vernon singled down the left-field line, Early singled to center, and with

Terps Bow, 15-11, on 4-Run Spider Homer

By the Associated Press

Richmond, Va., April 2.—Mac Pitt, jr., hit a tenth-inning home run with the bases loaded to win a 15-to-11 victory for the University of Richmond Spiders over Maryland's Old Liners on Millhiser Field this afternoon.

The terrific drive which rolled to the bank in deep left field nullified Maryland's spectacular ninth inning scoring outburst which sent seven runners across the plate and tied up the game at 11-all.

Cecil Jones, who worked exclusively as a batting practice twirler last fall received credit for the victory after holding the opposition hitless an dscoreless during the inning and one-third he worked.

Hawaiian Features A. A. U. Swim Meet

Nakama Shatters Records With 19:35.4 Time in 1500-Meter Race at Yale

By the Associated Press

New Haven, Conn., April 2.—A human fish from Hawaii, Kiyoshi Nakama, stroked a spectacular 1500-meter race today and sent the three-day National A. A. U. Swimming Championships off in a foam of records.

Nakama, dark-haired, Ohio State freshman, pacing himself beautifully throughout his 30 laps, whipped Rene Chouteu, of St. Louis, Yale's National Collegiate champion, by almost the length of the Eli's 25-meter tank, and lapped the rest of the competition.

The victor's 19:35.4 for the event, swam for the first time as an A. A. U. title race, established American long-course indoor and meet marks and shattered the tank record of 20:15.8 made by Hal Stanhope, of Ohio State, in 1940.

And, although Chouteau trailed the 133-pound Nakama by some 20 meters, he, too, broke the pool standard by more than four seconds. That's how scorching was the Hawaiian's tempo.

Danny Green, of the Dallas A. C., and Dick Peters, of Yale, were far behind Chouteau, but managed to annex the other two prizes.

The other heat, the first of two, was won by Joseph Lucas, of the New York A. C., employed on the night shift at a Bridgeport munitions plant, but all he got out of it was a bath.

The long grind, added with an eye toward the Pan-American games, was the sole event today, and left Yale, highly favored to win the team title for the first time, in front with four points. The Dallas A. C., was second with two. The five points earned by Nakama were wasted since he officially was competing as unattached.

Dorothy Kirby Retains Crown In Golf Event

By the Associated Press

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta, retained her titleholders' golf championship today with a 54-hole total of 239, but was challenged all the way by the bold pitching and putting of 19-year-old Eileen Stulb, of Augusta.

An eight over woman's par 83 on the final round of the medal competition turned the trick for the lanky Atlanta girl after the gangling Augusta entry, who had not been reckoned with in the pretournament gossip, crept to within two shots of overhauling Miss Kirby shortly after they made the turn.

But four three-putt greens on the final six holes netted Miss Stulb an 80 and a 54-hole total of 244.

Two shots out of second place, at 246, came Louise Suggs, of Lithia Springs, Ga., present North and South champion.

Helen Hicks Harb, of Washington, D. C., a former national champion, and Georgia Tainter, of Fargo, N. Dak., were deadlocked for fourth place with a 247 total. Mrs. Harb shot a final round 85, while Miss Tainter fired the best golf of the day with a 79.

He is the son of Major J. B. Harper and Mrs. Harper, 2204 Fortieth Place, Northwest, Washington, and a graduate of Western High School.

Nelson, Hines, Little, Barron All Post First-Day 69's; Hogan Cards 71

By the Associated Press

Asheville, N. C., April 2.—Two former United States Open champions and two less well-known players provided the winter golf circuit with its first four-way deadlock at the end of the first round of the Asheville Open golf tournament today.

Lord Byron Nelson racked up the first subpar score of the day with a fantastic card that showed nine threes, four fours, four fives and a six. The other former Open champion among the leaders, Lawson Little, one-time amateur king, arrived at his 69 by more orthodox means—35—34.

Hines Is Steady

Jimmy Hines, former member of the Ryder Cup team from Great Neck, Long Island, played steadily in recording a 34—35, one under par on each side, and Herman Barron, of White Plains, N. Y., had a like score.

Barron, just rejoining the touring pros here after a three-weeks layoff following an accident in which he and his wife were injured in Florida, showed no ill effects in his brand of play.

Only four other players in the field of 78 bettered par, and defending champion Ben Hogan had to be content with an even par 71, where he was deadlocked with four others.

The four 70 shooters were Ky Laffoon of Miami, Okla., and three relative unknowns; Bill Nary of Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., and Tony Penna of Dayton, O.

Grief For Most Players

The tricky back nine of the 6591-yard Biltmore Forest Country Club course held par-busting to a minimum and brought Nelson most of his grief. Favored just back of Hogan to win the $5000 Land of the Sky meet, Nelson bogied the first hole and then started his queer looking run of threes sprinkled with fives and one six. He went out in 33, two under par, hand after the six, which came on No. 10 where his ball was buried in a trap, he needed a 36 coming back even after bagging an eagle three on the 457-yard seventeenth.

Sammy Byrd, of Ardmore, Pa., winner of the Greensboro Open last week, was in at 73, as was the current U. S. Open champion, Craig Wood. Jennings B. Gordon, of Rome, Ga., was low amateur at 75.

12,000 Fans See Opening Race Card

Georgia Woolf Up On Stake Winner; Designator, a 90-1 Shot, Finishes Second

By Walter Haight
A Staff Correspondent

Bowie, Md., April 2.—Thoroughly defrosted, Bowie staged its delayed opening of the 1942 Maryland racing season yesterday in "Derby day" style. Customers, estimated to number 12,000 swarmed the Prince George County track and poured close to a half million dollars through the mutuel department. Despite the blizzard of last Sunday which caused a postponement of Wednesday's program, the track was in fair condition, a tribute to the sun and track workmen.

A field of ten, reduced after two scratches, marched postward for the $5000 Rowe Memorial Handicap featuring the card, and Cape Cod, a fleet horse from the barn of G. C. Greer, jr., proved an easy winner of the six-furlong battle. The 4-year-old son of Bostonian and Little Lie bounded into the imaginary wire three and a half lengths in advance of Designator, a 90-1 shot. A half length back came Omission, winner of the Rowe Memorial last year and today's favorite.

Jockey George Woolf, one of the country's top money riders, hustled Cape Cod to the front of Designator and Liberty Franc in the opening 3 furlongs. In the stretch, Designator held on well, but Woolf asked Cape Cod for speed and the colt responded by bounding away from his rival. Meanwhile, Liberty Franc had quit badly. Omission was off last, came between horses and closed with good energy but too late for other than third money.

Pays $9.10 Mutuel

Cape Code came here after winning two of six starts at Hialeah. He paid a $9.10 mutuel and was clocked in 1:12 3-5 over a track that was termed "good."

The program provided a daily double pay-off of $89. As usual, the first race was given over to the new crop of 2-year-olds. A dozen of these frisky youngsters competed at a half-mile. The Cannaday Farm colors were first home on the back of Jockey Paul Keiper, who was on the back of a filly by Pilate, out of Milk Dipper. Her name is Cherry T. She finished three lengths in front of J. P. Smith's Jaquita, with Liberty Polly third. Jockey Keiper took Cherry T. to the front and she drew out through the stretch. Cherry T. paid $14.30.

Maryland-bred 3-year-olds took over the track in the second and again it was a field of 12. S. W. Labrot's Queens Delight proved a fresh filly. Making her first start of the year, she withstood a drive to beat Bobby Curran's Mystique, the favorite, by a length and a half. J. L. Bond's little Suzanne was third. Queens Delight in addition to putting the finishing touches on the double, paid $11.30.

Gilbert Wins Twice

Johnny Gilbert, veteran rider, turned in two winning efforts in the third and fourth events. He climbed aboard Isadore Bieber's Shadows Pass in the third race and booted the 6-year-old home a length and a half ahead of Little Bolo with British Warm, third. Shadows Pass paid $5.70 as the favorite. Gilbert came back in the fourth to win with J. H. Louchheim's Carmus, a paddock tip, which paid $7.50. Blue Steel and Bola Mowlee chased the top one home.

Cape Cod Scores

Bowie Handicap Winner Obtained in Claiming Race

By Anne Hagner

Bowie, Md., April 2.—It took a good horse to convince G. C. Greer's, jr.'s family that racing was the sport of kings, if Cape Cod, winner of the Rowe Memorial Handicap here today hadn't come along last year, the Greer string might still be running under someone else's name.

Cape Cod, who galloped to an easy victory in the feature race of the Bowie opener, was a bargain claimer from the same stable that sent the heavy favorite, Omission, to the post, only to see him finish a badly beaten third.

Greer got the handsome black colt in a $3500 claiming race in Florida early in 1941. Since then, he has earned better than $20,000 for his new owner and in addition set two of the fastest times recorded in New England during the season—a mile in 1:37 and 6 furlongs in 1:10 both at Suffolk Downs.

"He's as sharp now as he's ever been," Greer said, affectionately fingering a handful of tickets on his horse. "We figured that he was set to turn in a good race, as he's been very ambitious in recent workouts."

By his victory yesterday, Cape Cod evened the score with Omission, who defeated him at Laurel last October.

"Cape Cod's disposition is typical of a good race horse," observed Greer as friends quizzed him about his colt. "He's as kind and gentle as a lead pony around the stable, but he's a little fractious when he trains.

"Georgie Woolf gave him a wonderful ride today, and the track was very much to his liking. He'll run again at Bowie and then go on to Pimlico, Havre de Grace, Belmont and Suffolk."

Any mascots?

"No, Cape Cod's an unusual racer. He hasn't a mascot to his name," smiled Greer.

But, Mr. Greer, if he keeps on

Out Fishing...

With Jack Bell

Game-fish, though holding first place with the angler of catholic affections, are not the only quarry to be considered. One fish, small and considered a course or food-fish enjoys a reputation second to none in the esteem of a large army of cane-pole and bait fishermen. It is the white perch of our Potomac River, and other nearby tributary waters of Chesapeake Bay.

JACK BELL

The common perch is, to quote an old writer, both "good fishing and good eating." In fact in many cases he requires hardly any art whatever to catch him. No need to make elaborate plans or travel far for perch fishing, not even a license. They can be caught within sight of the Nation's Capitol.

For a week before the big snow of last Sunday many fishermen enjoyed catching them. Now, however, with murky waters, if there is any chance of perch fishing being successfully pursued it will be strictly in its "element" in deep holes, back-waters, and eddies, not too much acted upon by the current.

Bloodworms as bait are no doubt the most common, but if you want to catch big white perch, try live minnows. They may be difficult to procure, but it is worth the effort.

According to information received from down North Carolina way, we can expect an early and a greater season for hardheads than last year. One reason for the large numbers of croakers or hardheads making their way up the coast is that because of war conditions and the U-boats off the Atlantic coast, there has been little if any night fishing off the Carolinas the past winter by commercial fishermen. The same thing also holds true for the seatrout or weakfish.

So unless something unexpected happens, you can be sure there will be plenty of fish in the nearby fishing spots of the ole Chesapeake, this spring and summer.

One good spot for the early hardhead fisherman, and there are many who try to be the first to catch one, is the pier at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach. For the night hardhead fisherman we believe that is the one and only spot, where successful night fishing on the bay can be carried on.

We've received a number of calls asking what restrictions have been set on fishing in the Potomac River Great Falls area. Fishing in the Great Falls area is prohibited for the duration. The area is from a line across the river at old Anglers Inn, below the Falls, up river to Swain's Lock. This means trespassing as well.

The bass seiner caught by federal agents, which we reported March 20, received the surprise of his life. He eluded the officers by running his boat out into the Potomac River, and crossed the Maryland-Virginia boundary line. However, he certainly was surprised when he found the wardens waiting for him as he returned to the Virginia shore near Fort Belvoir.

DeWitt Harry, well known Waltonian, slipped silently out of Washington for the Pacific Coast. DeWitt, answering the call to arms as he did in World War 1, left yesterday with a commission as Captain in the Air Corps.

Captain Harry, who served in the last war with the Second Canadian Division, was wounded three times, and for his valor under fire was decorated many times. Good luck, DeWitt your many Waltonian friends hope you bag many Jap fish. And don't practice conservation on 'em.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHERRY T., $14.10, $6.20, $3.90; JAQUITA, $6.20, $4.60; LIBERTY POLLY, $3.60.

CHERRY T. broke alertly, shook off COLLEGE BELLE and JAQUITA to open a clear lead and won with something in reserve. JAQUITA went to contention boldly in the early stages and continued gamely to the end. LIBERTY POLLY showed early speed and hung in the final stages. VEE weakened after moving to a forward position rounding the turn.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:12½. Off at 3:12½. Winner, S. W. Labroi's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—QUEENS DELIGHT, $11.30, $590, $3.70; MYSTIQUE, $4.00, $2.90; LITTLE SUZANNE, $3.40.

QUEENS DELIGHT, within striking distance of the leaders from the break, responded when shaken up in the stretch drive, disposed of JACK BUCK and LITTLE SUZANNE and was drawing out at the end. MYSTIQUE was not hurried in the opening stages, improved his position with a rush in the stretch and was going fastest of all at the end. LITTLE SUZANNE raced on the inside forwardly and tired in the final 3 furlongs. MYRTLE M. had keen early speed on the outside and weakened near the close.

Daily Double—CHERRY T and QUEENS DELIGHT Paid $89.00

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:42. Off at 3:42. Winner, I. Bieber's br. h. (6) by Eternal—Venice. Trained by H. Jacobs. Value to winner, $830; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:14⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SHADOWS PASS, $5.70, $3.50, $2.70; LITTLE BOLO, $4.00, $2.80; BRITISH WARM, $3.20.

SHADOWS PASS assumed command at once, drew out, but had to be shaken up in the stretch drive to hold LITTLE BOLO safe. The latter was in the first flight from the break, was placed to a hard drive through the stretch and was wearing down the winner at the end. BRITISH WARM closed with good energy. EXARCH was closest to the pace under hustling tactics early and weakened.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1500. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:12. Winner, J. H. Louchheim's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CARMUS, $7.50, $4.30, $2.80; BLUE STEEL, $4.10, $2.70; BOLA MOWLEE, $3.00.

CARMUS went to the front on the outside in the opening furlong, was urged into a long lead and was never threatened while closing easily. BLUE STEEL was hard urged while closest to the pacemaker and held on gamely. BOLA MOWLEE was sluggish early, came out for racing room and closed gamely. MISS I. Q. was well placed in midstretch and tired.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5000 added. For 3-year-olds and upward. The Rowe Memorial Handicap. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:40½. Off at 4:40½. Winner, G. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAPE COD, $9.10, $5.10, $3.20; DESIGNATOR, $56.90, $15.70; OMISSION, $2.90.

CAPE COD had keen speed from the start, disposed of the leaders, drew out in the stretch and won with speed in reserve. DESIGNATOR was a keen forward factor from the break and held on with good courage in the closing stages. OMISSION moved up menacingly between horses in the early stretch and hung thereafter. RIDING LIGHT was hard ridden and had no excuses. WARLOCK made up some ground in midstretch and then faltered. MAECHANCE could not reach contention. LIBERTY FRANC had speed to the stretch and stopped.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:08½. Off at 4:08½. Winner, P. Reda's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VALDINA VALET, $12.00, $6.20, $4.00; HATTIE BELLE, $7.90, $4.70; ISLE DE PINE, $3.10.

VALDINA VALET, under strong restraint while in the first flight, came out for racing room, responded gamely to hard urging and won going away. HATTIE BELLE raced head and head with ISLE DE PINE in front and came gamely in the final test. ISLE DE PINE forced the pace of HATTIE BELLE and fought it out with good energy. FREE TRADER couldn't reach contention. FOX CUB raced with the leaders for the half and weakened gradually thereafter.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1200. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:38. Off at 5:39. Winner, W. W. Crenshaw's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARE BUNNY, $29.30, $11.50, $5.60; NILON, $5.70, $3.60; JUST TOURIST, $2.40.

DARE BUNNY saved ground while racing close to the leaders from the start, was headed at the eighth pole and came again under strong handling. NILON moved to the leader with a rush after the opening half, assumed command soon after entering the stretch, but weakened in the last few yards. A foul was claimed against the winner but it was not allowed. JUST TOURIST was slow to begin, came with good courage at the end, but could not reach the top ones. FLYING DUKE dropped out of contention soon after the start and then came again in the closing quarter.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1200. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 6:12. Off at 6:12½. Winner, Mrs C. M. Feltner's br. g. Selections at Bowie

Dear Al:

A certain Washington man has been trying to get a commission in the Army. He has been working on all angles and so far has failed. Yesterday, a friend called him on the phone and said, "I can get you a commission but it's in the cavalry." The fellow answered, "I can't even ride a horse, but I'll learn. Where do I have to go?" His friend replied, "Don't get so serious. I was only kidding. What I called you for was to ask you to go to Bowie." Donald Hay, the mutuel manager here, comes out between races to look at the gigantic flagpole and the big flag flying from it in the infield. Hay won the new centerfield piece on a bet last fall. The genial Baltimorean did a little figuring after the first week of the meeting last November and reported to General Manager Joseph A. Farrell that the wagering would be the largest of any track in Maryland. "We won't top Pimlico," replied Farrell. Hay came back with "I believe we will." Farrell asked "do you want to bet?" Hay replied, "I'll tell you what, if we pass Pimlico will you buy a big flagpole and a flag and put it in the infield like the one at Pimlico?" Farrell said he would. Of course, Hay won. Looked like old home week in the jockeys' room around noon yesterday with Danny Scocca, Rocco Sisto, Sammy Palumbo, Willie Kelley, Henri Mora and the others around. Johnny Shanks was on the scale and looked plenty happy at the prospect of riding again. He has "retired" five times in the last year and was the outrider during the Wheeling meeting. Jockey Martin Bletzacker was on hand but had no mounts. He says he's fit and ready. Track Superintendent Dick Pending did a fine job on the track, aided by a bright sun. "Spike" Collins, veteran newspaper correspondent, missed his first Bowie opening in 28 years. He suffered a leg injury that has kept him at home for months. Jack Higgins stopped by for him yesterday but "Spike" couldn't make the grade. We missed him. BILL.

First race—FOUR STARS is a well-bred youngster and one who has worked well over this track. Seems as good as anything in this field. PLUCKY TEDDY is a doubtful starter but is well regarded. THE DUCK to take care of the others.

Second race—FAIR HERO likes this track and appears well placed. The short route suits and I'm going to string along. NICK has speed and may be close despite high weight. BILL K. is a long-shot possibility.

Third race—PUNCHDRUNK is a fair sort and meets only Maryland-breds in this field. Should take it all. TINY TRICK belongs in the first flight with these. KIMESHA for the minor money.

Fourth race—TRIPOD could be the right one in this rather open race. Has worked encouragingly and is going to be there. COLD CRACK and HALF CROWN to take care of the place and show.

Fifth race — IMPERIAL IMPY showed a lot of speed over this track last fall and wil be ready to turn back these, I do believe. ROUGH TIME deserves attention despite 117 pounds. SOBRIQUET to accounf for the third position.

Sixth race — INDIAN SUN and MARKSMAN are a tight fit in this abbreviated sprint. I prefer them in the order named. FIREBROOM likes a slow oval and gets it here.

Eighth race—The Bedwell entry of CREEPY MOUSE and VALDINA LEO should provide the punch necessary to take this. BUNNY BABY is favored by 103 pounds. BELAY has a cash chance.

Best bet—TOUR.

Rovers Beat Gulls, Need Triumph To Tie Eagles

Special Dispatch to The Post

Atlantic City, N. J., April 2.—Following a 7-5 triumph over the Sea Gulls here tonight the New York Rovers need only one more triumph to tie the Washington Eagles for the playoff crown of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League. The finale, again involving tonight's foes, will be staged tomorrow night on the local rink.

Three goals to Atlantic City's one in the last period brought the Rovers victory tonight.

Colchis Seen As Added Entry In Preakness

By the Associated Press

Baltimore, April 2.—R. Sterling Clark's Colchis, which ran a dead heat with Alsab in the Eastern Shore Handicap at Havre de Grace last fall, may be made a supplementary entry in the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes to be run at Pimlico May 9.

Owners of the 3-year-olds not already nominated for the Preakness may enter them by payment of a $1,500 fee by April 15.

Trainer Vincent Mara said "Colchis wintered well and has come along steadily in his spring training and I'm hopeful Mr. Clark will take the chance of entering him in the Preakness."

Among other top-flight colts that may be made supplementary entries for the Preakness are Requested, winner of the Flamingo Stakes; Bright Willie, winner of the Hialeah Stakes; American Wolf, winner of the Bahamas Handicap; With Regards, winner of the Arkansas Derby, and Incoming, a consistent performer in Florida.

Jenkins Hurt; Gabe Menendez Joins Army

Promoter Joe Turner will be unable to show Lew Jenkins against Billy Murray in his first Riverside Stadium venture, scheduled April 20, because of a little impromptu match engaged in by Jenkins last Tuesday morning in New York. It is reported the Texas fighter suffered a cut eye after having been kayoed by an unknown.

Promoter Turner had planned a 10-round event after Murray, a Bellaire, Ohio, schoolboy cleverly defeated Oscar Wright here last Monday night. Turner had been assured of Jenkins' services.

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez, who has applied for enlistment in the Army, will make arrangements for his last show for Turner, and it is believed that he will pair Carl Guggino, whom he manages, against Murray.

Menendez is due for a physical examination in his native city, Tampa, Fla., next week where he

Indians Again Beat New York Giants; Errors Help Chisox Beat Pirates, 5-4

By the Associated Press

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 2.—The Detroit Tigers downed the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 2, today with a nine-hit attack on Kirby Higbe, first Brooklyn hurler to go the route this spring.

Rudy York's single with the bases loaded scored two Tiger runs in the third inning and two more crossed in the fifth, when the American Leaguers bunched five singles.

The Dodgers scored both their runs off Al Benton, who teamed with Roy Henshaw in holding them to seven safeties. A walk, an error and a single by Joe Medwick produced a run in the first inning and a fielder's choice enabled Charley Gelbert to score in the fifth after he had singled and moved to third on Dixie Walker's double.

Indians Win, 11-5

Houston, Tex., April 2 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians continued their mastery over the New York Giants today, winning the sixth game of their exhibition series, 11 to 5.

It was the fourth straight Cleveland victory.

The Indians pounded Hal Shumacher and Tom Sunkel for 13 hits and scored in every inning in which they batted except two.

The Giants, who treated Rookie Ray Poat rather roughly in the first three innings, were held in check by Veteran Al Smith the rest of the way and wound up with a total of eight hits.

Chisox Beat Pirates

Yuma, Ariz., April 2 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates, supreme over the White Sox in six previous meetings this spring, lost a game to the Chicagoans, 5-4, as the American League team scored three runs on two hits and three Buc errors in the seventh inning.

The Pirates held a 4-2 lead going into the last half of the seventh when Dario Lodigiani opened with a single. After Mike Tresh was out Lodigiani went to second on a wild pitch, Thornton Lee was safe on Al Anderson's error and Bill Knickerbocker reached first on Dietz' bad throw to second, filling the bases. Harry Sketchley hit to Van Royabs who threw wide to the plate, Lodigiani scoring. Murrell Jones singled to left to send Lee and Knickerbocker across the plate with the runs that won for the White Sox.

A's Hits Count

Tucson, Ariz., April 2 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics made only four hits but defeated the Chicago Cubs, who made five safeties, 2-1.

Phil Marchildon, who checked the Cubs with three hits and didn't allow a run until the seventh, was spiked in the rundown of Chicago's Catcher Salvador Hernandez, who was trapped between third and home in the Cubs' half of the seventh. Newman Shirley finished the game for the A's.

The Athletics made their two runs in the fifth inning on two hits, two walks and an error.

DiMag Clouts Two

Savannah, Ga., April 2 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio blasted two home runs today as the New York Yankees chalked up a 9-1 exhibition victory over the Savannah Indians, of the South Atlantic League.

DiMaggio's homers, his third and fourth of the spring, produced three runs, but the other Yankee tallies were helped along by the Savannah players who committed five of the game's nine errors.

Marv Breuer blanked the Indians on three hits for seven innings, and Spud Chandler dished out only one hit in the last two frames, but errors by Gerry Priddy and Joe Gordon let in a run in the ninth.

Reds Beat Bosox

Charleston, S. C., April 2 (U.P.).—Bucky Walters almost went the full distance today but needed ninth-inning help from Relief Pitcher Joe Beggs as the Cincinnati Reds shaded the Boston Red Sox, 4-3.

Cincinnati salted the game away early, sending home four runs in the first two innings, but Charley Wagner and Mike Ryba blanked them the rest of the way. Wagner pitched the first eight innings for the Sox and was nicked for all the Reds' runs.

Paul Derringer, Cincinnati right-hander, pulled a muscle in his right side running for a fly ball in practice and will be sidelined for a few days.

Harvard Routs Navy Nine By 15-4 Score

By the Associated Press

Annapolis, Md., April 2.—Ned Fitzgibbons, Harvard's slugging first baseman, hit for the cycle as the Crimson trimmed Navy, 15-4, in the opening baseball game of the season for both teams today.

Fitzgibbons rapped a single, double, triple and home run in his first five times at bat, taking a base on balls his fourth time up. His first hit was a single and he followed with the others in their consecutive order.

Harvard's three flingers, Phelan, Farley and Berg, held the Middies to eight scattered hits and coasted after their mates piled up all their runs in the first six innings. Besides Fitzgibbons, Ed Buckley, Harvard outfielder, collected three hits in the one-sided game.

A. L. Schedules Now Available

And that was the unofficial word, later verified, that the official 1942 American League baseball schedules, done up neatly in vest pocket size, are available to all readers of The Post.

All you have to do is drop in at The Post, 1337 E Street Northwest, and ask at the front counter for your copy. If you can't come in, just send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Schedule Editor, Sports Department, and your copy will be forwarded quickly.

Indianapolis Six Defeats Hershey, 2-1

By the Associated Press

Hershey, Pa., April 2.—In a thrill-packed game the Indianapolis Caps rallied in the third period to defeat the Hershey Bears, 2 to 1, here tonight and take the lead in the final play-off for the championship of the American Hockey League.

The Caps looked every inch like champions as they broke a 1-1 deadlock in the third period and won the game with a man in the penalty box. They now lead two games to one and can win the championship in the fourth game here Saturday.

Capt. Wally Kilrea gave the Bears a lead in the second period when he scored shortly after Jackson had been banished to the penalty box for holding. Kilrea took Lofvendahl's pass near the Caps' blue line and then swung in a wide arc toward the net. Turner's stick barely touched the rubber as it slammed into the net.

The Caps started the third period with a rush and took possession of the puck when it rebounded from Bobby Kirk's skate in the Bears' defense zone. Fisher passed to Ken Kilrea who passed to Bobby Brown standing near the free line. Brown's shot was partially screened as it zipped toward the goal. The rubber struck Damore's pads and bounded into the net.

Late in the third period the Bears got a break when Frost muffed an easy pass and started his scoring drive to the goal. Midway in the Bears' defense zone he passed to Keating who pounded home the winning goal.

Local A.A.U. Cage Tourney Reaches Finale

Two close games marked play in the A. A. U. basketball tournament yesterday as semifinals were wound up, preparatory to finals tonight.

The 120-pound Americans turned back the Crows, 27 to 22, and 135-pound Hayes A. C. turned back Georgetown Branch, 36 to 31.

Tonight the Americans face the Senators in an all-Central Branch final, both teams being coached by Ollie Dryzer at the downtown club. The Americans, a legitimate 120-pound team, have registered 27 straight victories this season. They will be facing a quintet which is mostly 105-pounders, victors in 25 league outings.

In other clashes the 105-pound Georgetown Branch will face the Eastern Branch Cards at Eastern at 7:15, and Alexandria B. C. will tangle with the 135-pound Hayes A. C. at Central at 8:15.

Duke Golfers Face Georgetown

Durham, N. C., April 2.—Two more Duke teams will launch their spring campaigns tomorrow afternoon when the golf team meets Georgetown over the Hope Valley links at 1:30 o'clock and the lacrosse team faces Virginia on the freshman football field at 3 o'clock.

Navy Lacrossmen Edge Dartmouth, 9-8

Annapolis, Md., April 2 (AP).—Two quick goals in the final 45 seconds of play enabled Navy to edge Dartmouth lacrosse team 9 to 8 today in the season's opening game.

With Dartmouth leading 8 to 7 Gus Brady; Navy's second defense, tied the score with a midfield shot and 15 seconds later Eldroud Oxley, Middie center, picked up a loose ball in front of the Indians' goal and smashed it into the net.

Terp Lacrosse Team Swamps Harvard, 15-2

The prosepct of another fine season on the lacrosse field was enjoyed at Maryland University yesterday when the Terp stickmen, taking their initial start, pushed Harvard's helpless forces all over the home lot and grabbed a 15-2 decision.

Winners of 8 out of 11 games last year, the Old Liners needed little of the polish they displayed to beat Harvard. The invaders lacked any attack whatever, concerted or individual, and most of their defense was in the hands of over-worked Goalie A. Fenn.

Landis Hill, at the second defense post, hung up the Terps' first goal after exactly one minute of play, and before the first period was over four duplicates of the effort had been recorded. Despite single tallies by Jay Hurley in the second and third periods, Harvard stood kindly aside as Maryland rang up three points in the second stanza, five more in the third and topped off the outing with a pair in the last.

Veteran Ray Grelecki, playing out home, sparked the hosts' assault with four goals, two within 14 seconds of the third quarter. Two points apiece were credited to Tarbert, McGregor and Hill.

M. A. Women's Golf Awarded Congressional

The dates and sites of the Middle Atlantic Golf Association's tournament schedule were cleaned up yesterday with the announcement the women's championship would be played at Congressional Country Club, August 10 to 14, inclusive.

Congressional thus gets two major outside affairs to be played here this season, as the Maryland State Medal Play Championship for the Payne Trophy will be played at the River Road club, September 23, 24 and 25.

The other Middle Atlantic men's dates were set at the winter meeting, the M. A. amateur at Manor Country Club, June 2, 3, 4 and 5, and the junior at Congressional, July 7.

A Maryland State women's field day will be help September 16, at Rolling Road. This was omitted from the State card.

Cabmen Win Six Straight In Pin League

Elmer Wesley's 161 for Diamond Cab helped his boys trim opponents six straight times in a doubleheader in the Brookland Merchants League last night. Washington Oil Burner won five out of six from opponents when George Gauvreau aided with high set of 413, the team also rolling top set of 1797. DePerini Delicatessen totaled 625 for high team game. Both University Delicatessen and Modern Way Movers, the first two in the league, won three and lost three, so the leadership remained unchanged.

ARLINGTON

Marion Sumner, of Sher & Cohen, and Emma Lee Ragsdale, of Marge's Beauty Salon, topped the Arlington Ladies with respective totals of 127 and 333 with the latter's counts aiding her team to high game of 503 and a pair over Conklyn's Flowers. Bauserman's Service had 1464 for best set and scored an odd-game win over Caramel Crisp.

ARCADIA

The Ladies' Federal girls discovered that Bee Foresburg had garnered individual honors with a 136 single and 347 set that led her ICC quintet to top set total of 1488. The Agriculture girls won high team game laurels after knocking over 533 pins.

ICE PALACE

Jack Hoopes, Arrows, topped the Chamber of Commerce boys with 134-343, while the Rifles won all three from the Aces to practically sew up the pennant, also posting high game of 531. The Wildcats won the set honors with a 1532 pinfall.

TEMPLE

A 165 single by Charley Matthews, Bombard & Weinman, and a 380 set effort by Ivins Biscuits' Bill Hutton were the best individual totals in the Temple Minor loop with the latter sparking high team game of 569 for his men as Wolf's Market rolled 1650 for set. Senate Inn, Mann's Potato Chips, Wolf's Market and Camden Tavern each won three from opponents.

4 Clubs Monopolize Women's Golf Card

Four Clubs Get All 1942 Tourneys; Prizes to Be Defense Bonds, Stamps

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

The District Women's Golf Association restored the Corby and Duffer Cup Tournaments to make a full 1942 schedule yesterday and awarded a great majority of the tournaments to only four of its 13-member clubs.

Chevy Chase gets the five-day District Championship Tournament and the two-day Keefer Cup. Kenwood has six days of medal play affairs listed, Congressional and Columbia three each. The only other club with a tournament listed is Washington. Due to the distance from the heart of the city, no tournaments were given Manor while Army and Navy, Bannockburn and Prince George were not considered among the 18-hole courses. Woodmont, Belle Haven, Indian Spring and Argyle were not given tournaments, in line with the recent policy of omitting nine-hole courses.

Mrs. W. L. Weible, president, who announced the cord, stated that a majority of the prize money would be spent in defense bonds and stamps. An occasional medal will be awarded plus a few prizes from the golf shops, but silver and clothing are out. The newspaper tournament sponsors will give defense bonds.

Ladies Compete

Three pro-lady tournaments are in the schedule for the first time and the women players will be drawn from the association's handicap list, starting with the better players but by the third tournament most of the members will have an opportunity to compete. The winning pro in each will receive a $25 defense bond in addition to the purse, from the association.

The Keefer Cup will inaugurate the schedule as usual with two days of medal play at Chevy Chase but at a date a little later than usual, April 28-29. The tournament card willl again be spread throughout the summer months, the President's Plate the usual closing affair on October 10. The District will be played at Chevy Chase June 15 through June 19.

The Washington Post Trophy play will be July 17, Class A at Columbia and Class B at Kenwood.

Two Outside Meets

Outside tournaments listed include the Phyllis Keeler Miller Memorial Cup at Washington and the Bannockburn Invitation, both one-day affairs, in May and July, respectively.

The team match schedule will be announced in about six weeks as due to an expected shortage of caddies play will not start until June and will run through September. All putts will be holed in the team competition this year.

Mrs. Weible announced that due to the number of new persons moving to Washington, the usual three-month waiting period will be waived for handicaps and a player will have an accredited standing after turning in just ten cards.

The annual home and home intercity series with the Baltimore golfers has been canceled at the request of the latter team.

Shine, Former C.U. Grid Star, Named Marine Lieutenant

Special Dispatch to The Post

Quantico, Va., April 2.—Louis P. Shine, 24, former Catholic University grid star, was a member of the Seventh Reserve Officers class, graduated here this week.

Shine attained his commission as second lieutenant, United States Marine Corps Reserve, in January, via the candidates for commission class. He, along with other successful candidates, then attended the Reserve Officers class, and now upon completion of this schooling, is available for general active duty.

Other football luminaries who were graduated with Shine are Second Lieuts. Francis X. Reagan, All-American halfback, 1940, University of Pennsylvania, and halfback for the New York Giants; Joseph A. Terzi, Niagara University, and William A. Ziesel, Creighton University.

Kurtsinger Suffers Broken Leg From Fall Off Horse

By the Associated Press

Louisville, Ky., April 2.—Charley Kurtsinger 35-year-old jockey, who rode Twenty Grand and War Admiral to victories in the Kentucky Derby, suffered a broken left leg today in a fall from a horse he was breezing at Churchill Downs.

Kurtsinger has been exercising to get in shape for a comeback in hopes of equalling the Derby victory record of three winners each, held by Isaac Murphy and Earl Sande.

While working the 2-year-old Dave Shaw over the Downs, Oval Kurtsinger's saddle slipped and Charley was thrown under the horse's hoofs. At St. Joseph's Hospital Kurtsinger was found to have a compound fracture of the left leg.

Tidal Basin Boats In Use Again

Canoeing and boating will be resumed on the Tidal Basin, starting Saturday the Welfare and Recreational Association announced today.

Thirty or more craft, including pedal boats and the swan boat, will be available this season for water-minded war workers and other District residents, the association said. More will be added if the demand justifies. Last year, the boating unit reported 36,200 patrons.

The wharf at which the boats and canoes may be obtained has been moved to a new location on the south side of the Tidal Basin, opposite the former polo field.

Budge Far Out In Front in Pro Tennis Series

By the Associated Press

Los Angeles, April 2.—Don Budge was far out in front today as a quintet of touring tennis professionals started back east on the last leg of their transcontinental tour.

He leads Bobby Riggs by 17 victories, 51 to 34. Trailing are Fred Perry and Frank Kovacs. Perry, out occasionally with injuries, has been understudied by Lester Stoefen.

Easter Retail Sales Up 56% Here in Week

Easter shopping in Washington department stores reached a new height in the week ended March 28, the dollar volume soaring 56 per cent above the same week last year, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

Favorable weather after Sunday's snowstorm indicated a continued upturn in sales this week, although figures are not yet available.

Washington retail sales in the four weeks ended March 28 were 44 per cent heavier than in the same period last year, the bank reported. Sales in the Fifth District as a whole were 46 per cent improved in the week and 42 per cent heavier in the four-week period.

Two factors have made major contributions to the heavy turnover of consumer goods in March, the earlier date of Easter this year and the continued heavy buying of woolen goods and all types of apparel.

This year, owing to the fact that Easter comes one week earlier than in 1941, the bulk of Easter purchasing has been concentrated in March, whereas most of such purchasing was recorded last year in April.

The heavy apparel sales was attributed to the pending restrictions on wool use in clothing.

The size of the dollar volume increases recorded in March is also partly due to the rise in retail prices since last year. Current retail levels are reported about 19 per cent higher than the prices prevailing a year ago.

Business Briefs Of D. C. Interest

Mail Revenues Up 21 Per Cent

A new March record of $918,030 was reported yesterday in Washington mail revenues. This was 21 per cent heavier than the $759,105 recorded in March, 1941, according to postoffice officials here.

For the first three months this year postal receipts here set a new all-time high of $2,742,106 which compared with $2,192,233 in the same 1941 period.

Home Building Cost Spurts

The cost of building a standard six-room house in Washington was $6682 as of March 1, the Federal Home Loan Bank Review revealed yesterday. This compares with $6236 last year, $5741 in 1940, $5813 in 1939, and $5988 in 1938.

The cubic-foot cost was estimated at 27.8 cents in March this year as compared with 26 cents in the same month last year.

Wilner to Become Captain

Bernard L. Wilner, Washington general agent of the State Mutual Life Assurance Company, has been granted a leave of absence to accept a captain's commission in the Army. Leon Katz has been appointed local manager during Mr. Wilner's absence.

Mr. Wilner, a chartered life underwriter, was on the board of trustees and a member of the faculty of the District of Columbia Life Institute. Mr. Katz, also a chartered life underwriter, is a graduate of George Washington University and Georgetown Law School.

Bond Sale Publicized

Through thousands of telegrams to securities dealers, public officials, and potential large investors, the Treasury attempted yesterday to familiarize the public with the nature of its $1,500,000,000 sale of certificates of indebtedness in advance of the actual sale next Monday.

The Treasury said that the telegrams were not intended to be actual requests to buy this type of security, but were designed merely to spread information about them, since no securities of this type have been marketed since 1934.

The Treasury said that it was asking all securities dealers to assist their customers in understanding the terms of the offering.

The certificates will bear interest at the annual rate of one-half of 1 per cent and will mature in "about six months."

Taxes Cut Bond Sales

The Treasury reported yesterday that defense bond sales dropped sharply in March, aggregating $564,506,381, compared with $710,837,192 in February.

Officials said the drop probably was due to the fact that many people had no money left for bond purchases after they paid their income taxes.

Markets Close Today

Easter holidays will be observed today with usual closing down of all major domestic securities and commodity exchanges for Good Friday. Several of the markets also will remain closed on Saturday, including cocoa, cottonseed oil, coffee and sugar. The livestock reports will be issued, together with produce tables.

Two Food Firms Skip Common Dividends

New York, April 2 (AP).—The Hecker Products Corporation announced today directors took no action on the common stock dividend, customarily declared at the March meeting. Shortly before, the Best Foods, Inc., 71 per cent owned by Hecker, also failed to take dividend action.

President Guy Lemmon said both boards were influenced by a desire to conserve cash to meet high inventory costs and the uncertainty as to adequate provisions for tax reserves under pending Federal legislation.

L. & N. Railroad Reports 10 Million Gain in Net

Louisville, Ky., April 2 (AP).—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad in its annual report for 1941 showed a net income gain of almost ten million dollars over 1940.

Total net income for 1941 was reported by the railroad at $19,475,250 compared with $9,537,145 for 1940, an increase of $9,938,104.

Gross operating revenues of the railroad were $119,569,572 in 1941, the report said, compared with $98,001,627 in 1940, an increase of $21,567,945. The ratio of expenses to revenues was cut from 73.5 per cent in 1940 to 65.3 per cent in 1941, the report added.

Tanker Rate Boosted

A tanker rate of approximately 3 cents a gallon between United States Gulf, Caribbean and north Atlantic ports was authorized yesterday by the War Shipping Administration. This compares with the prewar rate of about 1 cent a gallon.

Factory Workers' Average Pay Triples That of Previous War

By the Associated Press

New York, April 2.—Workers in 25 industries as this country plunged into the second World War, a survey today said, were making about three times as much money as their fathers earned when the first World War started.

The National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., a research organization, issued the survey, which said that:

In January, when America began its first full month in the war, the average weekly earnings of employes in 25 industries regularly surveyed by the board were $37.59.

At the start of World War I in July, 1914, employes in the same industries were receiving in actual dollars and cents an average of $12.68 weekly.

From that time 28 years ago the weekly earnings of those workers climbed until in September, 1939, when the second war broke out in Europe, they were averaging $27.58 weekly, a $14.90 increase.

Then the weekly earnings started a sharp rise until by the time the United States swung into the war late in 1941 they had risen to the $37.59 figure, or an increase of $10.01 in the two-year period, as compared with an increase of $14.90 in the preceding 26 years.

The total increase in the average weekly earnings of the people in the designated industries was 196 per cent from July, 1914, to January, 1942, while the cost of living rose 54 per cent.

At the start of the first war the workers were putting in an average of 51.5 hours per week on their job, but in January of this year their working hours were about 41.6.

During the first two years of the first war the United States population was approximately 105,000,000 with about 39,000,000 employable and 37,500,000 actually employed.

When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor last December the population of this country was more than 131,000,000 with 51,841,000 employed —including men in the armed services—out of a total of about 55,257,000 regular employables.

FHA to Seek Higher Limit

The Federal Housing Administration has exhausted its $300,000,000 authorization for insuring mortgages on defense housing under Title VI, an official said yesterday, but intends to ask Congress soon for additional insurance authority.

FHA field offices, the official said, have been instructed to make no further commitments under Title VI, but they will continue to accept applications and to process them so that action can be taken instantly if Congress approves additional funds.

The Title VI provision was established in April, 1941, with a special $100,000,000 insurance authorization designed to supply more than 25,000 housing units in specified defense production areas. The authorization was tripled last fall. The outbreak of war and further expansion of military production increased the demand for such housing.

Mortgage insurance under the defense housing section is restricted to construction intended to relieve housing shortages in particular areas and is limited to a mortgage maximum of $4000 on single-family homes, $6000 on two-family homes, $8000 on three-family homes and $10,500 on four-family homes. The maximum insurance is 90 per cent and the maximum term of the mortgage is 20 years.

It is understood that present plans are to ask Congress to increase the Title VI mortgage insurance authority to 800 million dollars, an increase of 500 million dollars.

Bakers to Halt Special And Sunday Deliveries

By the Associated Press

The baking industry proposed to the War Production Board yesterday a program for reducing mileage of bakery trucks 25 per cent to conserve tires and equipment.

Special and Sunday deliveries would be stopped immediately, under the plan, and governors would be installed on trucks to keep speeds to a maximum of 35 miles an hour. Truck routes would be rearranged to shorten distances traveled and off-route stops would be eliminated.

OPA to Ease Restrictions on New Car Sales

Cleveland, April 2 (AP).—A Price Administration official predicted today wider discretion would be given rationing boards to speed new automobiles into possession of eligible purchasers.

Cyrus McCormick 3d, chief of the Office of Price Administration's automobile and truck section, told newsmen an estimated 340,000 to 500,000 new automobiles would be distributed from dealers' frozen stocks "in approximately one year," and that new regulations could be expected from Washington within a month.

He said requirements for trading a used car in for a new vehicle would be liberalized, and wider discretion would be given rationing boards in distributing the new automobiles. Details of the program now are being worked out, but no classes will be added to those presently eligible, McCormick added.

Eligibility Rule to Stay

In a statement issued as he arrived to address a meeting of automobile dealers and ration board representatives, McCormick said while regulations would be liberalized, "it is clearly the duty of the local rationing boards to test the eligibility of each applicant against the requirements of the rationing order.

"It is not the purpose of the Office of Price Administration to ask the boards to interpret the regulations more liberally because passenger cars have thus far moved rather slowly. Or is it the purpose to ask them to restrain the flow of cars to purchasers listed as eligible under the regulations.

"We believe that it is highly desirable for all concerned for the local boards to reach their own conclusions as to the needs of potential purchasers . . . There are already sufficient classes of eligible purchasers . . . to consume far more than the limited number of cars available."

Fast Depreciation Cited

McCormick estimated half a billion dollars' worth of automobiles were now frozen in the hands of dealers. Dealers figures show inventories of 340,000 cars, but "OPA officials believe the figure is closer to 500,000," he added.

McCormick said Section 701 in OPA's rationing regulations would be revised because it now is "too strict." Actual announcement of the revision must await assembly of figures on rationed sales in March, he added.

The OPA official said there is a difference in "the commodity situation" between tires and automobiles. "Automobiles depreciate in storage faster than do tires, and tires do not need the care which automobiles need. . . . Consequently, by distributing present (automobile) stocks we are not exhausting the available supply of passenger transportation. Whereas, when rubber stocks are exhausted through the existing tires being worn out there are no new tires available for distribution."

A price ceiling probably will be placed upon used automobiles within a week or two, McCormick told the conference.

"There is no likelihood that rationing will be extended to used cars," McCormick asserted during a question period following the conference.

30-Ton Tank Is All Welded

Detroit, April 2 (AP)—E. F. Fisher, general manager of Fisher Body Division of General Motors Corporation, disclosed today with War Department approval that his company completed the first of a new type, all-welded 30-ton Army tank four weeks ago.

Since then, Fisher added, the job has been pushed forward rapidly on an assembly line basis.

The first tank came off a production line in what once was the largest automobile body unit in the world just 47 days after work was begun converting the factory to war work. Meanwhile many other tanks were put into construction and were well under way by the time the first one rolled off under its own power.

"Equipped only with skilled men and machines for building automobile bodies," Fisher said, "we started from scratch to make a completely new type tank. With little experience in machine tool building we turned out huge vertical boring mills faster than they had ever been built before and rushed them to the tank job."

The M-4 tank, Fisher said, is a successor to the M-3, which is a riveted model. He disclosed that several processes never before used in tank production have been adapted to the job, outstanding among them being the forming of the big weapon's thick armor plate.

Slide Fastener Plant Is Closed

Meadville, Pa., April 2 (AP).—W. C. Arthur, president of Talon, Inc., announced today the company's Erie, Pa., plant, employing 800, had been closed and 1500 of 4000 employes at the Meadville plants had been furloughed as the result of a War Production Board order prohibiting the use of copper and copper alloy for slide fasteners.

A company spokesman said the War Production Board's order may result in further layoffs. He added, however, that Talon is converting its facilities to war-time production as rapidly as possible. In recent months the company has purchased two Meadville plants for exclusive war production purposes and one already is in operation.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, April 2 (AP).—Depressed by the slow demand for flour and crop prospects that promise a further increase in the record-breaking domestic surplus, wheat prices today slumped more than a cent a bushel at one time to the lowest quotations since early last December, before Pearl Harbor.

Wheat was the weakest cereal in the market, although rye also was off a cent at one time. Corn and oats were steadied by good demand from industries and feeders and prospects that the supply available next season will be smaller than that for this year, despite an increased population of grain-consuming livestock.

Adjustment of accounts prior to the Good Friday holiday accounted for some of the selling. During the final hour wheat hit the low point as much as 1⅞ cents below yesterday's finish, but late short covering reduced the loss and closing prices were ½-⅞ lower than yesterday: May, 1.24¾@1.24⅝; July, 1.26⅜. Corn closed ¼ lower to ⅛ higher; May, 88⅜@88½; July, 90⅝@90¾. Oats unchanged to ⅛ off. Soy beans ⅛-½ higher. Rye ⅝-½ lower. Lard unchanged at ceilings.

New York Cotton

New York, April 2 (AP).—Cotton futures prices rose 25 to 60 cents a bale today in a session marked by further active buying for account of mills in connection with price fixing.

Some outside speculative demand asserted itself in the late trading as cotton circles studied reports of a prospective agricultural labor shortage. Added to this were stories that farm work in some sections of the Cotton Belt was being delayed by too much soil moisture.

There was some professional liquidation in anticipation of the Good Friday recess. Such sellers were also influenced by the market's recent climb to 14-year highs.

Gasoline, Fuel Oil Stocks Show Sharp Decrease in Week

New York, April 2 (AP).—Sharp declines in gasoline and fuel oil stocks all over the country were shown today in the American Petroleum Institute weekly oil report.

Total finished and unfinished gasoline stocks in the week ended March 28 was 105,624,000 barrels, a decline of 507,000 from the previous week. Gas oil and distillate fuel amounted to 31,756,000, a drop of 534,000, and residual fuel oil stocks stood at 83,045,000 barrels, a decline of 980,000.

There was a slight decrease in gasoline stocks on the East Coast, the total of 16,470,000 barrels comparing with 16,973,000 in the previous week. Heavy fuel oil amounted to 5,618,000 against 6,097,000 the week before.

The report showed daily average crude oil production was 3,819,850 barrels compared with 3,746,550 a year ago and 3,691,700 a week earlier. Refining operations were estimated at 78.3 per cent of capacity, with a run to stills of 3,667,000 barrels. Both operations and run to stills were slightly ahead of last week. Refineries produced 11,663,000 barrels, an increase of 428,000 over the preceding period.

Chicago Hog Prices Set New Peak of $14

Chicago, April 2 (AP).—Hog prices hit a peak of $14 a hundred pounds today, a new high for the last 16 years, as trade circles were influenced by rumors of heavy Government lard buying and a report that the Office of Price Administration may readjust some pork ceiling levels.

At present prices hogs are above levels prevailing on March 10, when the OPA announced it would "freeze" wholesale pork prices. Today's peak compared with a top of $9.92 immediately prior to America's entry into the war and with $8.70 in the same week last year.

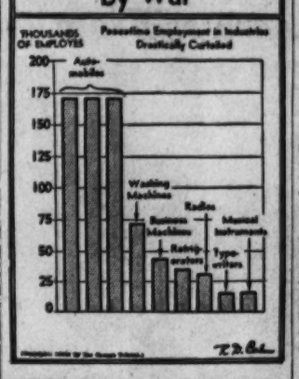
Industries Curtailed by War



U. S. Revenues, Spending Soar

By the Associated Press

Income tax and war spending totals broke all records in March.

Completing the month's tabulations, the Treasury said yesterday that income and excess profits tax revenues aggregated $3,082,627,146, which was two and one-half times the previous record of $1,207,512,891 set in March last year.

Cash outlay for war activities set a new peak in March of $2,796,957,580. This was about 595 million more than February, the largest month-to-month increase since the beginning of the defense program in the middle of 1940.

With excise, social security and other taxes, total Federal revenues last month were $3,547,169,479, also a record. Total Federal expenditures for all purposes were $3,436,300,832. Thus the greatest revenue month in the Treasury's history produced a surplus of only $110,868,647. According to Administration budget plans there may not be another such monthly surplus for the duration of the war.

In the nine months since last July 1 the Government has spent $20,249,967,607 and taken in $9,048,703,679, leaving a deficit of $11,201,263,928.

Borrowing through defense bonds and other securities to pay for this deficit brought the total Federal debt, including guaranteed obligations of Government corporations, to $68,109,342,025.

Libby Food Sales Up 66% in Year; Nets $3,375,286

Chicago, April 2 (AP).—Net income of Libby, McNeill & Libby, food-packing concern, rose to $3,375,286, or 93 cents a common share in the fiscal year ended February 28, 1942, the company reported today. A reserve of $500,000 for contingencies was set aside during the year.

In the previous fiscal year net income was $2,660,847, or 73 cents a common share.

Sales for the 1942 fiscal year amounted to $104,574,572, a gain of 66.0 per cent. Operating profit was $11,369,314 against $3,853,146 and Federal taxes $6,096,638 against $711,118.

Directors declared a dividend of 45 cents a common share, payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 14. The previous dividend was 35 cents a common share, paid May 31, 1941.

Gotham Banks Report Gains In First Period

By the Associated Press

New York, April 2.—Most of the large New York banks reported substantial increases in loans and discounts, deposits and holdings of Government bonds in statements today covering the first three months of 1942.

The Chase National Bank, largest commercial bank in the world attained new records in deposits and resources. Deposits as of March 31 were listed at $3,628,257,000, compared with $3,534,967,000 three months ago, and $3,617,530,000 a year ago.

Chase Assets Rise

Total resources of $3,899,439,000, compared with $3,811,803,000 at the end of 1941, and $3,890,245,000 last year at this time. Holdings of Government bonds amounted to $1,417,883,000, compared with $1,364,587,000 at the end of December, and $1,252,185,000 at the end of March, 1941. Loans and discounts stood at $830,806,000, compared with $802,221,000 and $690,342,000

The National City Bank reported deposits at the end of March totaled $2,963,805,853, compared with $2,878,821,22 on December 31 and $2,967,590,195 a year ago. Resources were $3,170,716,166, compared with $3,082,860,582 and $3,168,918,271. The United States Government bond account stood at $1,168,886,949, compared with $1,137,543,527 and $1,036,897,905. Loans and discounts were $630,085,109, against $618,810,573 and $568,980,201.

Morgan Deposits Drop

J. P. Morgan & Co., which recently allowed public participation in its affairs for the first time in history by selling a small block of its stock, showed a decline in both deposits and resources. Deposits on March 31 stood at $637,020,337, against $689,361,244 on December 31 bonds totaled $328,050,121 as compared with $749,725,411 three months earlier. The firm showed a small drop in Government bond holdings but a slight rise in loans and bills purchased.

Chemical Bank and Trust Company reported as of March 31 that its holdings of U. S. Government bonds totaled $328,050,121 as compared with $321,311,478 last December 31. Its deposits, the bank said, were $1,009,608,682 on March 31 as compared with $1,014,109,864 at the end of December.

The indicated net earnings of the bank's 2,000,000 shares of outstanding capital stock with a par value of $10 was 55 cents a share for the first quarter of 1942 as compared with 50 cents a share for the same quarter a year ago.

The Guaranty Trust Co. issued a statement as of March 31 showing total resources of $2,555,077,766.63 and deposits of $2,256,851,587.93. Holdings of U. S. obligations totaled $1,040,616,951.25.

Engineering Awards 55% Above 1941 Level

New York, April 2 (AP).—Engineering construction for the week ended today topped the volume for the corresponding 1941 week by 55 per cent, but was 40 per cent below the previous week, Engineering News-Record reported today.

Volume for the current period brings 1942 construction to $2,100,224,000, a gain of 37 per cent over the total for the like 14-week period in 1941.

Stocks Turn Buoyant in Pre-Holiday Trade; Hope for National Sales Tax Is Chief Factor

New York, April 2.—The stock market negotiated another modest rally today in which recently weak blue chips were the leaders.

Prices, slightly irregular at the start, soon began to edge forward. While modest fractions were the rule, scattered favorites added 2 or more points. An assortment of small minus signs was in evidence at the close.

The extension of Wednesday's belated recovery shift was accomplished on a little better volume, although the aggregate still was far under the break-even mark for most commission houses. Transfers amounted to 371,760 shares, largest since March 17, against 281,220 yesterday. The Associated Press average was up .3 of a point at 34.6, also the best showing since mid-March.

The day's improvement was credited mainly to hopes Congress was leaning toward a national sales tax, the lack of particularly bearish war news and the further belief the long decline to four-year lows had put many issues in a position to swing upward if given half a chance.

Encouraging also was the fact trends were able to make headway generally in the face of tomorrow's Good Friday holiday when major markets will recess. Ordinarily, it was suggested, commitments might have been lightened.

Business developments were comforting in some respects although it was noted that a batch of good earnings statements failed to make much of an impression on stocks of companies concerned.

Low-priced motors such as Studebaker, Packard and Hudson were relatively fast performers. The last-named edged into new high ground for the year, along with Nash-Kelvinator.

Rails had difficulty in making the grade as today's compilation of last week's freight loadings disclosed a less than seasonal increase. Changeover of industrial plants for war production was said to have affected shipments.

Stocks in front included du Pont, Allied Chemical, J. C. Penney, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, American Can, Texas Co., U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Sears Roebuck and Chesapeake & Ohio.

A shade under water were Santa Fe, Anaconda, Westinghouse, International Harvester, Glenn Martin and Youngstown Sheet.

Rails were up in the bond division. Commodities were mixed. At Chicago wheat was off ½ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel, corn down ¼ to up as much and hogs ahead 15 to 20 cents at top levels since 1926. Cotton advanced 35 to 60 cents a bale.

In the curb aluminum of America dropped 3 points in the wake of proposals to raise indebtedness in furtherance of corporate expansion plans. Gains were posted for Brewster Aero, Humble Oil, Gulf Oil and Cities Service. Turnover here approximated 72,000 shares versus 71,000 the day before.

Rail Freight Loadings Gain 1% for Week

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that 804,746 cars of revenue freight were loaded during the week ending last Saturday.

This was an increase of 8106 cars, or 1.0 percent, compared with the preceding week; an increase of 10,943 cars, or 1.4 percent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 175,825 cars, or 25.0 percent, compared with 1940.

Selected rails were up in the bond division. Commodities were mixed. At Chicago wheat was off ½ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel, corn down ¼ to up as much and hogs ahead 15 to 20 cents at top levels since 1926. Cotton advanced 35 to 60 cents a bale.

In the curb aluminum of America dropped 3 points in the wake of proposals to raise indebtedness in furtherance of corporate expansion plans. Gains were posted for Brewster Aero, Humble Oil, Gulf Oil and Cities Service. Turnover here approximated 72,000 shares versus 71,000 the day before.

Columbia's Station for the Nation's Capital

There's a device now being offered for sale which is guaranteed, when attached to your radio, to give automatic notice of an air raid.

The salesmen who hawk these so-called "robot air raid wardens" from door to door say that their operation is based on a 24-hour-a-day broadcasting station in the community and declare that as long as the carrier wave of that station is on the air the devices remain silent. The second the carrier wave is interrupted, they point out very convincingly, as presumably it would be in the case of an air raid, the "robot air raid warden" would sound an alarm.

All of which sounds very fine indeed. But this is to call the attention of non-technically-minded people to the fact that the devices are useless (technically-wise persons would know it anyhow).

For, according to E. K. Cohan, the director of engineering for the Columbia network, "it is technically and physically impossible to keep radio broadcast station carrier waves on the air 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. From time to time there are bound to be momentary breaks due to the failure of a vacuum tube or some other technical or mechanical failure. Any such break, although it might be of only one or two seconds' duration and often not perceptible from a program standpoint, is nevertheless sufficient to actuate one of these devices.

"This statement is made so that broadcasters, who are cooperating in every way with military and civilian defense authorities, may not be unjustly accused of giving false air raid alarms as a result of technical failures."

Bridge

You hold the South cards of today's hand at a three-no-trump contract and West opens the five of clubs. How would you play the deal to take nine tricks? The correct solution is presented below.

Today's Hand

North-South Vulnerable

SOUTH DEALER

♠ Q J 10
♡ A 6 2

	NORTH
♠ 9 6 3		♠ 8 7 5 4 2
♡ K Q 9	WEST EAST	♡ 7 4 3
◇ 9 5 4		◇ K 8
♣ A 9 8 5	SOUTH	♣ Q J 10
	♠ A K
	♡ J 10 8 5
	◇ A Q J
	♣ K 7 4 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—5 ♣.

The Solution

Declarer won his no-trump game by reading the opening lead correctly and getting a partial count on the opponents' hands, then playing carefully to run his good tricks. When West opened the club five, the three lower clubs in North and South led declarer to believe that it had been from a four-card suit. Therefore, he could afford to lose three tricks in clubs and one in another suit.

He won the first trick with the club king and cashed the ace, king of spades to unblock for dummy's queen. The ace of diamonds was taken and the queen led. East won his king of diamonds and returned a club, the adversaries taking three clubs. The third club was won by West, who played the king of hearts, hoping to promote a setting trick.

Declarer, however, won on the board and cashed the spade queen, discarding the diamond jack from his hand to clear dummy's diamonds. Then North's three high diamonds were taken for game, declarer winning in all four diamonds, three spades, a heart and a club.

Bach Work to be Sung

Postponed from Palm Sunday afternoon, Bach's "Passion of Our Lord According to St. Matthew" will be sung by the choir of Washington Cathedral tonight, beginning at 8:30. John Jameson, of New York, will be soloist in the evangelist's lines. Other solo parts will be taken by members of the choir, while the arias for soprano and alto will be sung by the boys' choir in unison.

Magnesium Bomb Conquered at Last

Virginia Sibert, a secretary in the office of the Defense Council, holds a half-burned magnesium incendiary bomb that was extinguished in less than two minutes by the sand-like chemical mixture in the bag. Defense officials declare it to be the only agent so far found that will put out, instead of merely control, magnesium incendiaries.

Anyone Can Use "DuMag" Safely . . and Effectively

In fact, DuMag itself looks like sand and feels like sand. It comes in a cylindrical tube, weighs 12 pounds, measures 30x4 inches and is easy to handle.

Cover Bomb With "DuMag" If It Is On a Non-Combustible Surface

If the bomb lands on a flat, non-combustible surface, such as brick, cement or iron, just cover it completely with DuMag and allow to cool.

Prepare "DuMag" If the Bomb Falls on a Combustible Surface

If the bomb is burning on a combustible surface such as wood or a damp surface, cover the fire with a thin layer of DuMag to control the flames. Then prepare a bed of DuMag, about an inch thick, beside the bomb, scoop the burning metal on to it, and finally cover the burning area completely with a layer of DuMag and wait for it to cool before handling.

Samuel Watches Bomb Fighting

Mayor and Other Officials See Demonstration On Reyburn Plaza

(Reprint from the March 5 Philadelphia Evening Bulletin)

Ways of combating incendiary bombs were tried out today on Reyburn Plaza.

Mayor Samuel, civil and military defense officials, and a few pedestrians who happened to be passing, witnessed a "blow by blow" demonstration.

The noise and excitement broke up the Plaza's big formations of pigeons and spoiled the birds' usual hangouts from youngsters and grown-ups, who feed them daily around lunch-time.

The details follow:

Round One: Police Sergeant Daniel Buehler, with a bucket and stirrup pump—the kind that London housewives use—took up his position. Two pounds of magnesium were touched off. It flared instantly into white flame. Buehler pumped and turned a fine spray on the bomb. It shortly put the make-shift bomb under control. The test showed that it takes five and one-half gallons to seven gallons of water to do the job.

Round Two: Four magnesium and thermite bombs were set off. They are the old kind used by Hitler's bombers. They burn furiously for 18 minutes if left alone. Buehler showed that a fine spray of water will control them in about 5 minutes but that sand does a better job.

Round Three: A new-type magnesium bomb, the kind that Hitler used to start 1500 fires in one night in London, flared furiously. Buehler, this time, grabbed up a long tube containing a brand-new chemical compound. He let the bomb blaze for 90 seconds to two minutes, then turned on the chemical.

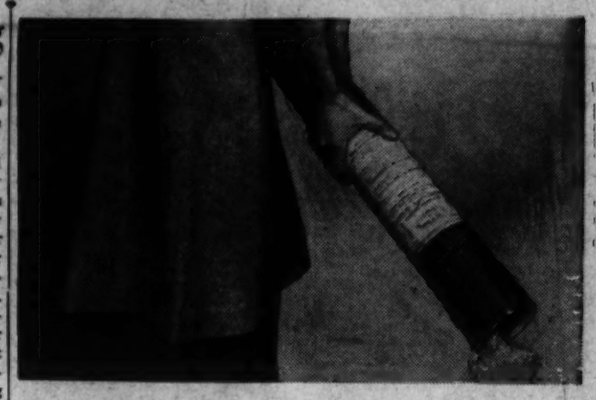
The Windup: A bomb of the most incendiary kind was lighted. Everyone got back a little; the fuse sizzled and went out. Buehler and J. Howard Myers, of the plant fire protection division, cautiously worked the failing fuel loose, sprinkled some of the contents on the ground, and in this fashion fired the entire amount.

Buehler used his chemical compound again and presto, out went the fire, leaving the bomb casement mere slag. It was one of America's fresh answers to Hitler and Hirohito!



Sand Better Than Water . . . "DuMag" Better Than Sand in Besting Incendiary Bomb Fires

DuMag, the new powder compound, has shown its superiority over sand, until recently accepted by many authorities as the safest method in putting out fires caused by incendiary bombs.

Sand may increase the burning time of the bomb . . . but it does act as an effective smothering agent for the flames. It has been widely and effectively used in London. It's liable, however, to give up its oxygen and cause the fire to burn more intensely.

DuMag actually extinguishes the flames. And since it is a compound prepared especially for fires caused by incendiary bombs DuMag will not react with burning magnesium.

Oil Firm Expert Here Finds Answer to Incendiary Bomb

(Reprint from the Philadelphia Inquirer)

A two-pound magnesium incendiary bomb, typical of those dropped on London, was extinguished in one minute and 50 seconds yesterday at the Police College with a new commercial chemical compound.

"Effective Answer"

According to J. Howard Myers, fire prevention expert for the Atlantic Refining Company and chairman of the plant protection committee of the defense council, the chemical is the first in his experience that does more than merely "control" magnesium bombs.

Britain is still fighting magnesium bombs with water sprays and sand, both of which control, but do not extinguish, the bombs. Myers, who has been experimenting "with almost every kind of extinguisher on the market" in the last six weeks, said the new product "appears to be an effective answer to the enemy fire bombs."

Handled Like Sand

The compound has the appearance of beach sand, and may be handled the same as sand. It can be kept around the house in buckets, and scooped or shoveled.

Sprayed water, sand and other agents merely control magnesium bombs until they burn up. In the experiment at the Police College the incendiary was extinguished when only half the solid magnesium sheath had melted.

"DuMag" Safer in Fight Against Incendiary Bombs

Tests prove that "DuMag" is not only faster but safer and more effective than water in fighting incendiary bombs.

Water will reduce the burning time of a bomb. It causes, however, thick clouds of smoke in doing so.

DuMag extinguishes the flame in almost no time flat.

On the other hand, the intense heat of the magnesium fire causes DuMag to form a vaporless layer of oxygen over the flame and smother it.

Putting Out the Fire—and the Smoke

Incendiary Bomb Extinguishing Compound

NEW "DUMAG" CHEMICAL COMPOUND

We can't be ostriches. We can't just bury our heads in the sand and pray that bombs won't come. Maybe they won't. We hope they don't. But if they do . . . we can be prepared and fight them with "DuMAG." "DuMAG" is the new, the revolutionary dry powder compound developed especially for fires caused by incendiary bombs of every type including magnesium, aluminum phosphorus, potassium, sodium and iron. It was born after months of research and experiment. It has been tried, tested and proven superior to all other extinguishing agents. It's America's answer to her enemies.

WATER AND SAND JUST CONFINE THE BLAZE

Britain is still fighting these incendiary bombs with water sprays, sand and talc. They just control the flames . . . don't extinguish them. As a matter of fact, sand and talc often give up oxygen and cause the fire to burn with greater intensity.

"DuMAG" PUTS THE FIRE OUT

"DuMAG" actually puts the fire out . . . and in practically no time flat. It creates a fire-smothering blanket excluding oxygen. It doesn't react with magnesium. It doesn't cause suffocating fumes. It's non-abrasive . . . won't hurt delicate machinery. It's moisture-resistant. It can be used freely and without harm to your person. And it does the job quickly, quietly, efficiently.

GET IT FOR SAFETY

You should have it. To snuff out brilliant flames quickly and protect your black-out. To keep your home and family safe. To prove your invincibility to Hitler and Hirohito.

"DUMAG" BOMB EXTINGUISHER

DuMag . . . the new extinguishing agent for incendiary bombs won't deteriorate, won't lose its strength, and the greater part of it can be reclaimed and used again. It comes in a tube, weighs 12 pounds, measures 30x4 inches.
